Hub Council Asks Nixon Withdraw All U.S. Forces

Unanimous Resolution Also Asks Congress To Cut Off War Funds

The San Anselmo City Council last night called on President Richard M. Nixon to withdraw all U. S. Forces from Southeast Asia by Sept. 1, 1972 and asked Congress to cut off funds for the war. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 14).

After an hour of debate and discussion before a standing-room-only crowd of about 70 persons, the council voted unanimously to adopt such a resolution and send it to the President. Several antiwar statements were greeted with applause, as was the council's final action.

Mayor Warren R. Perry opened discussion of the issue before the council began deliberation of its regular agenda, although at that time he said a full debate of the issue would be impossible, and suggested that councilmen take action as individuals.

Valmar A. Schaaf presented a resolution to the council, a version of which it eventually adopted. Speakers in support ranged from the young to the middle aged.

Schaaf said "We have an unprecedented situation before us today. The president, without consultation of Congress, has taken a grave act. We must, if disaster is to be averted, react as in an emergency," hoping that if citizens express their immediate concern, "wtih that guidance he'll (Nixon) steer us away from what I think is the brink of World War III."

Cynthia Barrows urged the council to act officially, because "it's tougher to ignore. It's time we started speaking out on a local level."

The council resolution declares that "the recent blockade has escalated the war to its most serious state yet," and notes that "a majority of the voters of San Anselmo voted in

Contractor Scraps Ten-Story Building

Facing both organized and individual opposition, San Rafael contractor Arthur R. Nicolaisen last night told the San Rafael Planning Commission that he has scrapped plans for a 10-story office building north of the Civic Center. (Other planning commission stories, page 6).

Nicolaisen, through his attorney Albert Bianci, said that he would submit plans more suitable to the area. He asked for an extension of time to draw up new plans.

The commission unanimously voted to continue the public hearing until 7:30 p.m., June 13, and if the plans are not ready then, to continue the hearing again.

(The Marin County Board of Supervisors declined to take a position yesterday on the proposal pending the results of its hearing before the San Rafael Planning Commission.

(If the commission endorses the plan, supervisors agreed yesterday, they will lodge their protest with the San Rafael City Council.

'(The county planning commission on Monday urged the city planning commission to reject the plans as encouraging more traffic at the already hazardous Manuel Freitas Parkway overpass of Highway 101.)

The Lucas Valley Homeowners Association also had voted against the proposal.

Plans by Nicolaisen called for a 10-story office building, two smaller commercial buildings, underground parking, a service station and a large restaurant. They would have been constructed on the base of the hill north of the Civic Center.

One of the main objections was that it would create a traffic problem at the adjacent interchange with Highway 101.

The only person who spoke from the audience was Patricia Moezze of 710 Portola Drive, San Rafael who proposed a luxury motel and good restaurant on top of it.

"Then the artists who perform at the Veterans Memorial Auditorium would have a place to stay and the residents of Marin County would have a place they could eat and get a good view of the civic center," she said.

After the commission postponed the hearing, more than half the audience left.

Sonoma College Students React

By BONNIE BARD

A small portion of the group of 300 protesters urged the others to go on to block Highway 101, but abandoned that plan when only 15 volunteered to take part.

The group gathered first at a noon rally on the commons at the college to hear a parade of speakers denounce mining of North Vietnam harbors and escalation of the bombing. Chanting and singing, the students marched through each building on campus to gather more supporters. Nervous secretaries locked office doors.

The crowd then marched down East Cotati Avenue from the campus two miles to the center of Cotati where they linked arms in the main intersection at Old Redwood Highway and East Cotati Avenue to stop the flow of traffic.

Cotati police officers merely directed the traffic around the intersection and the blockade had little effect. As more police gathered near the scene, the carnival atmosphere and singing stopped and the crowd divided into two groups. One group wanted to challenge police and march to the freeway while the other warned that someone would be injured if the issue was forced.

Self-appointed peace monitors wearing white arm bands rambled throughout the crowd pleading for a stop to talk of violence.

Cotati's youthful new councilmen Annette Lombardi, Stephen Laughlin and Geoffrey Dunham worked all afternoon to keep the crowd nonviolent. They circulated among the group urging individuals to "keep cool" and not let anyone get hurt.

After only 30 minutes in the intersection, the students became frustrated that the human chain they formed was doing

32 GIs Die In Crash Of Helicopter

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. Army helicopter crashed from apparent mechanical failure 20 miles northeast of Saigon today, killing all 32 GIs aboard, the U.S. command announced.

The CH41 Chinook chopper, mainstay of U.S. Army supply operations, was on what was described as an "administrative mission as opposed to a combat-type mission," the command said. It apparently was ferrying replacement troops from one base to another in the field.

Spokesmen said although the exact cause of the crash was not known "it appears to have been mechanical failure of some kind." They added, however, that "we are still investigating, though, and cannot absolutely rule out enemy fire as a cause until the investigation is finished."

They said there was no indication of any ground action in the area.

The crash took place near a former Thailand army base called Bear Cat. The area has a number of thick rubber plantations patroled by the U.S. 1st

Private Novato Clinic Tries To Create Liquor Repugnance

By MARY LEYDECKER
(Last of three articles)

In a small windowless room in a private Novato hospital, a man sits in what appears to be a barber's chair with a basin attached to the arm. In front of him are rows and rows of liquor bottles displayed on glass shelves before a large mirror.

The scene becomes even more bizarre when he is given a glass of warm whiskey by a uniformed nurse and the little room is heated up to 120 degrees.

Because he has just had a stiff innoculation of a drug that induces vomiting, the man begins to wretch but he is encouraged to keep drinking.

In another larger room in a Kentfield hospital, a group of grown-ups is playacting. One man is portraying himself in a hostile scene that includes a chair which has been designated his wife. Behind him stands another person who is taking the role of his alter ego.

In an effort to determine what kind of facilities are available for treatment of alcoholism, called Marin's biggest social and health problem, the Independent-Journal visited several such facilities and talked to representatives of various agencies.

"I'm in favor of almost anything that works," a member of Alcoholics Anonymous, the longtime "self-help" group for people with drinking problems, said.

The "adversion" method used at Novato Manor Convalescent Hospital is one that even the clinic director of the program admits is termed "barbaric" by some people.

Gopalachari Raman, a smiling, soft-spoken man who still speaks with the accent of his native India, described the treatment at Novato Manor as one aimed at creating repugnance for liquor.

To this end, after a complete medical examination and a drying out period if necessary, the patient is put through a series of treatments in the hot, little room where he vomits liquor until the point of exhaustion.

Then he lies in a hsopial bed, feeling terrible and "repenting"

Thieu Proclaims Martial Law; Seven MIGs Downed

SAIGON (UPI) — The Communist offensive in South Vietnam has reached such a critical stage that President Nguyen Van Thieu today proclaimed nationwide martial law as the mayor of Saigon warned of imminent rocket and artillery attacks on Saigon itself.

Meanwhile, U.S. F4 Phantoms escorting fighter-bomber raids on Hanoi and Haiphong shot down seven MIGs — only the second time of the war there has been such a high toll of the Soviet-built plans. It brought to 13 the number shot down this week — a record.

The Pentagon said the only other time seven of the MIGs were shot down in one day was Jan.2, 1967, also in massive raids on the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

Hanoi radio in reporting what appeared to be the most intensive aerial dogfights on record claimed 14 American planes were shot down and "many" American pilots captured. The U.S. command had no comment on the Saigon reports.

In another escalation of the war, U.S. destroyers were reported to have bombarded Haiphong Harbor, and Hanoi Radio said two were damaged by shore batteries. The U.S. command announced today's raids in Saigon and said the raids and-

U.S. To Use All Means To Cut Hanoi Supplies

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird indicated today the United States will try to stop all methods of delivering weapons to North Vietnam, by sea or by air, in addition to the mining of seven harbors.

Laird also suggested that ships now in North Vietnam's ports will be subject to attack if they attempt to unload their cargoes.

"We will take those actions necessary to prevent the delivery of supplies in North Vietnam," Laird said in a Pentagon news conference. "I will consider delivery to be on the land mass of North Vietnam."

Laird disclosed that one Soviet freighter that had been scheduled to enter Haiphog harbor either late yesterday or today had remained at sea, apparently because of the mines that were dropped in the harbor approaches, Monday night.

The mines are set to become lethal at 7 a.m. EDT Thursday, and the 36 ships now in Hai-

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

School Bus Safety

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new safety standard has been issued by the government, designed to protect 20 million children from unsafe school buses and "incompetent and untrained drivers."

The Transportation Department set new requirements yesterday for school bus maintenance, driver training and exterior identification.

The rule will affect an estimated 256,000 buses and 275,000 drivers, and the states are required to implement it "as soon as possible."

Under the standard, "standees" will be prohibited in school buses, and drivers will be required to wear lap belts.

States also will be required to set up a single agency "having primary responsibility for pupil transportation, inspect buses "at least semi-annually, require daily pre-trip inspection of buses by drivers, and tighten school bus driver "selection and training programs."

Cleric Concerned

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican weekly l'Osservatore della Domenica said today the Roman Catholic Church in the United States presents a "frightening and distressing picture" because of defection and turmoil.

"A tremendous earthquake is shaking the church in the United States to its roots," the magazine said. "Almost every day newspapers and magazines give us news of some fresh disaster: priests who abandon their ministries to take wives, nuns who abandon their convents, parish schools which close their doors for lack of teachers and money. It is a frightening and distressing picture which no one would ever have imagined six or seven years ago."

The article, written by Italian Theologian Battista Mondin, accused Catholic publication in the United States of announcing such events almost with an air of triumph.

Bedspread Flap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Maine's Democratic governor Kenneth M. Curtis, said today he never sent a bedspread to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, and therefore Agnew couldn't possibly return it in protest.

Agnew's office immediately responded that he did indeed receive a bedspread from Curtis "and it's being returned today."

Agnew said yesterday he was returning the bedspread, which he said was sent as a memento by Curtis after Agnew spoke before the Maine Republican convention in Augusta, because Curtis supported antiwar protesters who threw food at his car during a visit to Maine. Curtis said in Augusta, Maine, "I have never sent Mr. Agnew any gifts of any kind at any time, nor do I intend doing so."

Peace Talk Urged

LONDON (UPI) — Britain called on the Soviet Union again today to join in reconvening the 1954 Geneva Far Eastern Peace Conference.

The two countries were co-chairman of the 1954 meeting which ended the French war in Indochina and divided Vietnam into North and South.

The appeal was made by Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home to Soviet Ambassador Mikhail N. Smirnovsky. They met at the Foreign and Commonwealth office.

This was Britain's third attempt in the past six weeks to get the Soviets to agree to recalling the 1954 parley. The last time was April 20.

Rockefeller Wins

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — John D. Rockefeller IV, great-grandson of the legendary oil tycoon, won the Democratic nomination for governor overwhelmingly yesterday in the West Virginia primary.

Jay Rockefeller, 34, nephew of Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, crushed two opponents.

Rockefeller piled up almost 75 per cent of the vote against two opponents, Lee Kenna, assessor of Kanawha County (Charleston); and Bob Myers, a Huntington businessman.

Rockefeller, now secretary of state, said the primary boosted his campaign against Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr.

Abortion Opposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mail coming into the Commission on Population Growth and the American Future is running five to one against a pro-abortion policy recommended by the panel but assailed by President Nixon.

Some of the opposition appeared to be organized.

At least eight politely worded hand-written letters from men, women and children in tiny Amelia, Ohio, condemned the recommendation for liberalized abortion laws that essentially would allow abortion on demand, similar to state laws in New York, Hawaii and Washington.

"God gives life and He should be the one to take it away," wrote one Amelia woman. "Thank you for reading my letter."

Snipers Hit Two

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Snipers today wounded a British soldier and a member of the Ulster Defense Regiment (UDR) in separate incidents, the army said. Troops elsewhere claimed they hit three gunmen.

A bomb planted in a car damaged a dozen stores in Omagh, 60 miles west of Belfast, and slightly injured a soldier, an army spokesman said.

At Strabane, 14 miles southwest of Londonderry, and the nearby town of Sion Mills, troops used rubber buttets to disperse crowds of rock-throwing youths. One soldier was hit by a rock and required hospital treatment.

Bill Aimed At Halting Nuclear Tests In House

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — A bill, cosponsored by Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, was introduced in the House yesterday in an effort to halt underground nuclear testing.

Mailliard was one of 59 coauthors of the measure. Principal sponsor is Rep. Donald Fraser, a Democrat from Minnesota.

The legislation calls upon the President to propose to the Soviet Union and other nuclear powers an extension of the limited test ban treaty of 1963 to include underground testing.

Chamber Session Dates Changed

The San Rafael Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly meeting at noon May 25 at the Mayflower Inn.

The regular meeting dates have been changed from the third Friday to the third Thursday each month. However, since chamber manager Robert Nelson won't be back from his vacation until May 22, this month's meeting will be held on the fourth Thursday, according to a chamber spokesman.

Meeting days were changed because some retail merchants found a Friday meeting conflicted with business, the spokesman said.

1 Each For Humphrey, McGovern

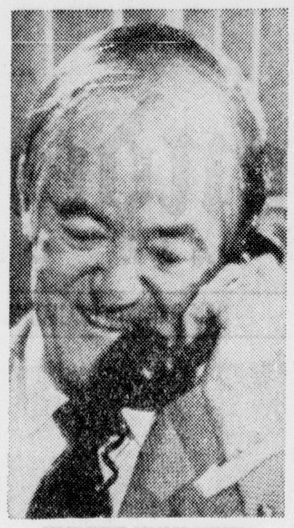
By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Hubert H. Humphrey won his fourth presidential primary Tuesday, swamping George C. Wallace by two-to-one in West Virginia, while George S. McGovern averted his first serious primary setback with a come-from-behind victory over Humphrey in Nebraska.

The primaries again proved indecisive to the presidential aspirations of Humphrey and McGovern, enhancing the importance of their major, pre-convention showdown in California June 6.

In a "beauty contest" primary limited to the two candidates, Humphrey trounced Wallace in West Virginia by a bigger margin than he did last week in Indiana and, once again, stopped Alabama's governor from breaking through for a victory north of the Mason-Dixon line.

McGovern, once heavily favored after an intensive, year-long organizational effort in Nebraska, his neighbor state, barely managed to beat Humphrey who jumped in only after late polls showed him with a chance for a major upset.



HUBERT HUMPHREY
Ready for California

Beset by charges that his positions on abortion, marijuana, and amnesty for draft evaders were "radical," McGovern was rescued by a heavy student vote in Lincoln and the ballots of farmers and small townsmen after dropping populous Omaha to Humphrey.

A loss to Humphrey in Nebraska —marked all along as McGovern territory —would have been a distinct setback for the South Dakotan's strategy, aimed at building momentum for the California primary. Even in victory, the narrow margin of his win failed to give McGovern any edge over Humphrey.

West Virginia was by far Humphrey's most impressive win. Humphrey managed to earn a majority of the vote, a goal that had eluded him in previous primaries.

In Nebraska, with 95 per cent of the vote reported, McGovern led with 72,917 or 41 per cent. Humphrey was second with 62,819 or 35 per cent, and Wallace was third with 22,686 or 13 per cent. The rest of the candidates received a scattering of votes with no one getting more than 3 per cent.

With 76 per cent tallied in W. Va., Humphrey led with 182,077 or 68 per cent. Wallace had 86,386 or 32 per cent.

In separate contests, West Virginia elected 35 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach July 10 and Nebraska elected 22 of its 24. But the number of delegates entered were so large and the ballot so complicated, no results were expected before later today, at the earliest. McGovern's lead in delegate votes was not threatened.

President Nixon strolled away in Nebraska's Republican primary over token opposition. There was no preference primary for the GOP in Nebraska.

As the votes came in from West Virginia and Nebraska, Humphrey, McGovern, and Wallace were looking ahead — Wallace to Michigan and Maryland next week; Humphrey and McGovern to California.

But Humphrey paused long enough to savor victory in West Virginia, the state in which John F. Kennedy stopped his first bid for the presidency in 1960.

"This is a very important and sentimental occasion for me," Humphrey told his campaign workers crowded into a small room at his Washington headquarters. "It was one place where I personally suffered a political defeat but the nation gained a great president."

Two hours later —as the Nebraska outcome became clearer and he had failed to poll 40 per cent in Omaha — Humphrey returned to tell his followers "we hoped we might sneak through with a squeaker."

"California, here we come," Humphrey told his Nebraska supporters over the telephone but earlier said he would again take on Wallace, head-to-head, in Michigan and Maryland, May 16.

Humphrey said "I've had the courage to meet Wallace head-on and the rest of them have run out."
run out."

But he brushed off any predictions in Michigan and Maryland, where Wallace is so strong he might make a northern breakthrough, and said "we'll take them one at a time." At the same time, he warned of a "tremendous Republican crossover" that could help both Wallace and McGovern in Michigan.

McGovern, also in Washington, went to his headquarters around midnight, still unwilling to claim victory before retiring for the night. He said it was "too early to be absolutely sure" but later added he was becoming more convinced that "we are in fact going to win."

Reading the results in Michigan, Wallace said he only expected 15 to 20 per cent of the vote in West Virginia.

"We weren't able to get to West Virginia so we feel pretty good about it," Wallace said. Even more surprising was his respectable third-place finish in Nebraska, a primary he ignored.

Bicycle Fatalities Stay On Increase

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —For the sixth straight year, bicycle accident fatalities increased in 1971 and injuries to cyclists jumped 34 per cent over 1970.

California Highway Patrol Commissioner Harold W. Sullivan reported Tuesday that 95 persons were killed in bicycle accidents last year compared to 89 fatalities in 1970.

Novato Election Expenses Listed

Daniel P. Donovan, top runnerup in the Novato City Council election April 11, listed campaign expenditures totaling $2,202 in a statement filed Monday at Novato City Hall.

Donovan listed contributions totaling $2,055, including $1,225 from "Novato Citizens for Responsible Government," a group that made substantial contributions to the campaigns of winning candidates, Fred F. Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young.

Donovan also listed a contribution of $75 from the Century Club of Marin, which also contributed to the Ruegg and Young campaigns.

Mrs. Young, with expenditures of $2,727, was the top spender among the three winning candidates.

THE ALCOHOLIC

Repugnance Method Tried In Novato

for several hours, Raman said. At the end of the day, he is encouraged to join in a cheerful dinner hour where an effort is made to teach alcoholics they can have a social time without liquor.

Raman, who has worked with alcoholics both in this country and in England, estimates that 80 to 90 per cent of them do not have deep psychological problems. Although Novato General has counselors and a psychologist on the staff, the emphasis is more on breaking the habit of drinking by conditioning the alcoholic against liquor.

Often the treatment needs to be repeated in six months or a year, Raman said, and he added that an alcoholic must be motivated to want to quit drinking for any success to be achieved.

"I had one man whose boss made him come here — he arrived with a bottle taped under his car — there was no hope from the outset," Raman remembered with a smile.

In addition to the adversion treatment, some Novato Manor patients get "narcotherapy," which involves injections of pentothal anesthesia in an attempt to recreate sleep patterns many alcoholics have lost. (Alcoholics often have lost the ability to dream, Raman explained.)

Another facility using adversion and narcotherapy treatments for alcoholism is Center Medical Hospital in Kentfield, a private facility where 13 beds are available.

(Raman estimated that the average stay at Novato Manor costs patients $1,000, sometimes paid for by insurance.)

At Ross General Hospital's new 18-bed unit on the third floor of a building across the street from the hospital, both drug and alcohol addicts are being treated, but the alcohol users outnumber the drug addicts by 9 to 1.

Dr. Bernard Bradman, the psychiatrist who heads all of Ross General's psychiatric services, described the program as one emphasizing therapy and counseling in a setting where complete medical care is available.

This facility for alcoholics, with its pleasant living room, balconies, spacious bedrooms and spectacular views, seems to be the country club of alcoholism facilities in the county.

Detoxification is also the first step at Ross, if that is necessary, and a complete physical examination. The drying out period, however, Dr. Bradman said, is "only the first step and the least important one."

Dr. Bradman believes that "you can't treat the alcoholic until you know why he drinks." An effort to do this is made by the staff.

Once up and about, the alcoholic is encouraged to enter into a variety of activities. These include art therapy, where a young woman counselor asks patients to work on a project in which they draw pictures of such subjects as "how I view myself and how I'd like to be."

Psychodrama is another tool, and counseling takes place on both an individual and group basis. The staff includes several former addicts, Dr. Bradman said, because he has found "they're the best kind of therapists. They've been the route."

Activities for patients one day last week included a voluntary outing to Samuel P. Taylor Park, where the current patients were joined by former patients for a picnic, a candle-making session and group therapy, according to counselor Margaret Whaley.

With various new facilities now available in Marin for alcoholics, those involved with them privately agree that there is a good deal of competition going on for patients and also for county contracts.

"Don't quote me," one man said, "but there certainly is a certain amount of grubbing for business going on" because most of the facilities are not filled.

Communications and education are the main problems, according to Lloyd Churgin, county drug and alcohol abuse coordinator.

He said it's difficult enough to get the word about new programs around to private physicians, who see the alcoholic most often, but even harder to get it out to the general community.

November of 1970 for total withdrawal of United States military forces from Indo-China by June 30th of 1971."

But, says the resolution, "the war continues to weigh heavily on the people of San Anselmo by the draft of our young men and by the diversion of resources from long ignored local needs."

For these reasons, "the San Anselmo City Council urges the president to announce the withdrawal of all U. S. ground, air and naval forces from the war zone by Sept. 1st, 1972, subject only to the release of the prisoners of war. . .and urges Rep. William S. Maillard and senators John V. Tunney and Alan Cranston to support the legislation now being developed in Congress and currently under consideration by the House Foreign Affairs Committee to cut off all money for the war after September, 1972."

During discussion of the resolution several residents urged passage.

Mrs. Schaaf, the wife of the original resolution's author, said "What our president has done is a war crime that comes down on the head of everyone who doesn't protest it."

Councilman Lewis W. Stewart, who said he was "too used to doing things the proper way, which always seems to take two weeks," urged taking action on Schaaf's motion last night.

Dr. Martin G. Blinder, who said he was "moved by what I hear tonight" also expressed support for the motion, terming the war "illegal, fruitless, politically onerous, dishonest, immoral and dangerous."

Kenneth L. Anderson commented that foreign policy is not the province of a city council, but said the war "certainly affects the City of San Anselmo as it does every other city in the nation."

Mayor Perry broke the momentum of the resolution's almost certain unanimous passage, saying he couldn't accept parts of it. During a five-minute break he rewrote the resolution, deleting two paragraphs .

Deleted with council approval was a request that the President "announce an immediate cease fire by the U. S. forces on the ground and in the air and on the seas adjacent to Indo-China and remove the mines from the Port of Haiphong and the other ports of North Vietnam." Also deleted was a paragraph urging Nixon to "cut off all military aid to Saigon now."

A third paragraph of the original draft almost prevented unanimous passage. It said "the blockading of the ports of North Vietnam and the bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong by the United States has escalated the war into its most serious crisis and is risking World War III," in urging the President to act.

Perry said he could not accept that, and the matter appeared to be a stalemate until Councilman Stewart suggested a compromise, making it part of the preamble, not part of the resolution itself. Perry said "I'll go for that," made the resolution unanimous and won the crowd's applause.

little to stop traffic around Plaza Park.

The crowd then marched three blocks north to the intersection of old Redwood Highway and Gravenstein Highway where they successfully blocked traffic entering Rohnert Park and were within a half block of the freeway.

Officers from the California Highway Patrol, Sonoma County Sheriff's Department, Cotati and Rohnert Park Police Departments diverted traffic in the area and waited in a group to see if students would confront them and try to take the freeway.

The group again became divided between those who wanted to challenge the police and others who wanted to keep everything nonviolent and remain in the intersection.

A fistfight between two demonstraters was quickly broken up as Dunham flung himself between the combatants. The tension mounted as more police gathered and the sheriff's department new helicopter hovered overhead.

When the tension was at its highest, 300 students were armlinked in the intersection to stop traffic. A loaded hay truck from the J. R. Bordessa Hay Co., Petaluma, then came barreling through the intersection at 30 miles per hour, scattering the demonstraters and nearly striking several. Students screamed madly as they jumped out of the path of the truck.

At that point, a police officer quietly warned demonstration leaders that students were in danger and that the illegal assembly must be dispersed within 15 minutes.

Within five minutes of the order the group returned to the plaza area and dispersed by 4 p.m.

Police officers remained in the background throughout the afternoon and did nothing that might have excited the crowd. There was no violence, vandalism, injury or arrest.

On campus, President Thomas H. McGrath rejected requests to close the college, although buildings were emptied twice by bomb threats and calls attendance was minimal.

Speaking at the noon rally, McGrath urged students to oppose the war in a peaceful and constructive manner. "To protest violence with violence makes no sense at all," he told the crowd. He said he would make campus facilities available to groups to organize peaceful events to end the war.

McGrath drew cheers of praise from the crowd when he read his personal letter to President Richard M. Nixon opposing the war and calling for a firm withdrawal date.

"I believe the Vietnam War is and has been a tragic mistake and the sooner we recognize this and withdraw completely the better," he said in the letter. "By escalating American military involvement in Indochina you are risking a major confrontation with China and the Soviet Union. I believe this to be a mistake with potential tragic consequences."

Many students spent the evening on campus making new picket signs. A group of students again manned an informational picket line at the main entrance today and called another rally for noon on the commons to plan further anti-war activities.

phong harbor have until ttat time to get out safely.

Laird said, however, that none had yet attempted to do so.

"That (Russian) freighter is now at sea beyond the territorial waters of North Vietnam," Laird said.

He said U.S. officials knew what kind of cargo was aboard the unnamed ship but declined to give any details.

Laird did not make clear whether the United States would wait until the Thursday deadline before trying to stop all deliveries by any means into North Vietnam.

Asked whether the United States would interfere with ships which made any attempt to unload equipment outside North Vietnamese ports and send it ashore in small boats, Laird said, "We will take those actions that are necessary to prevent the landing of military supplies in North Vietnam."

As for the South Vietnam's ability to stop the North Vietnamese offensive, Laird said it was not a question of weapons at present, but it is a question of the leadership.

"The South Vietnamese will have to understand —and they do now understand —that the ground combat responsibility is theirs," he said.

In answer to questions about all types of possible weapons delivery —airlift, unloading of ships now in the harbor, and approach of other ships into the territorial waters claimed by North Vietnam —Laird replied: "We will take those actions that are necessary to stop the delivery of supplies to North Vietnam."

The implication was clear that the United States would not allow an airlift, perhaps going so far as to shoot down cargo planes trying to land, and would not allow unloading of the freighters now in port.

Calling on all Americans to rally to the support of the President's decision to mine harbors of North Vietnam, Laird said, "This is no time for quitters or talk of instant surrender."

Laird said he was confident the American people were not about to "board a bugout shuttle."

Democrats on the House Foreign Affairs Committee voted in favor of ordering withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam by Oct. 1, subject to release of all American prisoners of war.

Warren said that a flood of mail and telegrams since Nixon's Monday night, announcement reflected 51 or 6-1 approval of his action.

As for the performance of South Vietnamese forces during the Communist offensive, Laird said that in some instances they had failed to fight as well as hoped. But he said in general they were "holding fast in a very difficult ground combat."

Laird said they face additional attacks made possible by modernized military equipment supplied by the Soviet Union.

There was one optimistic assessment on the outlook for Nixon's Soviet visit beginning May 22 by Labor Secretary James Hodgson. Hodgson said at an embassy reception Tuesday night that Nixon had assured his Cabinet "the Russian summit meeting is on" and would be held ultimately "even if it has to be postponed."

STATE NEAR FINALE OF ANGELA CASE

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—The state could conclude its case against black militant Angela Davis next week providing the prosecutor and defense attorneys can agree on the language of "stipulations" covering about 20 out-of-state witnesses.

The attorneys met Tuesday afternoon and worked on the wording of the documents, which would summarize the testimony of the potential witnesses about Miss Davis' whereabouts in the months following the 1970 Marin County courthouse shoot-out. If they agree, the witnesses from New York, Miami, Chicago and Detroit won't be called to the stand.

Miss Davis, 28, an avowed Communist and former UCLA philosophy instructor, dropped out of sight after four men died in the courthouse gun battle and was arrested two months later in New York.

It was the worst air accident in Indochina since Nov. 28.

naval bombardments ordered by President Nixon would continue indefinitely.

Shortly after Thieu proclaimed martial law, Saigon Mayor Do Kien Nhieu went on television to warn residents that an attack on Saigon was imminent. He asked residents to sandbag their homes and issued detailed instructions for personal safety during shelling and rocket attacks. He also announced the government was setting up classes to teach first aid and emergency evacuation procedures.

There were talks in the National Assembly of giving Thieu special powers to deal with the emergency. There already have been widespread roundups in Hue and Da Nang of persons whose loyalty was considered suspect. Field reports said 3,000 suspects had been transferred from threatened Hue to Da Nang, farther down the coast.

In addition to bombing attacks on Hanoi and the port of Haiphong, other U.S. planes struck Communist rail lines and highways.

SUNSHINE SURVIVORS — Tom Wilkinson (left) and Ron Flory, miners trapped in the Sunshine Mine for a week, soon after they were rescued yesterday on the 3,700 foot level of the mine. The pair had been brought up from the 4,800-foot level by a rescue cage.

Two Miners Are Rescued In Idaho

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI)— Two young miners who survived for a week in fire-ravaged Sunshine Mine by eating the lunches of their dead coworkers were rescued Tuesday night from a tunnel nearly a mile underground.

Rescue workers also found 12 more bodies, some slumped over tables with their coffee cups half full, bringing the death toll to 47.

After the discovery of Tom Wilkinson and Ron Flory on the 4,800-foot level of the mine, the search for the 44 men still missing was temporarily suspended.

"We're not going to do anything during the night," said U.S. Bureau of Mines Director Elbert Osborn. "Where we want to go is the deeper levels. That's got to be where they are."

Twenty-five more bodies were brought out of the mine during the night, leaving 11 of the 47 victims still inside.

Rescue officials planned another attempt today to get the big elevators on the mine's No. 10 shaft in operation.

Wilkinson and Flory, both 29, had heavy beards and were caked in dirt and dried sweat when they staggered into the arms of their ecstatic wives and relatives at the mine entrance. Both were in good condition.

"We got sandwiches and what have you from the lunch buckets of the guys that didn't make it," Flory said later at West Shoshone County Hospital when asked how they survived for seven days at the 4,800 foot level of the nation's richest silver mine.

Corte Madera Is Asked To Impose Ban On Building

Directors of the Marin Estates Homeowners Association have asked the Corte Madera Town Council to declare a moratorium on all building and grading until the town's general plan has been updated.

The proposed freeze would affect plans for a major regional shopping center east of Highway 101 and hundreds of homes and apartments on developers' drawing boards.

"For those of us who do not wish to see Corte Madera blessed with the dubious benefits of regional commerce, traffic, apartments. . .and more apartments, the hour for corrective action is immediate," Larry P. Weingarth, president of the association wrote. "For the town to proceed . . . prior to a thorough revision of the general plan is both ludicrous and reprehensible."

The letter asked the council to take action at its next meeting, Monday.

Rec Advisory Board Is Due

The Ross Town Council, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in town hall, will attempt to solve its long-standing recreation controversy by appointing a seven-man recreation advisory board.

Mayor Frederick S. Allen would give no hint yesterday of the persons being considered for appointment.

Proposals to create a recreation commission with power to spend public money divided the town into two opposing factions in April, and sparked a petition against such a commission signed by 174 residents.

The council agreed to appoint the advisory board at its April 13 meeting.

Behr Drops Tomales Bay From 'Wild Rivers' Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Tomales Bay has been dropped as a candidate for inclusion in pending legislation to protect wild and scenic waterways in California.

The bay did not receive a high enough priority rating in a recent state study of threatened waterways to warrant its inclusion in his "wild rivers" bill, said Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

He also said that a study of the bay by the Conservation Foundation was due for completion late this year. Behr, a member of the advisory council for the study, said its findings will help assure protection of the bay.

The senator previously had appealed for requests from Marin organizations to include the bay in his bill (SB 107), but instead he was asked by several conservation organizations not to include it while the study was being done.

His bill would protect the Eel, Trinity, Klamath, Smith and American rivers.

Pair Hurt In Freeway Crash

Two San Francisco residents were injured at 3 p.m. yesterday in a collision on Highway 101, just south of the Waldo Tunnel, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

The driver, Thomas E. Wilcox, 27, suffered swollen forehead and a passenger in his car, Marjorie Carsner, 43, suffered a swollen chin and a cut left hand. Both said they would see their own doctors.

According to the patrol, Wilcox was unable to stop in time to avoid traffic that had backed up on Highway 101. As he attempted to change lanes, he collided with another vehicle.

Home Accidents Kill 26,500

CHICAGO (UPI) — Accidents in the home in 1971 were fatal to 26,500 persons, injured four million and cost Americans about $1.9 billion.

So says the National Safety Council listing falls as the number one cause of death, with fires and burns more than one-fifth. Almost a third of those killed in the home, the council said, were persons 75-years old or older. Children under five and persons 45 to 64 each accounted for about one-sixth of the fatalities.

Use Permit Given For Care Facility

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night granted a use permit for a group care facility at 424 Mission Avenue.

Stanley Seiderman and Thomas Hurley asked for the facility to handle 16 to 20 mentally handicapped patients on a 24-hour basis with one attendant in charge at all times.

Theodore E. Gilman of 411 Mission Avenue objected to it on the grounds that it would not be compatible with residential areas nearby.

Attorney Clark M. Palmer Jr., speaking for the applicants, said the facility would take patients who could not go home but could not stay in a mental hospital. He said that they could not drive, so there would not be a parking problem.

Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner said that the city now had two similar facilities and had not had any complaints about them.

The commission granted the use permit for six months and if there were no complaints, it could be extended for another year.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

CONDOMINIUMS — Approved the final map of 107 condominium townhouse units on 18 acres at the end of Manuel T. Freitas Parkway for Terra Linda Development Co.

ZONE CHANGE — Postponed until further staff study the rezoning from unclassified to 20,000-square-foot lots the area along Locust Avenue and Gold Hill Grade. Sister Samuel of Dominican College asked that the college be excluded.

REZONING — Denied an application from Dreyfuss and Hinkley to rezone six lots from 519 to 539 Belle Avenue from duplexes and single-family residences to triplexes.

EXTENSION — Approved a one year extension of a use permit for excavation east of 101 Cresta Drive for Paul Sade.

CAR LOT — Denied Harold Holzinger a use permit for a used car lot at 525 Second Street on land owned by Marin Municipal Water District.

POOLS — Granted Kenneth Doodenday a use permit for an elevated pool deck at 21 Coast Oak Way and Harold Weiss a use permit for a pool at 56 Dorian Way.

TRIPLEX — Granted Joseph Pedroli a use permit for a triplex at 205 Shaver Street in a commercial zone.

ARCHITECTURAL — Gave architectural approval for a storage shed at 29 Bay Street for Zander Enterprises Inc.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday to meet with the San Rafael City Council.

Bedroom Tax Hike Suggested

The Rohnert Park Recreation Commission Monday night recommended the maxiumum bedroom tax be increased from $60 to $200 per home.

Recreation director James Pekkain said the commission agreed that the tax must be increased so that new homes being developed generate enough money to develop neighborhood parks.

He said the commission also recommended that the fee be waived or reduced when developers provide parks and recreation centers in the development plans.

The commission recommendation will go to the city council for consideration at its meeting Monday at 7 p.m.

Marijuana Case Is Dismissed

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday dismissed marijuana and liquor law violation charges against a Fairfax youth, ruling a search for contraband was illegal.

Judge Robert A. Smallman said San Rafael police had no right to search a closed duffel bag in the car of 18-year-old Gordon David Blankenburg after finding an empty beer bottle under the seat Feb. 26.

Blankenburg was arrested after eight plastic bags of marijuana were found in a paper bag inside the duffel bag.

He was charged with possessing marijuana, having an open liquor container in the car and possessing liquor while under age.

Republican Women Will Hear Bagley

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night unanimously voted to continue until June 13 the hearing on the Marist Seminary property on Grand Avenue between Linden Lane and Belle Avenue. (Another planning commission story, page 1.)

The delay came on the request of attorney Albert Bianchi who told the commission that another use for one portion would be submitted to the planning staff probably within a week.

The nine-acre site had been divided into four parcels on which the commission had granted use permits for a ballet school, church and tennis club. Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner reminded the commission. That action had been taken at its April 12 meeting.

The commission had denied the use of a fraternal hall applied for by Michael J. Scotto.

Bianchi would not say who was planning the development or what use would be made of the fourth plot.

On a motion by Commissioner Albert J. Boro, the matter was put over until the June 13 meeting.

Brief Encounter At College Of Marin Over Defaced U.S. Flag

A Lagunitas School District trustee, opposed to the war in Vietnam, and four other persons staged a tug of war yesterday over a defaced American flag at the College of Marin.

No violence took place, and no arrest was made.

Trustee Richard Sloan was identified by Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond as one of three men keeping the defaced flag flying.

Sometime before 12:30 p.m. it had been lowered, painted with a black swastika and raised upside down (an international sign of distress). A state flag hanging below it was not marred.

The base of the 25-foot steel flagpole and the bottom of the rope had been painted red, apparently as a protest against President Nixon's action in the war in Vietnam. No witness saw the desecration take place.

Student Ronald Treleven, 19, attempted to lower the flag, with the help of Diamond. The pair was opposej by Sloan and two unidentified men, pulling on the other end of the flagpole rope.

According to Earlene Jones, public relations officer for the college, a campus security officer arrived and Sloan and his companions withdrew.

Mrs. Jones said the defaced U.S. flag will be burned.

Sonoma-Marin Fair State Aid Restored

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — An $11,600 cut in state funds for the annual Sonoma-Marin Fair in Petaluma has been restored by the Department of Agriculture.

The funds mistakenly had been reverted to the general fund by the department, a goof discovered last month by the Joint Legislative Committee on Fairs. Restoration of the funds was announced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, a member of the fairs committee.

About 200 faculty, administrators and students at the College of Marin yesterday announced plans for an antiwar gathering tomorrow morning to protest President Nixon's mining of Vietnam harbors and intensification of air attacks.

According to Harvey Poskins, a student working with the Marin Peace Coalition, the protest will begin at 9 a.m. on the College Green in front of the Student Union on the Kentfield campus.

Poskins said telegram blanks will be provided to send protesting messages to President Nixon and local representatives in Congress. Blanks will also be available to send in support of Rep. Bella Abzug's, D-New York, motion in the House of Representatives calling for Nixon's impeachment.

The group is urging participation in an antiwar rally planned for noon tomorrow in San Francisco, Poskins said. and more information will be available at the morning protest.

Daily Muir Beach Patrol Funded

The Marin County Board of Supervisors agreed yesterday to let Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos use his mounted posse to chase bares at Muir Beach.

Forty nudity arrests have occurred in West Marin since March 14, Mountanos explained to the board. He said he wanted authority to hire one member of the mounted posse — a volunteer reserve group — to work weekdays and two men on weekends, to patrol the beach and warn visitors to "keep your bathing suits on."

Supervisor Michael Wornum spurred laughter in the audience when he declared nudity "was a question of volume and amount and performance — it's a touchy subject."

Mountanos said the $750 allocation would come from payroll funds originally earmarked for Constable Michael McLean, who has resigned since the West Marin Judicial District Court was made a part of the municipal court system.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

CABISN — Voted 4-0 in support of the bill by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, abolishing private leaseholds on 14 state-owned cabins at Steel Ravine, despite objections by Hugh H. Dougherty of Stinson Beach.

NURSING HOMES — Instructed Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator, to ask state officials to deputize Marin public health officials to make inspections of nursing homes when complaints arise. The board heard nurse Lily Whittle and nurse's aide Ann Balfour claim that conditions of inadequate care and improper feeding exist, but that state inspectors never visit during "off" hours when the problems are obvious. Michael L. Harris, chairman of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin, reported by letter that the county's ad hoc nursing home committee had met five times since December on charges brought by Mrs. Whittle and others, and was refining a list of 14 recommendations for presentation soon to the supervisors.

NURSING — Approved a one-year contract to allow student nurses from Sonoma State College to gain experience by assisting nurses in various duties in the county Department of Health Services.

LATE FILINGS — Authorized Assessor Bert W. Broemmel to act on the board's behalf in accepting late filings for homeowners' exemption, up to June 15. A new state law makes such late filers still eligible for up to 80 per cent of the exemptions. Deadline for filing for full exemption was April 15.

BICYCLE TRAIL — Approved plans and specifications and called bids to be opened June 7 for approximately two miles of bicycle trail along Corte Madera Creek from Bon Air Road and College Avenue. Estimated cost is $18,000.

NOVATO — Ordered county counsel to begin necessary legal work to remove unauthorized retaining wall on county flood control district property on Arroyo Avichi Creek, built by adjoining property owners.

RESOLUTIONS — Adopted a resolution urging a "yes" vote on Proposition One — Cal-Vet home loans — on the June 6 primary election ballot, proclaimed May 7-13 as "Hire a Veteran Week" and May 8-14 as "Family Week." Adopted a resolution commending Gerald R. Green, who has resigned from the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission, for his service since 1969.

LIVESTOCK — Approved payment of $80 compensation to Tomales rancher Gordon Thornton for four lambs apparently killed by a dog April 10 and 11.

PARADE — Adopted a resolution petitioning thz state Division of Highway for permission for the West Marin Junior Livestock Show parade on Shoreline Highway in Point Reyes Station June 18.

WIDENING — Approved plans and set June 5 for opening bids on the fourth, final phase of widening South San Pedro Road to four lanes between Lochinvar Road and Riviera Drive. The San Rafael City Council approved the plans for the jointly financed project at its May 1 meeting.

CAFETERIA —Voted to pay off immediately a $16,000 debt for Civic Center cafteria equipment, thereby saving $3,500 in interest had the payments been spread over five years as originally planned.

STRAWBERRY — Approved a contract allocating up to $11,000 for Gonzalez and Oberkamper civil engineers to do required work for proposed flood control work in the Karen Way area.

DEVELOPMENT — Continued to May 16, discussion of figures from the county planning department showing a rapid rate of residential growth in Marin. The matter will be discussed at 8 p.m. during a review of the preliminary countywide general plan.

PARK — Approved unanimously the signing of a contract for acquisition of the 441-acre North Bay Front Park on Gallinas Creek south of Hamilton Air Force Base. The site will be purchased over a nine-year period with part of the $784,000 price tag expected to be paid by the federal government.

HORSE RINK — Allocated $500 in park and recreation funds to the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association to help with construction of a horse riding rink. The funds are part of some $2,300 given the county by the developer of Sleepy Hollow for recreation.

COUNTY CODE — Amended the county code to require issuance of a permit for any construction in creek channels. Previously, a permit was required only for construction of retaining walls.

PRESERVE — Continued to June 6, a hearing on the rezoning of a portion of the county's sprawling agricultural preserve to 60-acre minimum lots. The area to be considered is northwest and adjacent to Novato. The hearing was continued at the request of supervisor Baptiste who was out of town.

ROAD BID — Awarded a $334,404 bid to Ghilotti Brothers Construction Co. of San Rafael for widening Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield. Ghilotti was the lowest of five bidders.

THINK GREEK — Proclaimed May 27 and 28 as "Think Greek Days" in Marin in recognition of the fourth year of the Greek Orthodox Church in the county. The Church will sponsor a fund raising Grecian festival May 27 and 28 at the Marin County Fair Grounds.

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed former mayors William Franchini of San Anselmo and W.E. Radtke of Fairfax to succeed supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni in case the latter is incapacitated in an emergency. The board also appointed James F. Reed of San Anselmo to the county disaster council and Robert R. Beebe to the family and children's advisory committee.

Bridge Leaper Is Identified

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A woman who plunged to her death from the Golden Gate Bridge Monday has been identified as Marcella Aragon, 19, of Fairfax.

The San Francisco Coroner's Office said the identification was made yesterday by the victim's sister, Barbara, of San Francisco.

A bridge painter said the young woman jumped from the north end of the bridge at about 1:45 p.m. The Coast Guard recovered the body 40 minutes later.

The coroner's office said Miss Aragon who lived on Park Road, apparently was employed as a live-in babysitter.

Survivors, besides her sister, include her father, David, of Horse Springs, N.M., and another sister, Eva, of Kentfield.

Guilty Verdict In Racism Charge

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal judge found a San Francisco motel guilty of racial discrimination Tuesday and awarded $750 to a black television actor and his white wife.

Judge Albert C. Wollenberg rendered the judgment against the Doyle Motel and its night clerk, John Keane.

He ruled Keane had refused to rent to John E. DeCoste although he later leased it to a white person.

The judge also said Keane quoted a $30 a night room price while the maximum rate for the room was $26.50.

House Gallery Shut To Public

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker Carl Albert, in an action without recent precedent, ordered the public excluded from the House galleries Wednesday for security reasons.

Albert said he took the action reluctantly but at the urgent suggestion of Capitol police. He declined to say how long the exclusion would last.

Albert acted after the House session was three times disrupted Tuesday by outbursts of antiwar protesters in the public gallery.

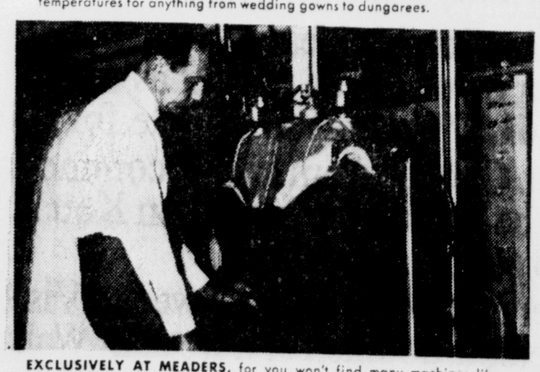
Here's a Pictorial Story of Meaders Quality!

PRE-SPOTTING is a vital phase of the Meaders operation. Each garment is spotted before it goes into the cleaning machine, and again after, if necessary. A "steam gun" is used in combination with one of the dozens of spot removing compounds on hand.

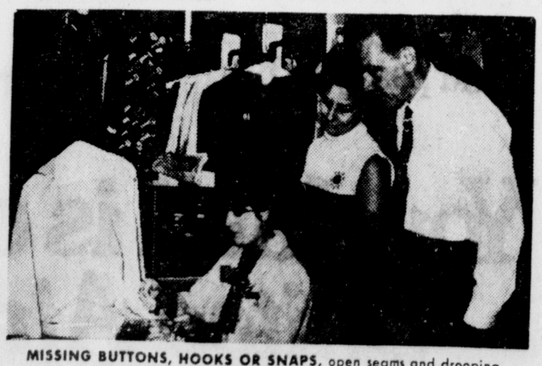
DRESSES ARE PRESSED ON MEADERS "JENNY", an adjustable dress form which puffs up to the size of the dress and forces hot air and steam through the fabric from the inside. Besides pressing and blocking, it texturizes and conditions the fabric too. Hand pressing completes the job.

AT MEADERS SWEATER STATION this machine, which is used exclusively for pressing sweater sleeves, adjusts to press and block sleeves from the inside out so there's never an unsightly crease. All sweaters are conditioned to restore original softness and blocked to size.

MEADERS' COMPUTERIZED CLEANING MACHINE is programmed to the exact specifications of each individual load. The IBM punch card tells the machines type of solvent, cleaning time and solvent and drying temperatures for anything from wedding gowns to dungarees.



EXCLUSIVELY AT MEADERS, for you won't find many machines like this anywhere, your coat is reshaped when pressed. This retains the curve of the coat so it hangs properly, the way your tailor intended. Once a coat is pressed and blocked, the lining is ironed by hand and the collar rolled and formed.



MISSING BUTTONS, HOOKS OR SNAPS, open seams and drooping hems are repaired by Meaders skilled seamstress. Meaders does not charge for making minor repairs—in fact, they pay the customer a dollar if they fail to replace a missing button! At Meaders Cleaners, small things matter.

Marin Supervisors To Support Survival Inc. Through June 30

Marin County Supervisors yesterday voted a $7,800 transfusion to keep Survival Inc. in the recycling business through the end of June.

Nearly 100 young persons, mostly wearing hand-lettered badges supporting the nonprofit, ecology-minded organization, cheered the vote setting up a short-term contract with the group.

Roger Bockrath and John Van Daam, spokesman for the recycling organization, explained that the county support would keep the five recycling centers going and abolish the fee of 50 cents per patron's carload imposed three week's ago as an emergency measure.

Supervisor John F. McInnis, who moved the special allocation, trimmed the group's request from $10,000. Van Daam said the additional $2,200 would enable Survival, Inc. to do necessary research to present a full-scale request June 6 for $40,000 for part of fiscal 1972-73 and plans for eventual selfsufficiency. Instead, McInnis won board approval to create an advisory committee on solid waste and recycling problems.

Pierre W. Joske, county parks and recreation director was named chairman of the panel, which will include spokesmen for garbage collection firms, dump owners, spokesmen for Survival Inc. and the defunct Whole Systems Inc. recycling operation, and other experts.

Bockrath is a former Independent-Journal photographer who used prize money won for his photos of the Aug. 7, 1970 Marin Civic Center shoot-out to found Survival, Inc.

Bockrath explained that Survival, Inc. volunteers and its paid supervisors who earned $25 a week for running recycling centers at five central and southern Marin high schools were "burning out" from the exhausting process of separating out recyclable material into salable form. He said Survival, Inc. wanted to pay its 13 supervisors $75 a week, hence the plea for county aid.

"Do you think Survival could do a better job of recycling than existing garbage collectors, with the subsidy," Board Chairman Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. asked.

Bockrath declared "the present mode of getting rid of garbage is 'throw it in the ground — then you can stop thinking about it'. We need an alternative to using things once and throwing them away." He argued that commerical scavenger firms cannot pay garbage men's pay scales and recycle most materials.

Joseph Garbarino of the Marin Sanitary Service said? "I have to respect Roger, but hand recycling will never, ever work — the only possible way is machinery." He added that glass firms and other industries will accept recycling materials from ecology groups "as a public relations thing" but will not pay scavenger firms for the same materials, in many cases. "We're talking about a quarter of a million dollars right off the top" for the necessary machinery for economical recycling, he argued.

Garbarino added that, "I'd like to see Marin County take the lead to require each dump to allow recycling, but not one city in the U.S. operates a successful composting plant" such as Bockrath had urged.

McInnis noted that the future recycling committee may come up with such proposals as using compacted, unreclaimable waste as fill for the proposed Bay Area Front Park north of San Rafael.

Olema's Exclusion From Recreation Area Agreed

The Marin County Board of Supervisors agreed yesterday to ask that the Village of Olema be excluded from the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

The supervisor's action, approved on a 4-0 vote with supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste Absent, was a rejection of a joint recommendation from the county's planning and parks and recreation commissions for inclusion of the village.

The board appeared to agree with supervisor Louis H. Baar who said if the village were included it could affect property values and use of lands within the West Marin community.

The proposed recreation area calls for government purchase of about 24,000 acres in Marin and San Francisco counties.

Three proposals are being considered by congress with hearings scheduled to begin tomorrow. Generally, the proposals call for inclusion of the northern waterfront of San Francisco (primarily the Presidio) and Marin's coastline and adjacent properties to Olema.

Other villages such as Muir Beach, Bolinas and Stinson Beach would be excluded.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni is to travel to Washington, D.C. Friday with county counsel Douglas J. Maloney to present the county's favorable position at the congressional committee hearing.

(While there, Arrigoni also is expected to seek federal funding for drainage improvement in Ross as part of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.)

Supervisors also agreed yesterday that the ridgelands above Tamalpais Valley and the area between Wolfback Ridge and Highway 101 in Sausalito should be included in the federal purchase.

Schools Chief Not Selected

Trustees of the San Anselmo School District failed in closed session last night to pick a new superintendent.

Interim Supt. Ivan D. Chappell said the board indicated it may decide from among the five finalists for the post at a meeting Tuesday.

W. Kenneth Lowry, the former superintendent, accepted a post in the Redwood City Elementary School District in February. Chappell, hired in March as interim head, is not among the finalists.

The five were recommended by a screening committee.

The board also took no action last night on possible cutbacks in teaching staff for the 1972-73 school year. Chappell said the board has indicated 12 teachers may not be rehired next year, although a state hearing officer intervened in the matter at the teachers' request.

Chappell said the officer, in a recommended decision to the board, declared the district has the right to reduce staff on the basis of declining enrollment and to make room for teachers returning from leave but cannot make cutbacks on the basis of an increasing teacher-pupil ratio.

The interim superintendent said the board was awaiting an additional report from the hearing officer before making a final decision on staff trims. A special meeting on the issue was set for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Red Hill School.

The San Anselmo School District board also:

RECREATION — Indicated it would approve spending $4,000 — or half the cost — for a summer recreation program at district schools to be run by the city. After hearing a program report by Gary Howell, city park and recreation director, trustees said they would take up the matter again Tuesday.

SERVICES — Pending ratification by the Marin County Superintendent of Schools Office, agreed to an arrangement under which the schools office will pay the district the maximum amount authorized for the position being filled by Stephen L. Parodi, former San Anselmo assistant superintendent on loan to the schools office.

AUDIT — Named the firm of Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin to audit district books for 1971-72 at a fee of $1,400.

HORSE — Approved a request by the Horsemen's Association of Sleepy Hollow to construct a riding ring at Hidden Valley School.

PROJECT — Approved a $500 matching fund project on student listening technique.

Three-Car Crash Injures Novatan

A Novato woman was injured at 7:25 p.m. yesterday in a three-car rear-end collision on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, west of Eliseo Drive, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Marilyn L. Foisy, 31, of 104 Trish Drive, said she would see her own doctor, according to the highway patrol.

Her car was struck from the rear by a car driven by Geraldine Gottbrath, 33, of 442 Via Hidalgo, Greenbrae, the patrol reported, and that car had been struck from the rear by a third driven by Nicola J. Lazazzera, 25, of 55 Madrone Avenue, Fairfax. According to the highway patrol, Lazazzera caused the accident by driving without paying attention to traffic.

Special Week Set By Novato Police

The Novato Police Department will observe Police Week, Sunday through May 20, with open house at police headquarters May 18 and 19 from 7:30 to 10 p.m.

Displays of equipment, discussions and films are on the program both nights, according to Lt. Richard Courier. Officers will be assisted by Explorer Scouts.

Blood Is Donated For College Bank

A total of 69 students donated blood at an April 27 drive sponsored by Alpha Gamma Sigma, College of Marin branch of the California Community College Honor Society.

The blood is stored for use by College of Marin students and their families, the society said.

Rights Panel To Discuss Ombudsman Proposal

The Marin County Human Rights Commission, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center, will discuss a recent proposal that the county establish an office of ombudsman to deal with complaints.

The ombudsman proposal, suggested by the family and children's services advisory committee, was referred to the rights commission last week by the county board of supervisors.

The board said it felt the rights commission already served the function of an ombudsman in handling grievances but requested additional information.

In related matters, five of the commission's nine members will complete their terms this month.

Persons interested in being considered for appointment to the commission may contact any of Marin's five supervisors.

Commissioners whose current terms will end May 15 are chairman Stewart N. Boxer, Thelma McKinney, Frederick S. Mayer, Richard S. Harding and Ernest J. Gray.

KTIM Discussion

Candidates for the Second Supervisorial District, incumbent Peter Arrigoni Jr., and Dr. William J. Filante and Barbara Boxer, will appear tomorrow at 9 a.m. on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" to discuss problems that face their district and answer questions called in to KTIM during the live broadcast. The program will be rebroadcast by tape-recording, Sunday at 10:05 a.m.

Pot Case Looming As Test Of Federal Law

The case of a San Rafael man, threatened with deportation because of a marijuana conviction, may be used as a test case against a federal law which calls for deportation of aliens convicted of drug offenses, his attorney said today.

Gerald Anthony Tucker, 26, who was convicted of having marijuana last October, is in the midst of deportation proceedings just because of that conviction, according to his attorney, Lloyd E. McMurray of San Francisco.

Tucker, who was managing a rock band when arrested June 29, 1970, was reared in the suburbs of London.

The offense was reduced to a misdemeanor by Marin Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire Monday, but even so he could still be sent back to England, his attorney said.

Tucker was arrested in a raid on a Fairfax home where about 40 plants of marijuana were found growing on the roof. A jury acquitted him of a charge of growing marijuana, but found him guilty of having three kilos of marijuana found in a suitcase.

He was sentenced to 30 days in jail and placed on two years' probation.

Three Displaying At Library In Novato

An exhibit of recent paintings by Novato artist Herta Rothschild, mostly abstracts and impressionistic, are on display this month at the Novato Branch Library.

On display in the exhibit cases are dried miniature Williamsburg arrangements by Peg McQuillen and on the bulletin board, black and white photographs by Richard Jung.

Wood Burning Bill Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly has voted final legislative passage to a bill allowing local smog control districts to permit the disposal of wood wastes by outdoor burning.

The lower House concurred, 58-0, Tuesday in Senate amendments to the measure by Assemblyman Eugene A. Chappie, R-Cool, and sent it to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill was amended in the Senate to include a provision which Chappie said would help save 500 sawmill jobs in El Dorado County.

Terra Linda Annex Talk Resumes

Talk of annexing Terra Linda to San Rafael was to be resumed today after a lapse of 11 years since Terra Linda residents turned down such a proposal.

To meet at noon at the Holiday Inn for what they described as an "exploratory" conference were San Rafael City Mgr. James H. McCown; his assistant, William J. Bielser; Richard Less, chairman of the Terra Linda Community Services District, and district board member Robert N. Bennett.

Bielser said the meeting was arranged by George A. Walser, chief of the services district fire department, a Terra Linda resident since 1964.

"The growth of San Rafael around us will make it harder in the future to maintain a reasonable tax rate," Walser told the Independent-Journal. "It's only fair that the people of Terra Linda be able to decide if they want to grow with the city."

The half-square-mile, primarily residential community has a population of 4,000. Its assessed value is "about $8.1 million, he said.

The Terra Linda tax rate, he said is $1.35 per $100 assessed valuation and, with annexation, "would drop to the San Rafael level. . .we'd save at least 45 cents without a doubt." The San Rafael tax rate is 90 cents per $100.

Walser yesterday said he was approached on the annexation matter by San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini during Little League opening-day ceremonies last month. Walser quoted the mayor as saying, "Hey, chief, when will you let us take over your fire station?"

Bettini said he favors annexation, but "we're not aggressively looking for annexation. If they want to talk, we'll be happy to sit down and discuss it with them."

Bielser stressed that the meeting was only for "exploratory discussion. This is a pretty sensitive area."

Officials from the two sides in March 1971 had talked of reopening negotiations aimed at possible merger, but no action subsequently was taken.

Greenbrae Man Is Hurt In Accident

A Greenbrae man was reported in satisfactory condition today in Marin General Hospital with multiple facial cuts and a fractured collarbone suffered in an auto accident last night in San Francisco.

He is Jacques Aslan of 280 Lower Via Casitas. Details of the crash were not available from San Francisco police.

Marinwood Trail System Urged By Tam CSD

The Tamalpais Community Services District, on the recommendation of its park and recreation commission, decided last night to send a letter to Allan Marin, developer of Marinview, urging that he construct trails throughout development as proposed in its master plan.

Glenn Lambacher, publicist of the district, explained that board members were concerned that the trail system was going to be altered from its original design.

The district also authorized a pilot survey of voter opinion in the district regarding the functions of the services district.

According to Lambacher, the pilot survey, if successful, will precede a districtwide survey. It will include questions on public relations to open space acquisition and park development.

The district adjourned to a meeting May 23.

STUDENTS CREATE A FAMILY

Bolinas Resident Group Seeks Protection From Development

A group of Bolinas residents will appeal to the Marin County Planning Commission to protect the village from nearby development by restricting surrounding land to agricultural use and limiting dwellings to one unit per 60 acres.

The A-60 zoning —sought by the Bolinas Planning Group, according to member Paul Kayfetz —is similar to zoning imposed on much of West Marin by the county commission.

Kayfetz said 146 people, gathered at the Mesa Clubhouse Monday night, objected to plans for development near the village, and some signed a petition for the zoning.

He said the petition, requesting A-60 zoning between the developed areas of the village and the Point Reyes National Seashore to the north, would be presented to the county planning staff late next week. The final work of seven people, it was originally written by Peter Marshall, a Bolinas teacher.

Kayfetz said 40 housing units are planned on 206 acres on top of the Bolinas Mesa south of the Radio Corporation of America property, west of Mesa Road.

Sterling Bunnell of Mill Valley and Richard Felger of Phoenix, Ariz., proposed the development, but, after hearing residents opinions, said if they could sell the land for the $230,000 they paid for it, they "would be glad to get out from under," according to Kayfetz.

Residents discussed buying the property, but came to the conclusion it would be unfeasible to buy all 2,800 undeveloped acres surrounding the village.

Kayfetz said he argued for no growth, or growth limited to 10 per cent of the village's present population over the next 20 years, pointing out that any development threatens the "sense of community identity" Bolinas now enjoys.

Kayfetz, an attorney, said he thought limits on growth were legal, citing initiatives to do that in two East Bay cities, Livermore and Pleasanton.

Student Government Fee Hike Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly has passed a bill permitting state college student governments to increase their fees from $20 to $30 per academic year.

The bill by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Maddy, R-Fresno, was sent to the Senate Tuesday on a 53-0 vote with no debate. The measure suggests that some of the extra money may be used to support student "governmental affairs representatives" who could lobby the legislature.

Youth Held In Extortion Try

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— FBI agents arrested a Coast Guard officer's son Tuesday, saying he had tried to extort $500,000 from the Southern Pacific Co. by threatening to blow up a passenger train.

Charles B. Larkin, 17, a College of San Mateo student, was apprehended at a pay telephone booth from which the FBI said he had placed a call to a woman he believed was bringing the money to him.

Instead the woman was a female FBI employe and the call was traced with the cooperation of Pacific Telephone Co.

A.S. Magistrate Richard Goldsmith set bail at $10,000 for Larkin, whose home is in Belmont and who identified himself as the son of Capt. Charles E. Larkin, Coast Guard air station commander at San Francisco International Airport.

Stafford Suggests No New Water Taps

Marin Municipal Water District should prohibit new water connections unless voters approve a bond issue to expand the water supply, a candidate for the district board said today.

Dr. Ronald T. Stafford of Sausalito, seeking the district seat in Southern Marin, said the current board was "creating a water shortage" by continuing to allow new connections despite the district's own claim that it barely has enough water for current needs.

Stafford said in a press release that he favors stopping development in Marin by stopping expansion of the water supply, but added this ultimately is up to the voters when presented with bond issues by the district.

"We cannot depend upon the countywide plan or any other plan to save us from overdevelopment and overpopulation," he said.

Stafford is seeking the district seat in Division 5, which includes Sausalito, Mill Valley, Marin City, Tamalpais Valley, Belvedere, Tiburon, Corte Madera and East Corte Madera. Other candidates are Robert G. Anderson Jr. and Willard A. Hall, also of Sausalito.

Conditional Use Permit Is Granted Hub Supper Club

The San Anselmo City Council last night issued a conditional use permit for a restaurant serving wine and beer and featuring live entertainment at 137 Tunstead Avenue. (Another San Anselmo City Council story, page 1)

Darris D. Bruhn, who had previously received planning commission approval for the supper club, told councilmen the entertainment he planned would be confined to unamplified string groups, intended as a complement to dining.

Dora Solvason, who manages an apartment building directly across the street from the proposed restaurant, appealed the planning commission decision to the city council, citing possible noise hazards from the music and the business being open from 10 a.m. until 2 a.m.

She presented a petition she said had been signed by 37 neighbors along the street. Bruhn presented a petition he said was signed by 39 residents, all in favor of the restaurant.

Council voted 4-1 to uphold the planning commissioners, noting that the use permit is only conditional, and that if noise problems should arise, it can be reviewed at any time.

Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro voted no, siding with neighbors that the noise might disturb them. (Police Chief Raymond R. Buchigani had recommended denial to the planning commission, citing noise and lack of off street parking.)

Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson made approval conditional on city administration receiving a signed contract for 10 off-street parking spaces.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

SIGNS — Overrode the city planning commission by unanimously voting to allow service stations to use price signs, increased from four square feet to six square feet parking lot identification signs, and doubled application fees for signs built without a permit.

VARIANCE — Approved, 4-1, Anderson objecting, a variance to allow living quarters over a dance studio in a commercial zone at 167 Tunstead Avenue. Anderson objected to the lack of off-street parking in the plans.

BOTTLES — Put over until May 16 consideration of an ordinance banning the sale of beverages in one way bottles.

CLEAN-UP — Reviewed and approved plans for the city's annual spring cleanup May 20 and 21, at a cost of $1,300.

NAME — Held over until May 16 consideration of a resolution changing the city's nickname from "the Hub City" to "The City by the Creek".

LIAISON — Named David R. St. Johnson, 17 Island Drive, as city liaison with the county Human Rights Commission.

RASNIKOV — Refused to appoint Richard A. Raznikov as its liaison with the human rights commission. Mayor Warren R. Perry said Raznikov had made false statements about the city while running in the recent municipal election campaign, saying Raznikov shouldn't be considered a city representative. Perry said he was referring to charges the city conducted secret meetings and had plans to widen city streets.

COURT — Unanimously withheld payment to Mallot and Peterson-Grundy for their repairs and resurfacing of tennis courts in Memorial Park, pending review of the work. Daniel Yanow of 34 Sais Avenue, cited defects in the job.

GIFT — Accepted, on behalf of the city's park and recreation commission, the gift of a tennis court net from Yanow.

PAVING — Approved repaving all of Lincoln Avenue, and all of Bank Street, for $15,700.

BLASTING — Ordered City Atty. John G. Buresh to write an ordinance requiring a minimum liability insurance policy of $100,000 for companies doing blasting in the city. The law will also allow the Department of Public Works rather than the city council to issue blasting permits.

LIBRARY — Voted to spend $110 to determine the contributions needed for each member of the library staff to join the Public Employees Retirement System.

FOREMAN — Appointed Carson H. Floyd as city parks foreman at a salary of $737, effective May 16.

PARK — Asked Paul Selinger to return in two or four weeks with completed plans and cost estimates for a playground area at Robson Park.

LIGHTS — Approved asking Pacific Gas and Electric Company to install 100 watt bulbs in all city street light poles where it is feasible. (The company had been installing 40-watt bulbs, which wereincluded in the city's original purchase order from the company.)

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. next Tuesday for a public hearing of the fire department budget, in the city fire hall.

Check Charges Are Dismissed

A charge of passing a bad check for $6,400 against Fred Toshiro Moriguchi of Sausalito was dismissed yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

Deputy Dist. Atty. John D. Posey asked for the dismissal because he said he didn't have enough evidence to prosecute.

Moriguchi was said to have deposited the check from the account of the Santa Rosa Press-Democrat in his own account at the Sausalito branch of Bank of America last year.

In addition to fuchsias, ferns, geraniums, succulents, African violets, house plants and shrubs will be for sale, she said.

ECOLOGY-LINKED FAD

Mill Valley stationery store proprietor Christian Stiendl demonstrates recycled paper that lets note writers be as brief or as long-winded as they wish, without waste. The stationery, called "rapping paper," comes in a 15-foot roll, in a box with a cutting edge resembling dispensers for waxed paper or aluminum foil. Stiendl said the recycled notepaper is proof that "society is taking ecology seriously — including businessmen and consumers."

Bagley Bill Creates Marin Regional Park

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill creating a regional park district in Marin, but failing to match the aims either of county supervisors or citizens groups, has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

The bill, AB 2353, as drafted by the Marin County counsel's office,would allow a maximum property tax rate of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation — half the 20-cent limit asked by the supervisors, 10 cents for land acquisition, 10 cents for park development.

The bill also excludes a request from citizens groups that two directly elected citizens join the five supervisors as the governing board of the special district. The groups, banded together as People for Parks and Open Space, originally proposed that the district be run by an autonomous and directly elected board, but shelved their proposal after the supervisors voted to make themselves its governing board.

Creation of the district, if Bagley's bill becomes law in time, would be subject to approval by a majority of the voters in November's general election.

Bagley said that he had not included citizens on the board because this provision had not been endorsed by the supervisors. "I have not got the prerogative to be referee between competing local voices —that's what the board of supervisors is for," he said.

He predicted that the bill will pass quickly and be on the county's November ballot.

Formation of the district, once Bagley's bill became law, also would require approval by the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission before going to the voters.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, is a coauthor of the bill.

El Salvador is the smallest of the Central American republics, covering 7,722 square miles.

Stereo Equipment Taken From Shop

The Great Northern Wireless Co. of Kentfield was left almost wireless by burglars who took a variety of stereo equipment from the shop last week.

Sheriff's deputies reported burglars smashed the glass front door of the business at 943C Sir Francis Drake Boulevard between 5 p.m. May 2 and 10 a.m. May 3 and took $2,200 in equipment.

Behr Predicts New Try For Tax Exemption Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to grant a three-year property tax exemption for home improvements has been shelved by a Senate committee, but its author predicts a new try will spring it from the committee.

The bill, SB 92 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, failed to clear the committee when it got only four votes, one shy of the needed majority. The senator said yesterday that seven of the nine committee members have agreed to reconsider the bill.

Strong opposition before the committee came from the state Board of Equalization, Department of Finance and county assessors. All objected primarily to the loss of tax revenue.

Behr argued that tax revenue ultimately would increase because his bill would encourage additional home improvements and would help catch improvements now done without notice to local officials. His bill was supported by the California Building Trades Council, which argued it would provide more jobs.

Plans Bud For 'Town Meeting'

A gathering of residents on May 24 may provide the basis for the city's first "town meeting," and one San Rafael housewife is doing everything she can to bring together "the two sides of the hill."

Priscilla Bull complains of a lack of "citizen participation in San Rafael issues" and believes a prime reason is Puerto Suello Hill, "which divides people on one side from those on the other."

The hill — a slow rise near the Civic Center — divides the old part of town from the new, she said. "There are two 'downtowns,' one at Northgate Shopping Center and the other in the old downtown section. If everyone saw the city as a whole, the citizens could be more effective," she said.

So she and a few other San Rafael residents, after watching "better informed voters" evolve from Larkspur and San Anselmo town meetings, arranged what she said was a preliminary meeting for 8 p.m. May 24 at city hall.

She and others want to see if there's "a broad interest" in pursuing a town meeting. "This will only be a planning session," she said.

"There's gradually been more citizen participation in city issues during the past few years but it's been haphazard," she said. "Homeowner groups are battling to save a hillside here, a slice of waterfront there, and are not in contact with each other."

Issues which residents might rally around could include open space or development of the old courthouse square, she said. "We want to get a large cross-section of San Rafael opinion and eventually bring it to the city council or other city agencies."

The idea for a town meeting was conceived at a city council meeting early in April, Mrs. Bull said. One councilman mentioned the idea of a town meeting, "and several of us who were interested decided to see if there's a wider interest."

Other town committee members, she said, include Peter C. Meyer, the county elections officer and a San Rafael resident, and Jerry Russom, president of the Mont Marin Homeowners Association.

Superior Court Judge Joseph P. Wilson will moderate the May 24 discussion session, she said.

$8,000 Raised For March Of Dimes

More than $8,000 was raised Saturday by about 250 young people who rode in the Bike-A-Thon for the March of Dimes, according to Harry Moore, Marin campaign coordinator for the agency.

The March of Dimes has scheduled another Bike-A-Thon for May 5 next year.

Group Selects New Officers

The Santa Venetia Improvement Association has elected new officers and scheduled a special meeting to discuss a Fourth of July picnic.

Elected were Mrs. A. J. Whittle, president; Theodore R. Owens Jr., vice president; Hilton J. Guillory, secretary, and William A. Foisy, treasurer.

The board will meet at 8 p.m. May 15 at the John MacPhail School library to discuss the picnic. The board's regular meetings are held the first Monday of each month at 8 p.m.

STUFFED PORK chops and applesauce are tastefully paired in this menu. This dinner is prepared in the new plastic oven cooking bags.

STUFFED PORK CHOPS

Cooking Bags Proving Popular

Even in warm weather, we need meals that provide lots of good nutrition. And if you are limiting menus to meats you consider suitable and not serving fresh pork, it is time to reconsider.

The cooking of pork today is easier. Research done at Iowa State University has determined that an internal meat thermometer temperature of 170 degrees is the right one for the best tenderness and juicy meat.

Oven cooking bags help overcome worries about dry, tasteless meats. These self-basting plastic bags allow you to prepare a meal in the oven without a watchful eye.

First dust oven cooking bags with one tablespoon flour. Also, carefully follow manufacturer's suggestions regarding two-inch-deep roasting pans.

BAKED STUFFED PORK CHOPS

1 tablespoon flour
1 small onion, chopped
1 stalk celery with leaves, chopped
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups soft, stale bread crumbs
½ cup seedless raisins
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried thyme generous sprinkling pepper
5 or 6 double pork chops with pockets
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

APPLESAUCE

3 lbs. tart apples, peeled and quartered
½ cup currant jelly
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Shake 1 tablespoon flour in family size (14" x 20") oven cooking bag and place in 2-inch-deep roasting pan. In large skillet lightly brown onion and celery in butter. Add bread crumbs, raisins and seasonings.

Toss lightly; add 2 or 3 tablespoons warm water, so stuffing just clings together. Trim fat from chaps. Fill pockets with stuffing, if necessary with string. Brush with melted butter and season with additional salt and pepper.

Add applesauce ingredients to oven bag spreading them out. Arrange chops on top. Close and secure bag with twist tie and puncture six half-inch slits in top. Cook about 1 hour. Makes four to six servings.

PILAU

A True Southern Special

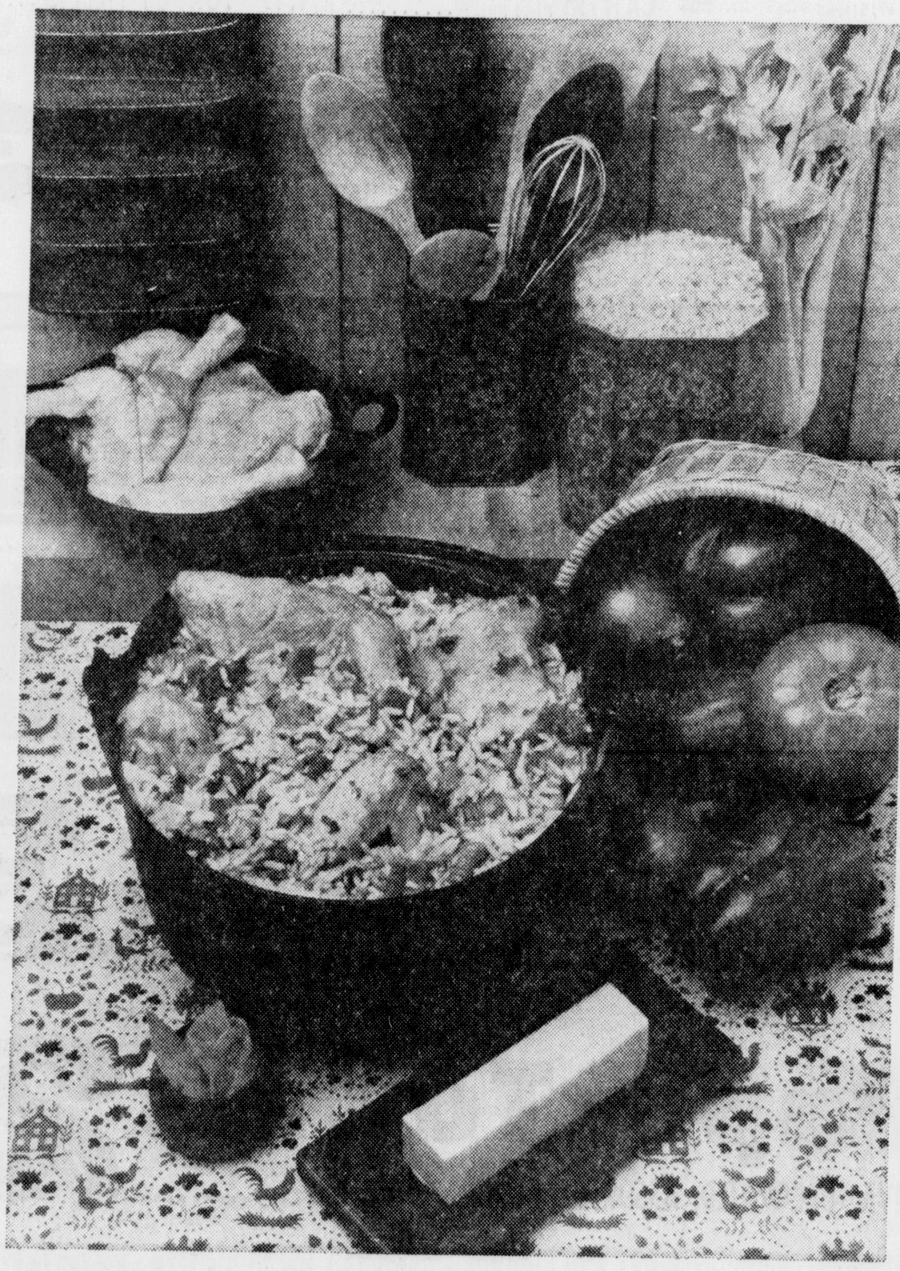
The low country of South Carolina, centered around Charleston, is much different from the rest of the state. It is in these marshes by the sea that the first plantations took form, when landowners discovered that the marshy lowlands along the banks of the Ashley and Cooper rivers were ideal for growing rice.

Few foods seem so fitting to South Carolina as pilaus. No doubt, the idea of this rice dish came to South Carolina by early traders from India in the days when Charleston became a great seaport. Southern cooks changed the ingredients from oil to tomatoes, and cooked it so that the dish came out dry and greaseless.

Rice, of course, is the main ingredient in a pilau — pronounced pelos in Charleston. From there the ingredients vary greatly. There are pilaus with squab or okra, with tomatoes or eggs, with shrimp or chicken.

This version of Charleston's chicken pilau is a hearty, economical meal-in-itself. The chicken and rice, cooked in chicken broth, are flavored with celery, onion, green pepper, tomatoes, cayenne pepper and bay leaf.

Accompanied by a hot bread such as corn bread, Chicken Pilau is ideal for family meals.



CHICKEN PILAU has been a favorite dish of Charleston since Colonial times when rice was first successfully grown there. Ideal for family meals, it is a hearty, economical meal-in-a-dish.

CHICKEN PILAU

1½ cups sliced celery
¾ cup coarsely chopped onion
¾ cup diced green pepper
¼ cup (½ stick) margarine
2 cups chicken broth
1 can (1-pound) tomatoes, undrained
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 bay leaf
1 (2½-pound) broiler-fryer, cut in serving pieces
1½ cups uncooked rice
Chopped parsley

Saute celery, onion and green pepper lightly in margarine in Dutch oven for about fiva minutes. Stir in chicken broth, tomatoes, salt, cayenne pepper and bay leaf. Add chicken. Cover; cook over medium heat until chicken is partially cooked, about 20 minutes. Stir in rice. Cover and cook over low heat for about 25 minutes.

Remove cover; cook until rice and chicken are tender and liquid is absorbed, about five minutes. Arrange chicken and rice in large serving dish. Garnish with chopped parsley. Makes six servings.

How Frozen Fruits Can Be Kept Best

Frozen fruits stored in the ice-cube compartment of the refrigerator will keep well for a few days. If kept in a separate refrigerator freezer compartment or a freezer they will keep satisfactorily for several weeks.

To maintain quality for a longer time, they must be kept in a freezer that maintains a temperature of zero degrees or lower.

Horseradish Gives Zing To A Pot Roast Dinner

A basic beef pot-roast can be brightened for spring with the flavor zip of prepared horseradish.

Tomato juice and onion also prove their flavor compatibility in this easy recipe that braises a beef blade pot-roast to fork tenderness for a satisfying meal.

HORSERADISH BEEF POT-ROAST

3 to 4-pound beef blade pot-roast
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup tomato juice
¼ cup prepared horseradish
½ cup chopped onion
Water or tomato juice
2 tablespoons flour

Brown pot-roast in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add salt and pepper to pot-roast. Add one-quarter cup tomato juice, horseradish and onion. Cover tightly and cook slowly two and a half to three hours or until meat is tender. Remove pot-roast to heated platter. Add water or tomato juice to cooking liquid to make 2 cups. Thicken with flour for gravy.

Elegant Luncheon Feature

Right now when you're looking for "something different" in salad ideas for spring along comes pineapple seafood salad.

Its simple elegance makes it ideal for entertaining. This whole meal salad is easy to prepare with pineapple and your choice of fresh, frozen or canned seafood including incluidng ever-popular tuna.

The secret here lies in marinating the pineapple slices in a classic oil and vinegar dressing, and then later using the marinade on shredded lettuce. Some of a pleasant creamy herb dressing is tossed with the seafood-vegetable mixture, the remainder offered at serving time.

PINEAPPLE SEAFOOD SALAD

1 (1 lb. 4 oz.) can pineapple slices
⅓ cup salad oil
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
¼ teaspoon onion powder
1/16 teaspoon white pepper
3 cups cooked shrimp, crab meat, lobster or tuna
¾ cup thinly sliced celery
⅓ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons thinly sliced green onions
Creamy Herb Dressing
Small lettuce leaves
1 quart shredded lettuce
5 cherry tomatoes, halved

Combine two tablespoons syrup from pineapple with oil, vinegar, seasoned salt, onion powder and pepper in small jar; cover and shake well. Drain pineapple slices well. Pour dressing over them; chill two hours or longer.

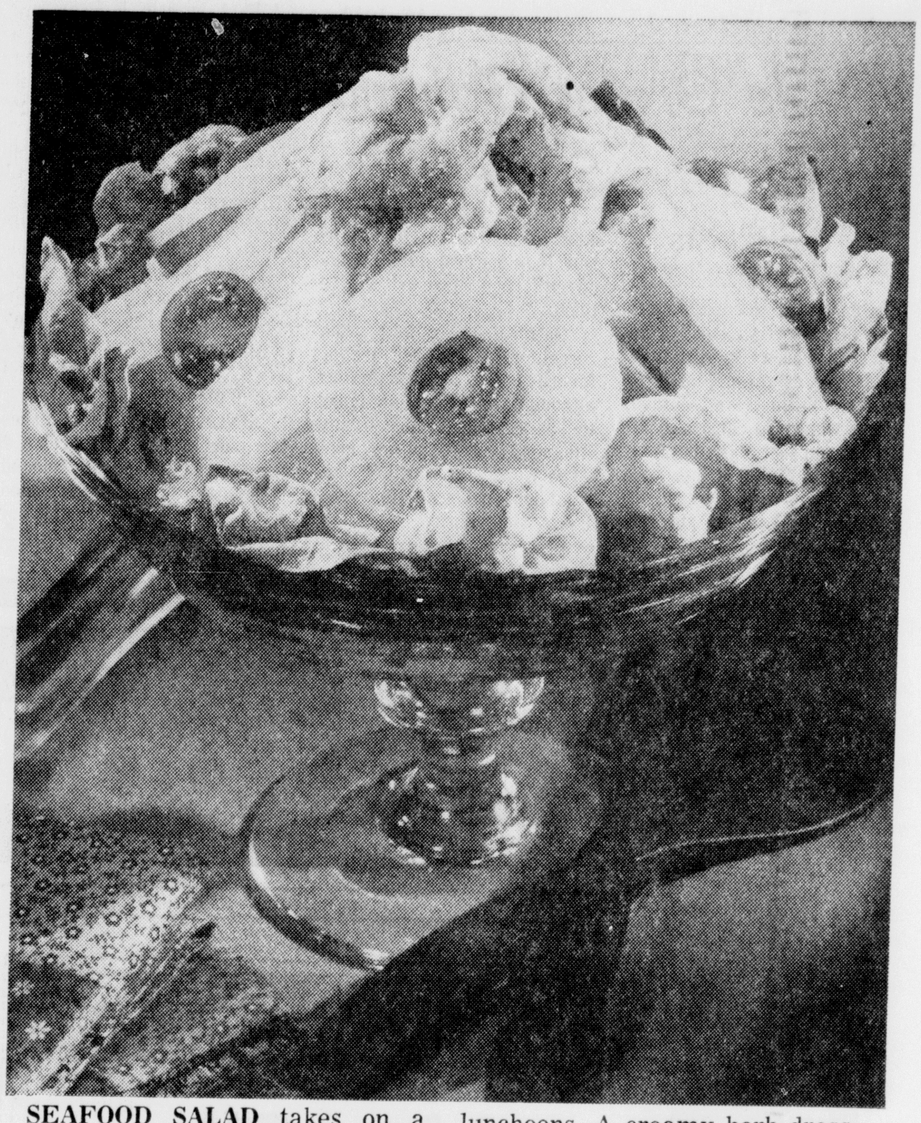
Combine shrimp (or other seafood), celery, green pepper and onion. Toss gently with one quarter cup of the creamy herb dressing. Line salad bowl with a few lettuce leaves. Fill bottom of bowl with shredded lettuce.

Drain marinade from pineapple over the lettuce. Mound shrimp salad mixture on lettuce, and arrange pineapple slices around sides of mound. Place a cherry tomato half in center of each pineapple slice. Pass remaining Creamy Herb Dressing. Makes five to six servings.

Creamy Herb Dressing: Combine three quarter cup dairy sour cream with three tablespoons tarragon vinegar, one and one half teaspoon seasoned salt, three quarters teaspoon onion powder, one quarter teaspoon each tarragon and thyme, crumbled, and one sixteenth teaspoon white pepper, and mix well. Makes about one cup dressing.

A Yogurt Maker

How about a yogurt maker, imported from Spain. This small electric appliance gives you yogurt at a fraction of the store price. Two quart-size jars are included in the kit. The yogurt maker is called a yogurtera.



SEAFOOD SALAD takes on a different flavor with this marinated pineapple version for spring luncheons. A creamy herb dressing goes over the top.

Two Sure Winners For Big Party

Guild members of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science will serve some tantalizing desserts at post-theater parties on Saturday after their theater benefit, "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Particularly recommended to guild members are two no-fail recipes submitted by Mrs. R. Michael Mertz of the Glenwood guild. Both recipes serve about 20 people and promise to provide the finishing touch to a sparkling evening.

KAHLUA MACAROON MARVEL

Beat three-quarter lb. butter and 12 egg yolks together. Add one and a half cups powdered sugar and three-quarter pound sweet chocolate, melted. Beat 12 egg whites until stiff and fold into chocolate mixture. Soak 30 macaroons in Kahlua. Pour off excess and line bottom of spring form pan with macaroons. Line sides with lady fingers and pour in chocolate mixture. Place in refrigerator for 24 hours before unmolding. Top cake with whipped cream flavored with Kahlua.

CHOCOLATE FONDUE SAUCE

Melt one tablespoon butter and two squares semi-sweet chocolate. Add one pint marshmallow cream and one-half cup Kahlua. Serve fondue in bowl over candle warmer. Set out a platter of small chunks of apple, pear, banana, pineapple and sponge cake for dipping.

Mrs. Mertz adds that she usually freezes the pineapple chunks in advance, allowing them to thaw partially before serving.

Crown Special Feast With Mile High Pie

Light as a breeze and fresh as a spring morning. Mile high pie can be counted on to crown a special dinner in spectacular fashion. Sunny apricots garnish the top of the pie while the chopped fruit adds flavor and substance to the filling. A chilled delight, the pie waits well in the refrigerator for its table debut.

The crisp, flaky pastry crust holding the creamy filling provides pleasing texture contrast.

MILE HIGH PIE

1 can (29 ounces) apricot halves
1 envelope gelatin
¼ cup cold water
4 eggs
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup sugar
1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Drain apricots, chop and measure one and a half cups. Reserve remaining apricot halves for garnish. Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Separate eggs. Beat egg yolks in top of double boiler and add chopped apricots, one-quarter cup sugar and lemon juice.

Cook over hot water five minutes. Add the dissolved gelatin to fruit mixture and stir until well mixed. Cool until slightly congealed. Beat the egg whites until frothy and add the salt and cream of tartar.

Gradually add one-half cup sugar, beating until meringue stands in peaks. Fold apricot mixture into meringue. Pour into baked pie shell and chill four to six hours or until firm. Garnish with reserved apricot halves.

Whole Grains Gaining Popularity; Some Tips

By PHYLLIS HANES
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

In case you've been wondering, all those strange grains and seeds you see in the natural foods stores labeled alfalfa, millet, bulgur, and heaven knows what else can be cooked and served just as if they were the old familiar white rice, farina, or cream of wheat.

Only difference is that the new cereals and grains have kept their natural qualities and haven't been bleached and refined.

"Oatmeal, rice, and wheat cereals for breakfast are old favorites and so is mamaliga, although you may know it better as cornmeal mush," says Eleanor Leavitt in her book, "The Wonderful World of Natural Food Cookery" (Hearthside Press, New York).

"What is new is using the whole grain" she says. "But if you have the heart of an adventurer, you'll try flaxseed, millet, bulgar, alfalfa, and barley, too.

"I think it's too bad that of all these natural cereals only brown rice makes the average dinner table," Mrs. Leavitt writes. "My baked polenta, millet, (souffle or creole style), gnocchi or barley with mushrooms are so good that they should appear often at dinner as an accompaniment to meat and vegetables.

"SINCE MOST of these dishes are pale or neutral in color, I try to serve them in colorful dishes, appropriately garnished with either fruit or nuts or mushrooms, strips of red and green sweet peppers, and a sprinkle of wheat germ."

Mrs. Leavitt includes recipes for both cooked and raw cereals and grains in her book. She also has several recipes for what has become known as Swiss style breakfast cereal.

"Nice things to add to these cereals," she suggests, "are wheat germ, sesame seeds, roasted soy beans or brewer's yeast.

"Use a tablespoon or so of each," she recommends, "in any combination that suits you. Some people make it a day or so ahead and keep it a few days in the refrigerator."

SWISS STYLE CEREAL

1 medium apple, unpeeled and unsprayed
¾ cup apple juice
1 Tbsp. honey
1 Tbsp. dry skim milk powder
½ cup rollej oats
2 Tbsp. chopped, unblanched almonds or walnuts
2 Tbsp. chopped, pitted prunes or raisins

Grate apple and combine with apple juice. Add milk, oats, nuts, and prunes. Mix with honey. Chill for at least 10 minutes. Serve as cereal. Makes one large serving.

Here's another of Mrs. Leavitt's cereal dishes. This one, she says, is for the creative chef. It's an easy-to-make breakfast dish, cereal, snack — call it what you will.

GRANOLA-TYPE CEREAL

¼ cup safflower oil
¼ cup honey
2 cups rolled oats
4 Tbsp. sunflower seed meal
3 Tbsp. raisins
4 Tbsp. wheat germ
3 Tbsp. raw slivered almonds or any other nuts
4 Tbsp. sesame seeds
2 Tbsp. sunflower seeds
1 cup shredded coconut

Combine all ingredients in a large mixing bowl. Add more nuts and raisins (even dry raisins will plump up) if you wish. Bake in a shallow pan for 10 to 12 minutes in oven set at 350 degrees. Toast to brown top if you like by setting pan low under the broiler. Store in a jar and use as needed. Serve with milk, fresh diced fruit — whatever you like.

Mrs. Gay Kocmich of Hillsborough, says her family calls their dried-fruit nutseed mixture "gorp."

Here's her recipe for basic gorp with a couple of variations.

BASIC GORP

1 cup white raisins
1 cup dark seedless raisins
1 cup salted peanuts

GOURMET GORP

1 cup dark seedless raisins
1 cup white raisins
1 cup almonds, unblanched
1 cup dried pears, cut up
1 cup dried apricots, cut up
1 cup coated chocolate bits
1 cup macadamia nuts
1 cup walnuts, broken in half

Mix all ingredients in a large bowl. Divide into portions of about a cupful and seal in individual plastic bags. For children, portions of a half cupful are recommended by both skiing mothers and lunch box packers. Gorp is great for recess snacking.

A Dessert Cup

Save the shells from breakfast grapefruit and use them to make an attractive serving of a dinner dessert. Pull out all the inside white membrane. At serving time, fill with a large scoop of vanilla ice cream and top with canned fruit cocktail. Sprinkle with finely chopped mint leaves.

Marin Women

Jewish Council Elects Officers

New officers of the Marin Section, National Council of Jewish Women, are Mmes. Murray Rayden of Greenbrae, president; Donald Auslen, Kenneth Rosenberg and Sydney Bloch, vice presidents; Peter Lenn, secretary; Stephen Simon, treasurer; Gary Rifkind, legislation chairma; and Steven Saxe, publicity chairman.

MRS. MURRAY RAYDEN
Heads council

The new president has lived in Marin County for 9 years, moving here from Westport, Conn., with her husband, a manufacturers' representative, and their three children. Mrs. Rayden is a member of the American Association of University Women and the Redwood High School Parent-Teacher Association.

The council is a national organization of 100,000 volunteers. Through community action, it seeks out, studies and works to solve problems and needs both in America and throughout the world. The four main target areas today are world peace; health, education, welfare; individual rights and responsibilities; and Jewish identity.

Programs and positions on social issues here and in Israel reflect council's desire to improve the quality of life and equality of opportunity for all people, according to Mrs. Rayden.

The Marin section has done a survey on day care, co-sponsored a public forum of all the agencies working in the field of day care countywide, is on the planning board for a day care center to be opened at Redwood High School, compiled the resource file for the Suicide Prevention Center, and completed a survey of rest home facilities in the county. Future work will also include the field of juvenile justice.

On their return from a wedding trip to Carmel the couple will live in San Geronimo.

The bride attended Sir Francis Drake High School. She has three brothers, Charles (Dusty) Benedict of Los Angeles, Alex Benedict of Bellingham, Wash., and Remsen Benedict of Mill Valley.

READY-TO-WEAR

Black And Only 24 But He's A Head Designer

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willi Smith, a Philadelphian, represents a two-way breakthrough in New York's multibillion dollar ready-to-wear industry.

For one thing, it is a rare person who at 24 can call himself head designer for a successful wholesale firm.

For another, Willi Smith is a black. And as he says, "There are very few of us blacks making it at the top."

Smith feels, though, there was no prejudice against his color and that the industry will open more doors to blacks. "It's more of a hassle over age," he said. "The fashion business tends to float above reality."

LUCK IS part of the reason he succeeded early. His backer, businessman Irving Yanous, gave the designer a chance three years ago with the establishment of Digits, to make sportswear and some daytime and evening dresses.

"I didn't have to go through that 10 years or so of getting the 'experience' usually demanded of designers. Yanous trusted me."

"We started out at nothing," the designer said in an interview. "The first year, we did a $2 million volume. We're now around $5 million and would like to keep in that range. The minute you get too big you get gobbled up."

As is, the Willi Smith label shows in stores across the country and some have established special departments just for his designs.

Smith creates for the young market (college girl, career girl) and said nothing retails beyond $100. His "contemporary" clothes, simple of line and without a lot of geegaws, are aimed at all; he finds many black consumers who appreciate the use of color and sophisticated approach.

Smith said the industry is beginning to understand that the Negro has a contribution to make both as designer and consumer.

TAKE THE sense of color. "Last year," the designer said, "we heard 'this is Europe' when they talked of bright colors in the industry. Well, you could have seen them anywhere earlier in the black community. It filters down."

Smith did pastels—pinks, blues and occasional yellows—for his summer line and said he's carrying the same brightness right into fall and winter. "I think they'll like bright and cheery next season," he said. "On a gray, drab day there's nothing like putting on something pretty as pink."

He even is doing fake furs in pink and blue.

Smith has reached the stage where he now can have fabrics designed exclusively for his collection. One for fall will be a print in pastels on a dark background—Smith's signature, his circle-shaped glass lenses.

The designer gives a lot of credit for keeping up with contemporary moods through his sister, Doris (Tookie), 19, a model and salesgirl in the firm and a student also at the Fashion Institute of Technology.

THE SMITHS are the children of a wrought iron engineer in Philadelphia and the designer said their fashion interest came from their mother and grandmother, both with excellent clothes taste.

Smith decided on a design career while studying fashion illustration at the Philadelphia Museum College of Art.

He arrived in New York in 1965 with two scholarships to the Parsons School of Design, one from the Philadelphia Board of Education, the other from Parsons itself.

While at Parsons, he freelanced as a sketcher with a sportswear firm and worked one summer with Arnold Scaasi, getting a taste of the couture world.

"I learned what real workmanship in clothes was all about and how serious women can be about fashion and clothes," he replied.

Impatient to get on with his career, Smith dropped out of Parsons and was designer for a knits firm and a junior sportswear firm before Digits was founded.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Reader Suggestion Rejected: 'Illegal, Immoral; Fattening'

DEAR HELEN:

I've read that a girl can get as much as $5,000 for a perfect, newborn white baby, if she finds a couple who wants one bad enough. It's a good business.

I wouldn't mind being pg for that kind of cash. Please give my name and address to people who write that they're desperate to adopt but can't find a baby. — WANTING TO HELP

DEAR W.T.H.:

No!!!

What you suggest is illegal, immoral — and fattening. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I can see a girl making one mistake and deciding to keep her child, but when she has three or so out of wedlock — often with different fathers — and goes on welfare to support them, it's time to get tough.

Why don't they make a rule that single women on welfare must give up any baby after the first illegitimate one? There are so many couples who want to adopt these days and can't find children. A don't-care mother wouldn't provide a good home —and an unmarried woman who doesn't take precautions is certainly "don't-care."

Seems a logical way to help everyone, including the child. Maybe it would inspire those careless women to take The Pill which is offered free to welfare people. — T.D.

DEAR T.:

Your plan might inspire an even greater black market in white babies. If a woman knows she must give up her child, she might try for the highest bidder (and many are bidding these days — adoptable Caucasian babies being very scarce).

It could also place considerably more "hard-to-adopt" children in institutions or inadequate temporary homes.

Besides, this "solution" strikes me as cold-blooded. What do others think? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

After he read about The International Society of Girl Watchers in our paper, my husband joined. He got some little adhesive-backed paper stickers that men are supposed to attach to women's clothes when they aren't looking. The "Watchable Awards" say complimentary things, but it still burns me that my husband would look at an unknown girl so intently that he'd want to give her an award.

He's learned all the techniques for girl watching, so that no one knows, not even his wife. But I find awards on my clothes quite often.

Now, he says he's going to invent some "Unwatchable Awards" for women who look grubby, or are in hair rollers, or expose fat knees in hot pants.

. . .And if somebody finds out who stuck one of these on her, he'll be scalped.

What do you do with a man like that? — WATCHING A WATCHER

DEAR WAW:

So long as he sticks to "Watchable Awards" (especially for you), and maintains a hands-off policy (except for you), consider him an honest appreciator.

But discourage the "Unwatchable Awards." Joe Beagin, president of the "International Society of Girl Watchers" might drum him out of the organization. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm glad you made it clear to your readers that men who like to wear women's clothing are usually not homosexuals. My husband is a manly guy who doesn't need a counselor. Yet he likes the beauty and comfort of women's clothes, and sometimes we switch outfits. If I appear in his jeans and shirt — who cares? But if he were discovered in my dresses and nylons —what a scandal! Who knows how much of this ostracism comes from centuries of programmed habit (certain things are expected of men and anything "effeminate" is bad — for "feminine" was always inferior). Isn't this, in a way, the same kind of twisted thinking that makes it just great if a man takes a younger wife, but if a woman falls for a much younger man, the whole world smirks.

How come one action shocks, and the same action in the opposite sex is perfectly okay? — ONCE UPSET BUT NOT NOW

DEAR OUBNN:

Good question. I doubt that even psychiatrists could answer it fully, but I think you came close when you suggested "centuries of programming." — H.

Sunshine Vitamin

Vitamin D is known as the sunshine vitamin, but very few of us are exposed to direct sunlight every day of the year. That is why we must consume it daily in our food, according to the Dairy Council. One of the best sources for this vitamin is vitamin D fortified milk. Four eight ounce glasses supply children and teen-agers with their daily vitamin D requirement.

INFANTS ENJOY their lunch in an infant child care center in Boston.

BY EXPERTS, PARENTS

Infant Day-Care Cautious

By ANDREA CHAMBERS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BOSTON, Mass. — As day care for preschoolers takes its first baby steps, child-care experts and parents are peering slowly and cautiously into day care for infants — children under 30 months old.

The few infant care centers that have recently opened their doors in the United States have met strong resistance:

"Day care is fine for older children but never, never for infants," says a Cambridge mother of four, summing up a familiar parently position.

And Boston psychologist Richard Brodie, too, has doubts. "The psychological development of a person is enormously influenced in the first 14-16 months of life. For the proper development to take place, the child has to form a close relationship with one person. Can this take place in a day-care center?" he asks.

GOVERNMENTS REFLECT the doubt about infant day care in their reluctance to license it. In Massachusetts, for example, the first day-care licensing law was passed 10 years ago for preschool centers. Infant centers still remain unregulated.

But doubt is not the whole of the problem. Plain dollars and cents accounts for the rest. Pampers, specialized formulas, toys and equipment can stretch the family budget.

In a child care center, the costs skyrocket. Imagine buying not one crib but 20 or 30, one for each baby enrolled? Coupled with equipment costs are salaries for the staff, which in an infant center usually includes one teecher for every four children.

Child care experts say that government subsidy is a must for infant centers, and many anticipate the passage of a child-care bill subsidizing all day care services before 1973. Already, Sen. Walter Mondale (D) of Minnesota has filed a revised child-development bill to replace that vetoed by President Nixon last December.

The real issue is whether a baby is better off at home with the mother or in a center where he can interact with children of different social and racial backgrounds. Can day care benefit all infants or is it merely a necessary evil for those mothers who want or need to work, or who aren't emotionally or physically equipped for full-time child care?

THE ANSWERS, as one might expect, vary in day care. Infant-care centers, the most controversial of all, have been subjected to intense scrutiny and evaluation of late. Out of this have come some preliminary reports:

At the University of Syracuse an experimental infant center was organized in 1964 to discover if day care would supplement — even enrich — a home environment. And could it offset any negative side effects of separation from mother?

Testing at the center showed that while some children showed a drop in score from one examination to the next, most registered gains. The children who were initially rated as most disadvantaged tended to show the largest gains. In comparison, a control group of children from low-income families showed a gradually dropping development curve.

The children in the full-day Milwaukee Family Rehabilitation Project, all of whom were from low-income backgrounds and were enrolled in the program at six months of age, scored increasingly above the developmental norms between the ages of 25 to 37 months. A comparable control group performed very close to test norms between six and 31 months of age.

At the Center of Early Development and Education in Little Rock, Ark., 3-to-5-year-olds showed significantly greater gains on most of the cognitive measures than a comparable group who were not in the program.

But this first flush of optimism is tempered with reserve. Even those involved with day-care centers such as Dr. Richard Kearsley, co-director of the Tremont Infant Center in Boston, regard day-care achievements with caution. "My guess," ventured Dr. Kearsley, "is that the babies in our center will be as good as babies at home. At this point, I can speculate no further."

From mothers themselves, there is often a cry of outrage at the mention of infant day care. "Abandonment," "parental irresponsibility," and "unAmerican" are among the phrases spewed in the anti-day care billingsgate.

This is the gnawing fear — that the day-care "mother" will replace the real one in the child's affections. So far, however, evidence shows that the mother-child bond remains intact. In fact, say center directors, most babies squirm in delight when parents arrive to transport them home.

A valid concern is the actual care and facilities within the center. Center teachers profess to play at least one hour a day with each child individually and to offer a diversified program of games and activities for the children as a group.

But limited funding often means a meager toy chest, whose contents are contested tearfully by children too young to understand the word "share."

In some centers, the inadequacy is not so much in equipment and staffing as in finding the best condtions for infant care.

GUIDELINES, YET undetermined, are being examined by Harvard psychologist Jerome Kagan and pediatrician Richard Kearsley at the experimental Tremont Infant Center. Here, approximately 15 babies, ages 3½ to 1 year, are being cared for and observed in a well-staffed and equipped center.

For each child enrolled, there is one in a control group of children remaining at home with their mothers and another in a group enrolled in some other day-care arrangement. Both center and control-group children are subjected to periodic testing and developmental evaluation to determine the relative merits of day care.

Says Alma McKinnon, head teacher at the Tremont Center, "We want to find out what are the best conditions under which to operate a day-care center . . . what are the play and learning activities that best aid a child's development."

But before these questions can be answered, some parents are already faced with the query: "Infant day care or no?" Until more is known about the effects of day care, nothing definitive can be said and the decision rests with the individual mother. What are her child's needs? What are her own needs?

Remarked one Brookline mother, "Sure, it's a dilemma deciding whether or not to put a baby in a day-care center. I — and I think most mothers — feel that an infant is better off at home. But isn't it nice to know the day-care option is there if, for any reason, you need it?"

Buyer Protection Slow And Careful

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — When the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) decides to take action to protect consumer rights, it moves slowly and carefully.

Ever since it was established in 1887, the agency has been studying the problems people have in shipping goods across state borders. Over the years, it has received an increasing flow of consumer complaints about such services. It has even set up some mild rules to curb abuses.

But it has been careful not to mention the names of any company that may have broken the rules. Indeed, it often hints that moving problems are confined to the smaller, so-called fringe operators. It has never yet prosecuted a company for a pattern of alleged violations.

But it is finally threatening to do so. A few days ago, it said it had begun investigations into the practices of two of the largest firms in the business, Aero-Mayflower Transit Company and Allied Van Lines Inc.

IT WAS THE first time the commission had initiated a formal investigation, involving public hearings and the threat of lifting operating certificates, of any firms in the household goods business.

A spokesman for the commission said there were more than 500 consumer complaints against Aero-Mayflower and "hundreds" against Allied.

But the commission, in announcing the moves, refused to reveal the specific problems. It would only say that they involved complaints of under-estimating shipping costs and failure to meet pickup and delivery dates.

These are the most common problems in household moving. In order to get business, many agents quote unrealistically low estimates. When actual costs turn out to be higher, the customer is forced to pay under the threat that his goods will not be unloaded but will be stored at additional cost.

Rules adopted by the commission two years ago set a maximum of 10 per cent over estimates and gave consumers 15 days to pay the extra charge. Companies were required to notify the ICC of all cases where actual charges exceeded initial estimates.

THE RULES also require moving firms to notify consumers whenever promised pickup or delivery dates cannot be met.

More recently, the ICC issued new rules designed to curb the practice of charging reservation fees. It said consumers are entitled to have their goods shipped without reserving space on a moving van.

At the same time, however, the ICC agreed to allow shipping firms to split a family's possessions into separate loads and vans. It said the practice may be necessary "in order to use vehicle space with the maximum efficiency." Firms are required to report such situations to the ICC. The other day, the ICC agreed to delay the effectiveness of another rule until July 1. Originally scheduled to take effect in April, the rule would require carriers to acknowledge receipt of damage claims within 30 days in writing and to make a decision within 120 days.

But the ICC has no authority to settle claims still in dispute after that time. It has asked for legislation for such purposes.

Meanwhile, time marches on. The formal investigations are expected to consume years before being resolved.

To avoid excessive costs and unnecessary headaches, consumers could take a hint from the ICC and investigate the situation fully before moving. The first step should be to get a free copy of an ICC-approved folder from any moving firm entitled, "General Information for Shippers of Household Goods."

Marin Hadassah Host To Regional Session

Marin Chapter of Hadassah is hosting the Hadassah Central Pacific Coast Regional Conference, which will be held May 21 through 23 at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

The chapter was selected to host the 27th regional conference because of its record for meeting quotas for life memberships and fund raising goals, according to Mrs. William A. Silverman, arrangements and publicity chairman for the convention.

More than 150 delegates from nine Western states are expected to attend.

On the opening day of the convention, life members of Hadassah will be honored at a luncheon. Mrs. Mark Zeligs of Cincinnati, Ohio, national vice president of Hadassah and conference advisor, will speak at the luncheon, and officers will be elected.

Workshops and meetings will be held in the afternoons of the three days of the conference.

Capt. Leo Gardner of San Francisco, a volunteer in the 1948 Israeli War of Independence, will speak at the Zionist affairs plenary meeting scheduled for Sunday evening.

Mrs. Harry Harris of San Rafael will be honored for her many years of service to Hadassah at the delegates' reception Monday evening, and Mr.

MRS. GIDEON SOROKIN
'Zohara' to entertain

and Mrs. Morris Thau of Kentfield will be guests of honor at the closing banquet.

Regional conference guests and husbands of Hadassah members will also be honored at the banquet, and the new officers will be installed.

Mrs. Gideon Sorokin of Novato, an Israeli folk singer, will entertain at the banquet. A life member of Hadassah, Zohara, as she is known professionally, has performed with the Israel Opera and the Israel Broadcasting Co. She is a native of Israel and sings in eight languages.

Mmes. Irwin Taranto and Gerald Levine are conference chairmen. Committee chairmen are Mmes. Philander Beadle, reservations; Stanley Baer, registration; Walter Fink, treasurer; Richard Wagner, decorations; Minna Padlibsky, hospitality kits; Harry Heifetz, delegates' kits; Abraham Jacobs and Sidney Rudy, hostesses; Edward Finston, visual aids; Paul Winton, transportation; Victor Schneider, banquet; Hyman Fischer, luncheon; Andre Gabany and Sol Langsam, delegates' reception.

Mrs. Irwin Manne is president of the Marin chapter.

Pen Women Plan Art Exhibition

Artists participating in the invitational show are Sister Eugenia Bogard, Jackie Wakelee, Marge Gauss, Janine Derdzinski, Maria Peluso, Anna Allsman, Marion Elkjer, Annette Gibbs, Vivian Goddard, Edith Olson, Lynn Salander and Inge Travers.

The show was judged by Vivian Goddard, and awards were presented to Carol Sheidman, first place; Jewel Sather, second place; and Maria Peluso and Marion Thorne, third place. A special award was given to Marcella Winer.

The exhibit will continue through June 30.

Calcium Needs

Adults, as well as children, need calcium daily. This important mineral functions throughout life in the contraction of muscles, excitation of nerves, clotting of blood and maintenance of teeth and bones. Adults need to drink at least two glasses of milk daily to get enough calcium.

Golden Gate Club Elects Sausalitan

Mrs. Walter C. Thomson of Sausalito was elected recording secretary of the Golden Gate District, California Federation of Women's Clubs, at the recent convention and will take office on June 1.

The district is comprised of Marin, San Mateo and San Francisco Counties, and the other officers, chosen from the three counties, are Mmes. John D. Atkinson, president; William R. Porter, first vice president; Clarence Bork, second vice president; William Sibley, third vice president; Mario J. Castelli, corresponding secretary; Arnold Grumm, treasurer; Modesto Regalia, financial secretary; and Charles Calvert, parliamentarian.

Marin County clubs receiving merit awards at the convention are Sausalito Women's Club, six, for conservation, press, safety, international hostess, public education and scholarship and garden and beautification; the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley, three, for conservation, gerontology and Indian affairs; Corte Madera Woman's Club, three, for citizenship, radio and television and health and welfare; and the San Rafael Improvement Club, two, for California heritage and public education and scholarship.

A resolution favoring the ballot initiative filed with the State Attorney General's Office that would amend the constitution to reinstate capitol punishment in California was adopted. Members of the district were urged to carry petitions or serve in any way possible to have the ballot initiative presented to the people of California as a ballot measure.

Copies of the resolution were sent to Sen. George Deukmejian (R-Long Beach), Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger, Gov. Ronald Reagan, President Richard M. Nixon, the U.S. Supreme Court, the California Supreme Court and Mrs. Vernon Cunningham, president California Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Paul Hammer of San Anselmo has been elected corresponding secretary of the Golden Gate District board alumnae, one of the clubs in the district. Mrs. Hammer is past president of the Golden Gate District board alumnae.

The Oldest Coed In No. America

CALGARY, Ont. — Olga Valda is 79, blind in one eye and is the oldest coed on any North American campus.

She is also coaching University of Calgary's football team in balance — she has been a ballerina as well as a newspaper writer, sculptress, movie actress and Indian princess — after successfully teaching elevation to the college's basketball team. She is earning a master's degree there.

"People are lazy and mentally afraid," the 5-foot, 100-pound dynamo says. "If you don't get something done the first time, try it again."

Olga loves the younger generation she meets on campus. "I get calls at 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning to join parties, even the naughty ones," she said.

"'If I had a grandmother like that," said one coed, "I'd never utter another word of complaint about the older generation."

Opera Workshop Sets Three Performances

The College of Marin Music Department's annual Opera Workshop directed by Phyllis Murphy will present opera performances at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow, Friday and Saturday and at 8 p.m. on Sunday in the Fine Arts Theater.

Performed will be the one-act comic opera "The Dinner Engagement" by Lennox Berkeley and Act II of Offenbach's "The Tales of Hoffman." Owen Orser is stage director and Scott Merrick the orchestra director.

"The Dinner Engagement" is the story of Lord and Lady Dunmow and their schemes to marry their daughter, Susan, to Phillipe, the rich son of their dinner guest, the Grand Duchess of Monte Blanco.

The cast will be Lord Dunmow, Don Loegering; Lady Dunmow, Gloria Bakkila; Mrs. Kneebone, Clairellen Waldeck and Elaine Messer; Susan, Clairellen Waldeck and Ramona Adler; Phillipe, Michael Petersen; and Grand Duchess, Claudia Siefer.

Act II of "The Tales of Hoffman" begins the first tale of the three great loves of Hoffman. He falls in love with the life-sized mechanical doll Olympia, and magic eyeglasses make him see her as a living girl. He accidentally releases the mechanism which starts her dancing faster and faster until she is destroyed by her creator.

The cast will be Hoffman, Larry Benini; Spalzini, inventor of the doll, Martin Frick; Olympia, Weslia Edwards and Carolyn Wilson; Coppelius, the inventor's rival, Michael Gelles; Hoffman's servant, Elaine Messer and Claudie Siefer.

No seats are reserved. Tickets will be available only at the door.

Soprano Will Close Out Season On Tuesday Night

Soprano Maralin Niska will present the final program in the Marin Concert Association's first season next Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

For the first half of her program Miss Niska will sing songs by Torelli, Bononcini, Rodrigo, Liszt, Duparc, Charpentier and Wolf and a Puccini aria.

The second half of her program will be composed of music from the American Opera Theater and music from the American Musical Theater.

Nuns Coalition Seeks Equality

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Coalition of American Nuns has issued a "Declaration of Independence" calling for sexual equality in churches, including full priesthood for women and elimination of the college of Cardinals.

The group of 1,800 nuns issued the declaration Tuesday, calling for elected proportional representation in Roman Catholic voting bodies and other equalization measures by 1976.

"We reaffirm Jesus and His gospel as our life focus and that being said, NCAN puts society on notice that women refuse to accept any longer the straw for bricks that we are forced to make," the group said.

Fatal Plane Owner Declares Bankruptcy

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Joseph Howard Richards, who owned a plane that crashed in the Colorado Rockies in 1970, killing 31 persons associated with the Wichita State University football team, has declared bankruptcy.

Richards filed a petition in federal court Tuesday saying his debts totaled more than $52 million while his assets were only $8,100. The debts against him include several lawsuits because of the October, 1970, crash.

Charlene Manzoni, Andy Cilley, Marty Moroski, Jan Denny, Todd Young and Vic Bullock will appear in leading roles.

Playing the Jets, a street gang, will be Guy Ridley, Rick Maldonado, Fred Farrell, Michael McCray, Rick Eklund, Rick Osterlund and Warren Clark.

Girls of the Jets are Risa Fleet, Blythe Beswick, Cheryl Peavy, Roz Miles, Debbie Cardone, Leda Secrist, Stefanie Alioto, Toni Alioto and Jane Roderick.

Escape Attempt Sentence Issued

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Norman Lucas, 22, whose escape attempt from the Santa Clara County jail last March 28 interrupted the Angela Davis trial, was sentenced to 20 years in prison yesterday for a $945 bank robbery in Castro Valley.

But there may be more sentences to come. The 20-year sentence was imposed by U.S. District Judge Spencer Williams, and Williams kept under submission five other charges against Lucas.

The judge said he will wait before dismissing the charges to see what will happen to bank robbery charges in Whittier and kidnap-robbery charges in Houston.

Williams kept pending charges of escape from the San Francisco County jail and of attempted escape from the Santa Clara jail. In both cases he was a federal prisoner. Williams also kept three other bank robbery charges.

A Reagan Aide Takes New Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Paul Beck, former press secretary to Gov. Ronald Reagan, has resigned from the governor's staff to accept a newly created position as executive assistant to State Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

Beck, the governor's press secretary since mid-1967, was replaced March 20 by Edwin Gray in what was described as a "major reorganization." Since then, Beck, 39, has been a "special assistant" to Reagan at a salary of $27,500.

A spokesman for Flournoy said Tuesday that Beck's salary at the new post would not be in excess of his old salary but reported specific figures were not yet available.

Nostalgia Pays Off Disneyana To Be Auctioned In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—In 1944 the phrase "Mickey Mouse" was the password that launched the D-Day landing at Normandie.

Next Sunday it will be one of the key phrases at an auction of Disneyana—relics of the early days of the Walt Disney empire built on the 1928 cartoon which gave birth to the legendary mouse.

Mickey has his own followers too, known as "Mickeyphiles." One is coming all the way from Germany for the auction, conducted by the Sotheby Park Bernet galleries.

"We used to turn people down when they came to us with Disneyana to sell," said a spokesman for the firm, which also auctioned off the props of 20th Century-Fox. "Then we decided there was so much interest in the 1930s, with nostalgia and so forth, that we should try it.

"We started collecting the material several months ago. Now we have too much for this sale and probably will have another next year."

The catelogue lists 170 lots, nearly 200 items, not all of which are Disneyana since the sale includes "other fine cartoon material," which will be auctioned off Sunday.

Much of the Disneyana in the sale comes from the collections of New York businessman Robert Lesser or the late Kay Kamen.

Lesser, who is affiliated with a New York timepiece firm, collected nearly every variation of early Mickey Mouse watches and clocks, an aggregation valued at more than $5,000.

Kamen for nearly 20 years sold the exclusive manufacturing rights for Disney characters. In association with Disney, he placed the likenesses of Disney characters on watches and some 2,000 other products ranging from breakfast foods to weather vanes.

Of the 170 lots in the sale, more than 60 include items bearing the likeness of Mickey Mouse: a rubber mouse, original copies of the first issue (January, 1933) of the Mickey Mouse Magazine, a toy snow shovel, a toy grand piano, a watering can, buttons, and early Mickey Mouse watches and clocks.

One of the most unusual Mickey Mouse items in the collection is a pre-production model of a Mickey and Minnie alarm clock showing the pair embracing and kissing—an item that never was produced, apparently because it was considered too risque for the market of the 1930s.

Besides the famous mouse, who now has been part of American culture for 44 years, the collection includes Donald Duck, Captain Marvel, Dick Tracy, Orphan Annie, Gene Autry, Pluto and Tom Corbett Space Cadet wristwatches. Also, a Mickey Mouse movie projector complete with film splicer and two 16mm movies, one of which is "Tom Mix Riding for Life"; original cartoon material such as a 1936 L'il Abner comic strip signed by Al Capp; celluloids from "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and "Bambi" autographed by Walt Disney; books, toys, buttons, postcards, games, masks and many figurines.

School Mascot —An Artichoke

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI)—The students at Scottsdale Community College, fed up with the cost of the athletic program, have selected an artichoke as school mascot and pink and white as their colors.

Artichoke easily triumphed over "scoundrels" and rutabagas in the nickname vote sponsored by the Student Senate, while pink and white outpolled both blue and white and green and gold.

"This clearly shows that students are just about fed up with the present level of expenditures for athletic programs," said student president Roger A. Brooks. "They're tired of it and this is their way of expressing it."

Senate Candidate Offers An Apology

ATLANTA (UPI)—Gerry C. Dokka, 37, apologized to the public Tuesday for being so late in announcing his candidacy for the U.S. Senate. He said he had been serving a two-year probation term on a marijuana charge and had to wait until his civil rights were restored.

Dokka said the marijuana was discovered in an apartment he had vacated two weeks earlier.

Hot Sausalito Topic — Parking

The Sausalito City Council last night asked the planning commission to investigate the city's requirement for offstreet parking, and the consequences of abandoning it in favor of a parking facility financed by assessments.

Councilmen said the move would probably have to be made, especially since the council recently granted a variance to a commercial property owner, but required that she join an assessment district for a parking garage when such a district is created.

The council asked for the study despite the observation by Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt that, "if you eliminate the offstreet parking requirements, then you are likely to experience wholesale demolition in downtown Sausalito."

He explained that since present buildings are exempt from providing offstreet parking, owners remodel a building for a different use rather than demolish it and build a new one, since a new one would be subject to the requirement.

Councilmen took note of his objection, but said that the factor was only one of many which the planning commission would include in its study. They set no date for completion of the study, but asked that it be soon.

After long debate, the council postponed for a month a decision on whether to hand over the reins of the city's parking authority to a citizen's committee.

Councilmen Stephen A. Fraser and Evert H. Heynneman asked that some type of citizen's group be set up to administer the parking authority, which was set up in January 1970, but which has not been activated.

Both had first asked that the group run the parking authority, but, in the face of opposition from other ccuncilmen, modified their request to make the committee an advisory one.

Heynneman said he wanted to see the committee appointed because the council has not taken the time to run the parking authority, even though the legal machinery has already been set up.

"I don't know whether it's been a question of time, or whether it's been a question of not knowing just what we wanted to do," answered Mayor Robin Sweeny.

The council, having put off that decision, voted to get the price estimates on putting in permanent curb and gutters on Bridgeway which would narrow the street, and filling in the space between that and the existing curb with a temporary filling so that it could be walked on. Planter boxes presently in the street would be eliminated.

The council also asked the Community Appearances Advisory Board to recommend ways to beautify Bridgeway and the downtown area.

The council authorized City Mgr. Albert R. St. Cyr to send a letter to property owners along Bridgeway asking their opinion on setting up a special assessment district to pay for some of the improvements in the street.

It turned down a request by the Sausalito Businessmen's Association to have the planter boxes removed and replaced with weekday 12-minute parking zones and weekend no-parking zones.

Cost estimates for permanent widening of the sidewalk are delayed, said St. Cyr, because plans are not finished.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

SOUTHERN CROSSING — Voted 3-2 to disapprove the idea of a bridge proposed to link Alameda County to a point on the border of San Francisco and San Mateo counties. The disapproval will be sent to the Sierra Club, which had requested it.

PARKING ZONE — Approved unanimously the designation of a 10-minute parking zone on the southeast corner of Locust Street at Caledonia Street.

APPOINTMENTS — Set Saturday at 9 a.m. as a time to meet and discuss issues with all those interested in appointments to city boards and commissions. Many of the actual appointments will be made at next Tuesday's meeting. The council disapproved of appointing persons simply because they represented a particular interest group, which had been suggested by some planning commission members.

PARKING FINES — Voted to ask the traffic committee for its recommendation on whether the traffic ticket fine should remain at $5, or lowered to $3. Councilman Earl F. Dunphy, who asked for the recommendation, said he could understand why it may well have to remain high, but wanted to get an opinion.

DECK HOUSE VARIANCE — Voted to postpone until after the planning commission report on off-street parking a public hearing on a variance request by Robert Cranston, owner of Deck House restaurant, who asked to increase from 60 to 108 the number of seats in his restaurant, and sought exemption from providing additional off-street parking. Cranston's request has already been denied by the planning commission.

BRIDGE TOLLS — Voted to ask the Golden Gate Bridge and Transportation District to eliminate time limits by which books of commute tickets must be used in order not to penalize the occasional user.

CITY TREASURER — Voted to add the duties of city treasurer to those of the city manager, as permitted by voters in the last election when they made it an appointive, rather than elective, office.

RECOMMENDATIONS — Asked the planning commission to decide whether the city should continue to offer a bonus of increased density to developers whose developments are found to have excellence. It also asked the commission to study what would happen if the R-3 zone, imposing a 1,500 square foot limit on a dwelling, were eliminated.

Pair Reelected To Smog Board

William Jelavich, a Mountain View councilman, and James Lemos, Benicia city councilman, have been reelected to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District board, according to Edward McHugh, district information officer.

San Mateo, San Francisco and Alameda counties have yet to elect new directors, he said. It may take until the end of May to get all the new members, McHugh said.

Sausalito City Councilman Stephen A. Fraser was elected yesterday at a special meeting of Marin mayors to represent Marin cities on the board, replacing former Sausalito Councilman Wyman Hicks.

Soviet Missile Sub Ends Cuban Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Soviet submarine which had been visiting Cuba —the first such vessel equipped with ballistic missiles to call here —has sailed back out to the Atlantic, according to the Pentagon.

The sub was reported to be about 200 miles north of the Dominican Republic Tuesday accompanied by a tanker and a guided missile destroyer which also had been visiting Cuba.

Barrows Asks Sewage Proposal To Be Tabled

The prime mover in a bid to create a single agency to replace eight Southern and Central Marin sanitary districts has requested the proposal be shelved pending completion of engineering studies.

Marin County Administrator John F. Barrows said he considers his proposal "premature" in light of new engineering studies covering the entire eastern portion of the county.

His proposal, which called for the Marin Municipal Water District to take over sewage collection and treatment for the eight small districts, was to have been considered by the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission at 7:30 tonight at the civic center.

However, in a letter to the commission, Barrows asked that the proposal be tabled since "one of the major factors in determining the configuration of the government agencies to provide future sewerage service is the design of the major systems themselves."

Barrows's single agency proposal brought opposition from most of the sanitary districts involved when it was unveiled earlier this year.

Several of the districts initiated a counter proposal before the formation commission calling for a single agency to handle treatment of raw sewage only. Collection would remain with the smaller districts.

The affected sanitary districts included Alto, Homestead Valley, Richardson Bay, Almonte, Sausalito-Marin City, Tiburon, Corte Madera and Ross Valley.

Open House Set

Alpha Schools, 333 Woodland Avenue, San Rafael, will hold open house from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. May 17, with class projects to be shown and a special kindergarten demonstration and play offered.

Crash Injures San Rafael Man

A San Rafael man was injured yesterday afternoon after his car crashed into a center dividing fence on U.S. Highway 101, just north of the Highway 37 overpass, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Michael E. Doescher, 19, of 255 Canal Street, San Rafael, said he would see his own doctor, according to the highway patrol.

Doescher was unable to stop in time when he saw traffic stopped on Highway 101. He hit his brakes, according to the highway patrol, and ran into the center dividing fence.

Magazine, Mail Service Sued

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Parents Magazine and a subsidiary mail order service were sued for $10 million Tuesday for allegedly mailing unsolicited encyclopedias to California residents.

The class action suit, filed in Superior Court on behalf of John W. Jachens of Sacramento, alleges that Parents Magazine Mail Order Service Inc. of New Jersey sent thousands of unrequested copies of the illustrated Encyclopedia of the Animal Kingdom to Californians for $8.90.

According to the suit, recipients received monthly bills and collection letters threatening immediate legal action if the debt was not paid.

"Because of extortion-type methods employed by the defendant in collecting payments, the plaintiffs reluctantly made full payment for fear of legal action..."the suit said.

Gwen Stone Exhibit

Traffic Halted, Airport Shut In State Protests

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Railroad trains and freeway traffic were stalled and an airport closed in California yesterday by youthful antiwar demonstrators who fought pitched battles with police, broke windows, looted stores and burned automobiles.

At Davis, site of a University of California campus, 300 students and a city official sat on Southern Pacific Co. tracks for six hours, stalling five trains.

An engineer, misreading a signal, moved one train through the protesters who frantically scurried away without injury although three persons were brushed.

Police jumped aboard and stopped the train to cheers. But when the demonstration continued officers arrested 57 persons, including newly elected City Councilman Robert Black, 25. All later were released on their own recognizance.

Davis demonstrators also blocked Interstate Highway 80 traffic for a half an hour.

Santa Barbara Airport was closed by an estimated 3,500 demonstrators who sat on runways and later broke windows on the University of California campus in that city.

Tear gas was used to disperse the crowds in the City of Santa Barbara, where some windows were broken, and at the Isla Vista student quarter.

Three persons were jailed.

Rampages marked the night at the University of California campus in Berkeley and at Stanford University.

Berkeley police used tear gas in addition to guns firing pellets and bean bags to disperse demonstrators who rampaged because the city council refused to send $1,000 to a bombed out hospital in North Vietnam.

The council did declare Friday a "day of mourning" during which non-essential city employes can stay home from work.

Some tear gas and bean bags were fired into apartment houses from which students were taunting police who were dispersing groups who had lighted street fires in the Berkeley south campus area.

At least four Berkeley stores were looted and 31 persons were arrested before quiet returned.

Earlier, 2,000 persons converged on an Atomic Energy Commission office near the Berkeley campus, went on a window smashing spree and tore up asphaltic paving at "People's Park," site of the 1969 riot in which one person was killed.

Pitched fights between police and students took place at Stanford where White Plaza was barricaded with university furniture. Protesters said the barricade would remain until President Nixon rescinds his decision to mine North Vietnamese harbors.

Police and Santa Clara County sheriff's deputies were able to keep the 200 demonstrators out of Stanford buildings housing computers and electronic equipment, although windows were broken and a police car burned.

Five persons were arrested and then released at Stanford.

Protesters turned upside down the United States and California flags outside the Santa Cruz County Courthouse and hoisted a headless five-foot tall effigy.

That county's board of supervisors refused to adopt a resolution condemning U.S. moves in Indochina but did agree to a public hearing to discuss the question.

There were no arrests among the 500 demonstrators.

At San Francisco State College, 300 persons attempted to stop traffic on Merced Boulevard but were driven off by baton-wielding police.

66 Strep Cases Reported Last Week

With 66 cases reported last week, streptococcus infection was the most prevalent communicable disease reported to the Marin County Health Department, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer.

There were 20 cases of gonorrhea, two of syphillis and one of tuberculosis.

Equipment To Treat Water Nearly Ready

Experimental centrifuge equipment should be ready next week to enable the North Marin County Water District to meet the Sept. 1 deadline for cleaning up effluent from its water treatment plant at Stafford Lake, Dist. Mgr. Eugene S. Churchill told district directors last night.

Under the orders by the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, the district is installing the equipment to wring water from sludge produced during the purification process.

The sludge will be trucked to the Redwood Dump north of Novato for disposal, Churchill explained.

The North Marin County Water District board also:

HOOKUPS — Voted 4-1, with Director Patrick Heffernan opposing, to approve service to a total of 160 new apartments in the Pacheco Village project south of Hamilton Air Force Base, at an estimated hookup cost of $52,379. It also voted unanimously to approve service to four lots on Atherton Avenue off Bugeia Lane being developed by Lawrence Martin and David Galatolo, for an estimated fee of $7,025.

TANK — Rejected bids for a 120,000-gallon fire protection service storage tank as too high, and ordered design changes and new bids.

BUDGET — On Churchill's recommendation, transferred $8,000 from planned replacement of a main on Sullivan Lane, Black Point, to Wild Horse Valley work more urgently needed, according to the manager.

Wells Promoted

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Donald E. Wells has been promoted to the position of director-growth and development, for Formost Foods Co.

Atom Merchant Fleet 'Possible'

NEW YORK (UPI)—A nuclear powered U.S. merchant marine fleet is technically feasible, highly desirable and economically possible right now, according to a nuclear expert.

Dr. Paul Reinker, vice president of Babcock and Wilcox, made that statement in testimony before the Merchant Marine subcommittee of the House Committee on Marine and Fisheries.

Bobcock and Wilcox designed and fabricated the nuclear fuel and steam generating plant for the first commercial nuclear vessel, the N.S. Savannah.

KNOW THE LAW

Cutting Curves Against Law

When you drive on winding roads with many sharp curves, can you cut the corners and "straighten the road out" if there is no one coming the other way?

Section 21650 of the Vehicle Code states "upon all highways a vehicle shall be driven upon the right half of the roadway except when passing another vehicle, when making a left turn, when the right half of the road is closed, or when the road is too narrow to avoid driving across the center line."

This section also allows slow moving vehicles to drive upon the shoulder to allow other traffic to pass when conditions permit safe operation.

Cutting curves is unlawful and unsafe.

Hike In Retail Food Prices Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Retail food prices have eased lately but may rise seasonally this summer, government economists said today.

They added in a report, however, that the potential summer rise will be followed by a leveling-off or decline in the late summer and fall.

The Agriculture Department economists, writing in a "National Food Situation" summary, said grocery store prices jumped 5 per cent above a year earlier in the first quarter of this year.

Modular Program Is Backed

San Rafael Board of Education members informally agreed last night to continue the modular scheduling program at San Rafael High School for the 1972-73 school year, Supt. John F. Plant reported today.

The board indicated that some revisions would be needed, after hearing a parade of students, teachers and administrators speak for more than an hour on the experimental flexible program of scheduling classes. Plank reported that some students unable to benefit from the freedom from rigid timetabling of the school hours would be returned to more traditional programming.

The board met in the creative arts building at Davidson Middle School, after holding a dedication ceremony for the building.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

CALENDAR — Requested recommendations from a parents' committee after the question was raised that San Rafael students would receive two fewer days of Christmas vacation than other Marin County schools, under the 1972-73 calendar adopted earlier this year.

PAY REQUEST — Received and referred to its negotiators the formal request from the San Rafael Teachers Association asking a 5.5 per cent pay hike, discussed earlier at the budget workshop.

LOTTERY — Was able to dispense with a previously scheduled lottery to decide which first-year teachers would not receive contract renewals for next year, because normal attrition provided enough vacancies for all who began work on Sept. 1. Plank said renewals for four other teachers who started their jobs later, had not yet been decided.

SUPPORT — Heard a report from Eleanor Zengler, president of the San Rafael Council of Parents and Teachers, that the council has contributed $12,883 in gifts and support to the schools, as well as field trips and other special events for students.

REPORTS — Heard Frank Battat and Joe Youmans of the Citizens Advisory Committee submit a list of nine recommendations for helping youngsters who become "turned off" by education at the elementary level; heard Fabia Ann Phillips present seven recommendations for continuation and expansion of the districts' classes for more able learners. The program is serving 685 students at an average cost of about $72 per student, she said.

SICK LEAVE — Approved granting part-time adult education teachers receive sick leave in proportion to hours worked.

PAINTING — Awarded contracts to low bidders for painting: to Kennedy Painting for $12,000 to paint the exterior of Terra Linda High School; to Kennedy for $6,237 to repaint interior of Hartzell School and to R. Paoli and Co. for $1,140 to repaint interior of the music building at Terra Linda High. Bids to repaint the interior of Davidson Middle School all were rejected as too high for the budget.

SMOKING — Took under submission a letter from a Moraga, Contra Costa County high school senior requesting support for passage of AB 1352 which would allow school boards to decide whether smoking would be permitted on campus for students 15 years or older.

PERSONNEL — Accepted resignation from Alexandra Barnett as teacher aide at Terra Linda High School and appointed her as teacher at Madrone High School for the rest of the year, at $8 an hour.

Community College Tuition Plan Beaten

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill requiring community colleges to impose a nonrefundable $5 fee on virtually all applications for admission has been defeated by the Senate.

Some Democrats complained privately the measure by Sen. John Harmer, R-Glendale, represented a "backdoor" approach to establishment of tuition at the junior colleges.

ANTIWAR MARCH IN COTATI

Sonoma State College students wave United States and North Vietnamese flags as they stream off campus for an antiwar demonstration. (See story, page 1.) They blocked traffic yesterday at the intersection of old Redwood Highway and East Cotati Avenue. There was no arrest or violence as scores of police, sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrol officers dissuaded the youths from trying to block traffic on nearby Highway 101.

Bublitz was injured when his car ran into a three car collision in the Southbound lanes of Highway 101. Also involved in the pile up, but reported uninjured, were Mary M. Karinen, 48, of 1320 Cambridge Street, Novato; Sidney Koon Hung Woo, 23, of 25 Hickox Road, Novato and Gregg S. Bussey, 19, of 19 St. John Court, Novato.

After hand-cranked ice cream, home-grown chicken is the favorite food here on the farm.

And we figure the folks in town should be able to get their chicken just as country-fresh as us. Since we're a local farm, we can get our Foster Farms chickens to your store in just hours.

So we do.

On the other hand, better than half of all the chicken sold in state comes from out-of-state. And often takes as long as five days to get to your store.

That means, by the time a Foster Farms fryer is on your table, the other birds may still be on the road.

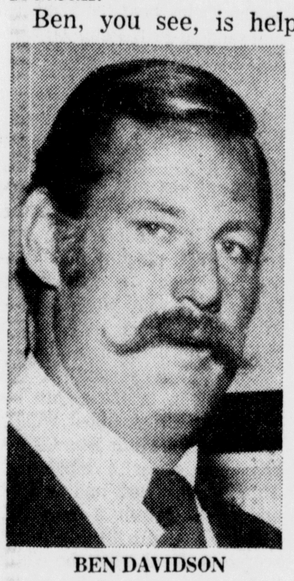
SPORT NOTES

A Good Cause For Bad Ben

By RALPH CHATOIAN

I had a rather large visitor in the office yesterday who answered to the name of Big Ben. Yep, Big Ben Davidson of the Oakland Raiders was here and he wanted to talk about books, not football.

Ben, you see, is helping promote a drive to raise paperback books for hospitalized servicemen in Northern California. Putting on the drive is the 49th Infantry Brigade of the California Army National Guard and the Central Bank. The guardsmen have placed red, white and blue barrels in the lobbies of 32 Central Bank offices in Northern California and each week the guardsmen collect the books and distribute them to hospitals. Ben is helping by doing some of the P.R. work for the drive.



BEN DAVIDSON

Davidson is probably the Raiders' No. 1 man for luncheon dates with Bay Area clubs. During the off season he has three or four P.R. stops to make and yesterday said he recalled once where he had three in one day, breakfast, lunch and dinner.

This year he has visited college campuses in Southern California and has defended the game of football in rebuttals on the teachings of pro grid dropouts such as Dave Meggesey and Chip Oliver.

"On some of my talks I like to do a little more than tell some old tired football jokes," said Davidson.

Sitting there, talking about his daughter's age group swimming successes in meets near their Pleasanton home, he looked more like Gentle Ben, than the Big Bad Ben who makes life miserable for NFL quarterbacks.

The 6-foot-8 inch, 280-pound Davidson said he was optimistic on the Raiders' chinces for a division title this year. And I, for one, was not about to argue with him.

THE SOFTBALL pitching days of veteran hurler Chuck Tyson of the Sohner Tree Service team in San Anselmo appear to be over. The 36-year-old Tyson is resting in Letterman General Hospital, S.F., after undergoing surgery for a damaged tendon in his right shoulder.

Tyson, a transplanted midwesterner from Wayne, Ohio, has been pitching in Marin since 1964, but was told by his doctor that he best forget about any further softball pitching.

"I guess I'll try coaching softball, or maybe umpiring," said the glum Tyson from his hospital bed yesterday. He used to be an ambidextrous pitcher but hurt his left shoulder in 1963 and since that time used only his right arm for pitching.

RUSS GARDINER, 18-year-old freshman at UCLA via Novato High School, shot a 74, two over par, to win the All-UCLA golf tourney over a field of 81 last Friday in Westwood. Russ was captain of Novato High's golf team and a guard on the Hornets' basketball team.

BARRY MAC KAY of Ross and John Zwieg of Kentfield will be among 16 of Northern California's top professional tennis players in the third annual series of Friday noon matches at the Golden Gateway Tennis Club in S.F.

The series begins Friday, with MacKay going against Eugene Cantin of Berkeley. Zwieg will oppose Henry Kamakana July 7. The elimination goes until the finals on Sept. 15. MacKay, former U.S. Davis Cup team member, is currently Northern California's No. 1 ranking player.

Mets: Giants Want Too Much For Mays

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Mets may still end up with Willie Mays, but the San Francisco Giants are going to have to lessen their demands if it is to happen.

The deal, which would have sent the 41-year-old superstar to the Mets, temporarily fell through Tuesday when the Giants demanded a couple of players, instead of money, in exchange.

"Horace (Stoneman) wants players, not money," said M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the Mets. "After consulting with Bob Scheffing (Mets' general manager) and Yogi Berra (field manager) I told Stoneham it is improbable the Mets could provide the personnel he needs."

The Giants, mired in last place in the National League West, reportedly asked for utility infielder Ted Martinez and a pitcher, either John Matlack or Jim McAndrew, in exchange for Mays. Since Mays' days as a player are numbered, the Mets considered the Giants' request way out of line.

Both Grant and Stoneham agreed to leave the door open but both said that no deal would be consummated unless Mays agreed to finish out his playing days in New York.

"We want to be sure Mays wants to come here," said Grant. "The most important thing to be developed before any further talks are Willie's reaction to coming to the Mets and the conditions attached to such a move. It is our position that he will be happy to come to the Mets. If he won't be, that's it. We don't want a dissatisfied player on our club."

Mays, who has always had an affection for New York since he spent the first five years of his career here, said he would like to finish his career in San Francisco but that he had no objections to being traded to the Mets. Willie, however, is a bit upset with the Giants' management about how the whole thing has been handled.

"Mr. Stoneham never even mentioned any deal he was thinking about with me," said Mays. "All I know is what I hear from the news people. Look, I've played most of my career in San Francisco and that's where I want to finish my playing days. I'm happy in San Francisco.

"Now they're telling me that the talk of the trade is completely off. I wonder why? I'm informed it is because the Giants have asked for too many Mets players, or maybe too much from the Mets. But of course all this is hearsay. It's only what I pick up from people."

The Mets and Giants have until June 15, the trading deadline, to decide on Mays.

2 Redwood Trackmen Set Marks

Steve McGee and Tom Malvino, two of Redwood High School's first-rate field event crew that helped the track team to an undefeated dual meet season, set Marin County Athletic League records yesterday in the MCAL trials at the College of Marin in Kentfield.

McGee put the shot 54 feet, four inches, topping by three inches the mark set by Doug Manuel of Drake six years ago. Malvino's leap of 6-4¼ bettered by one-quarter inch Tamalpais' Gerald Robertson's record of last year.

In Class B, Steve Johnson of Terra Linda set a league mark of 22.9 in the 220-yard dash. It easily cracked the old mark of 23.3 by Rich Tierney (Drake) and Jim Grigg (San Rafael).

The trials continued today in varsity, Class B, and freshman events, selecting the top performers in the MCAL for Saturday's league finals.

Drake Surprises Redwood Nine, 2-1

Drake High School pulled the Marin County Athletic League baseball race a notch tighter yesterday by eking out a 2-1 victory over league-leading Redwood in a clash in San Anselmo.

Redwood (8-3) now leads San Marin by one game and a cluster of four teams, including Drake, by two.

Both Drake runs came in the fourth inning as John Billings singled, and after one out Al Curtiss singled, and both advanced as the left fielder booted Curtiss' hit. Doug Harnsberger grounded to first, scoring Billings, and Ken Zepponi singled, scoring Curtiss.

Redwood had tallied on the top of the fourth as Mike Connor reached first on a fielder's choice, took second on Phil Bacigalupi's single, and scored on a throwing error by the shortstop.

Redwood had a chance to salvage a tie with one out and runners on first and third in the seventh inning. Jamie Williams hit a deep fly to Zepponi in center field, who threw to first baseman Bob Mayer, who relayed to catcher Mark Parachini to nail the runner coming in from third on what Drake coach Dick Creighton called "a textbook play."

Rangers Stay Alive In Playoffs

BOSTON (UPI) — Coach Emile Francis put it bluntly to the New York Rangers between periods: "You've got four guys out there that saved the game for you, now go out and win it."

The Rangers were listening, especially Bobby Rousseau, the 5-foot-10 center who hadn't scored in his last 22 games against the Boston Bruins.

Rousseau was the unlikely hero of Tuesday night's 3-2 win by the Rangers that trimmed Boston's lead in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup Championship series to three games to two and kept the hopes of New York alive for the Rangers' first National Hockey League title in 32 years.

Rousseau scored twice in the third period to lift the Rangers from a 2-1 deficit to the winning margin.

The series now shifts back to New York City for the sixth game on Thursday night with the Bruins still needing just one more victory to wrap it up and dip into the champagne they had on ice at Boston Garden. A seventh game in the series, if needed, would be played here Sunday night.

"The Cat (Francis) told me between the second and third periods that I was going to center Teddy (Irvine) and Bruce (MacGregor)," Rousseau said. "He told me that I had been passing the puck too much and that I had to concentrate on shooting a little more."

Rousseau had taken only three shots in the first four games of the series and, as a result, he saw only limited action, working on two power plays, in the first two periods Tuesday night.

So Rousseau paid more atten-

Marin 'Cats Win Two Games In One

By LEW CODDINGTON

Marin Catholic High School defeated Novato in a baseball doubleheader yesterday, 2-1.

No, your eyes do not deceive you. The two schools hooked up in a tense death struggle at Novato's field which was not decided until 15 innings had been played, more than twice the normal length.

Okay. In the record books, it has to be called a single game. It represented Marin Catholic's fourth victory in five games and left the two schools tied for third in the Marin County Athletic League at 6-5. It was, as anyone can tell, the longest baseball game ever play in the MCAL.

But it was really a doubleheader. Ask Don Bianchini, who pitched all 15 innings for Marin Catholic. That's him over there, with his right arm in the whirlpool bath. Or ask Mike Lamb, who hurled all 15 for Novato. He's the guy getting his left arm massaged.

No word short of "brilliant" can describe the pitchers. Lamb fired a one-hitter for seven innings, and with the score 0-0, shrugged his shoulders and pitched a three-hitter for the next seven. He surrendered two hits and two unearned runs in the 15th.

Bianchini pitched a two-hitter, than a three-hitter, then yielded a hit and a run in the 15th. All told, each hurler allowed six hits in 15 innings. Lamb threw 179 pitches, of which 122 were strikes. Bianchini hit the plate 116 times in 176 tries.

Marin Catholic scored with two out in the 15th, following a fine leaping catch by Novato shortstop Tom Conklin to start a double play.

Conklin slid under Bill Payne's tag at third and Lawrence scored, but Bianchini finished his gem by striking out Busher.

"I started to take Bianchini out, but Riccardi waved me off," said Marin Catholic coach Gary Hughes. "He still had confidence in him."

While the Wildcats had bullpen help warming up, Lamb was Novato's only available pitcher. The Hornets' other ace hurler, Marty Moroski, started in left field and was removed twice for pinch runners. He was through in the eighth inning. Ray Stratford had been used as a pinch runner in the fifth.

The game was played with remarkable speed, the first seven innings consuming just one hour and eight minutes. Total time was two hours, 47 minutes.

Most red-faced man on the field was Novato coach Tom Barrie, who had moved the starting time of the game from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. in hopes of drawing a bigger gate. Even with a 12-minute early start, the game ended at 7:35 p.m.

Pete Arbios tagged a Lamb fast ball for a double. Steve Sherry grounded to Conklin, who threw over the first baseman's head for an error, scoring Arbios. Paul Riccardi smacked a Lamb curve for a sinkling line drive into right, and when Bill Busher missed on a try for a shoestring catch, Riccardi had a double and a run batted in.

Novato almost salvaged the game in the bottom of the 15th. Bob Lawrence and Conklin drew walks, and with two down, Dennis Stanley hit a slow roller to second that was ruled a hit.

Second baseman Vince Bormolini, who had trouble handling the ball, threw it past first base, but catcher Riccardi backed up the play and fired the ball to third, catching Conklin in a rundown.

A'S WIN TWIN BILL

Successful Day For Odom

By JOE SARGIS

OAKLAND (UPI) —John Odom, remember him, feels today as if a big load has been lifted from his shoulders.

Odom, a star pitcher for the Oakland A's before Vida Blue burst on the scene last year, has been in eclipse the last year or so with arm problems. He also was involved in a shooting back home in Alabama last winter and when he went to spring training this year, no one was sure how well John would do, not even Odom.

Odom, an all-star pitcher in 1968, has been working slowly but surely this spring building his arm, and he made it all pay off in his first start of the year Tuesday night with a five-inning, three-hit scoreless performance.

The A's won the game for Odom with a three-run outburst in the fifth for a 3-0 decision and a doubleheader sweep on the lowly Milwaukee Brewers. In the opener, the A's converted seven hits, two walks, a sacrifice bunt, a sacrifice fly and two Milwaukee errors into 10 runs in the fourth for a 10-2 victory. Ken Holtzman scattered 10 hits in that one for his fourth victory in five decisions.

"I'll tell you," said Odom, "I was nervous before the game. That's the first time in my life I've felt that way before a pitching assignment. But I pitched well and my arm feels pretty good and that's why I'm relieved. I feel as if a big load has been taken off my shoulders."

Odom was scheduled to throw 80 pitches but he went a little longer, making 88 the first five innings. The former flame thrower, who used to strike out batters, didn't get a man that way and he walked five. Still, he got the big outs when he needed them and that's always the sign of a good pitcher.

"No, I can't throw as hard as I used to," he admitted. "Now I have to use my head as much as my arm. Whereas I used to lean back and throw as hard as I could on every pitch, now, with my arm not quite 100 per cent, I have to throw to spots."

Odom wasn't as wild as five walks would indicate. He missed by inches on several batters but that's probably due mostly to inactivity.

"I think it will all come back," he said, "as I pitch more. My arm feels good now and all I have to do is strengthen it. I'm real pleased for my first time out."

With the kind of bullpen the A's have, the starters have nothing to worry about. Rollie Fingers pitched the last four innings of the nightcap and didn't give up a run. That means in 34 1-3 innings this season the Oakland bullpen has given up only two earned runs.

Angel Mangual drove in three runs in the big first game rally with a double and sacrifice fly and Bobby Brooks, hitting for Odom, got across the only run the A's needed to win the nightcap.

Meanwhile, left-handed reliever Mike Kilkenny was due to report today to the A's after he was acquired in trade from the Detroit Tigers for minor league outfielder-first baseman

Pro Admission Tax Would Net $4 Million

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Pending legislation to impose a 5 per cent admission tax on professional sports would raise more than $4 million a year to buy new open space, its author said yesterday.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, said his bill (SB 1179) would raise $2 million next fiscal year if it became law by January, $4.2 million the following year, and $4.4 million in fiscal 1974-75.

Half of the revenue would be used by the state and half by local government on a matching basis for buying open space and recreational programs. The bill is pending in the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Five Errors As S.F. Falls To Expos, 7-1

MONTREAL (UPI) —The San Francisco Giants are getting a boot out of baseball this season but it's not the kind manager Charlie Fox enjoys.

While kicking the ball around for five errors Tuesday night, the Giants and Juan Marichal dropped a 7-1 decision to the Montreal Expos. A horrendous four-run sixth inning by the Expos seemed to reflect what kind of a season the Giants are having.

Bob Bailey of Montreal singled in the sixth and Mike Jorgensen grounded back to Marichal who went to second for the double play. The bad throw went into centerfield and Ken Singleton was walked intentionally to load the bases.

Boots Day then grounded to Tito Fuentes at second and Tito kicked the ball into the right field bullpen to clean the bases and give Montreal a 6-0 lead.

Righthander Mike Torrez of the Expos scattered nine Giant hits while coasting to his second win of the season. The Giants scored their run in the eighth when Bobby Bonds singled home Fuentes.

Victimized by the bobbles which paved the way for five unearned runs, Marichal went down to his fifth straight defeat after winning his first start of the season. He allowed seven hits.

Will Mays joined the team after seeing his dentist in New York City and singled in a pinchhitting role.

SOCCER PLAYOFFS

U.S. Vs. Mexico

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The United States soccer team, trying to make some athletic history by getting into the final Olympic soccer playoffs, could take a giant step toward Munich tonight with a win over Mexico. The game starts at 8:15.

The Olympic qualifying battle will take place in Kezar Stadium, where the weather figures to be chilly and foggy.

The U.S. has never got past the qualifying round before.

This year, the Yanks almost didn't make it again. After playing three straight 1-1 ties with El Salvador, they finally advanced by winning a penalty kicking contest 6-5.

That put the U.S. into the second round with Mexico, Jamaica, and Guatemala. Two of those teams will join 14 others at the Olympics where the soccer hysteria probably surpasses the track and field furor for almost every other nation but the USA.

Two wins or a win and a tie in the final two games tonight and Sunday in St. Louis against Jamaica would cinch a trip no matter who else wins, but the competition is so hectic that all four teams might well tie at six points apiece leaving officials in a quandary.

The U.S. is coming off a 2-1 win over otherwise unbeaten Guatemala.

U.S. stars include 230-pound John Carenza at center forward. He scored one against Mexico and had a three-goal effort against the Bahamas in exhibition play and a two-goal effort against Haiti in Pan-American Games action.

Forward Steve Gay had three scores in a 3-0 win over Barbados and Pat Seerey hit the pair of goals in the upset win over Guatemala.

Baseball Victory For Tam

Tim Nowell, the Tamalpais High School hurler on the rise, pitched a three-hitter at the Terra Linda Trojans yesterday, giving Tam its first 1972 Marin County Athletic League baseball victory, 4-0, in Mill Valley.

Tamalpais had lost 10 MCAL encounters in succession before yesterday's surprise.

Nowell had held Novato High to a one-hitter last week, but the Indians were shut out in that one, 2-0. He has allowed only one earned run in his last 13 innings.

Carl Freeman, Clifford Hall, and Nowell had base hits in key situations for Tam, as the Indians felt no dearth of runs yesterday.

Freeman's pair of singles contributed to a three-run binge in the initial frame, and to the one-run rally in the third.

In the first, Terra Linda's pitcher Mike Sabel threw the ball into center field on an attempted forceout at second. Hall's single drove in the first run, Freeman's the second.

Jon Lea then coaxed a bases-loaded walk for the other Tam run.

Nowell knocked in Freeman with a single for Tam's tally in the fourth.

Red Sox' Yastrzemski Out With Knee Injury

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

As if Eddie Kasko didn't have enough problems. Now he's lost Carl Yastrzemski, too.

Kasko's job reportedly is in jeopardy after Boston's poor start this season in the American League East and things don't figure to get better now that Yastrzemski, the highest salaried player in the league, is out indefinitely.

LEE WINS

Yastrzemski suffered strained ligaments in his right knee Tuesday night sliding into home plate during the Red Sox' 4-3 victory over the California Angels. The triumph was only the fifth in 15 games for Boston this season, and went reliever Bill Lee of Terra Linda, now 1-1. The 32-year-old outfielder had to be helped from the field after colliding with catcher Art Kusnyer and is scheduled to be examined today after the swelling in the knee goes down.

Yastrzemski, a three-time AL batting champion and winner of the league's Most Valuable Player Award in 1967, was off to one of the worst starts in his career. He entered the game batting .167 and did not have an extra base hit and went hitless in two at-bats Tuesday night.

Bob Burda's two-out single scored Duane Josephson from second base with the winning run after the Red Sox had rallied for three runs in the sixth to tie the game at 3-3.

Josephson, playing first base for the first time in his career, opened the eighth with the third single of the game, went to second on a sacrifice and slid home with the decisive run, barely beating Bob Oliver's throw to the plate.

Oliver hit his second homer in as many games for the Angels in the third and Carlton Fisk tied the game for Boston with a two-run double in the sixth.

OTHER SCORES

Elsewhere in the AL, Cleveland edged Kansas City 2-1, Minnesota downed New York 42, Oakland swept Milwaukee 102 and 3-0, Detroit beat Chicago 5-2 and Texas at Baltimore was rained out.

In the National League, St. Louis nipped Houston 2-1, Montreal ripped San Francisco 7-1, Chicago downed Cincinnati 7-1, Pittsburgh beat Atlanta 5-2 and Los Angels at New York and San Diego at Philadelphia were postponed because of rain.

Del Unser's two-run homer in the eighth inning carried the Indians over Kansas City. Unser homered after winning pitcher Dick Tidrow's two-out single. Lou Piniella homered in the ninth for the Royals, snapping a 34-inning scoreless streak by the Cleveland pitching staff

Phil Roof singled in a run during a three-run second inning and doubled in the seventh as the Twins beat the Yankees and saddled Fritz Peterson with his fifth loss without a victory.

THREE RUNS

Harmon Killebrew's single, Bobby Darwin's double, an infield out and singles by Roof, Jim Kaat and Cesar Tovar accounted for three runs in the second. Roof doubled in the seventh and pinch-runner Jimmy Nettles scored on a sacrifice and a wild pitch. Felipe Alou and Thurman Munson homered for both Yankee runs.

Norm Cash singled in the decisive run in the eighth inning as the Tigers beat Wilbur Wood and the White Sox. Cash's hit came after a single by Aurelio Rodriguez and a walk and gave Detroit a 3-0 lead. Chicago ended a 34 1-3 inning scoreless streak when the White Sox scored twice in the ninth. Wood's loss was his second of the season, both to Detroit.

Petaluma High School continued its relentless drive to the North Bay League baseball title yesterday with a 15-hit explosion that beat Ukiah, 7-5, at McNear Park in Petaluma.

In other southern Sonoma County baseball action, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park broke a two-game Sonoma County League losing streak with a 1-0, 11-inning victory over Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa; St. Vincent beat Cloverdale, 4-3, in a non-league encounter, and Tomales finished its North Central II season with a 9-1 loss to Calistoga.

San Marin Turns Back San Rafael

Greg Mazeres pitched out of a no-out, bases-loaded jam in the seventh inning to lead San Marin High School to a 4-3 baseball victory over San Rafael yesterday at Albert Park.

The triumph moved the surprising Mustangs into second place in the Marin County Athletic League with a 7-4 record, one game behind Redwood with three to go.

San Rafael actually put four different men on base in the seventh, but could get none across the plate. An infield single, a bunt single and a walk loaded the bases with none out, but Mazeres picked the runner off third. A bloop single to right loaded the bases again, but Mazeres induced a pop to first and a grounder back to the mound.

After San Rafael scored in the third inning on a run-producing single by Dirk Gansloer, San Marin rallied for three runs in the fourth.

Marty Larsen tripled and scored on a single by Mazeres, who then stole second, took third on a passed ball and stood fast as Hoza Wright walked and stole second. Mike Bacho bounded a single over the third baseman's head for two runs.

Barry's Bank Shot Wins For The Nets

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —The New York Nets bounced back to life Tuesday night and evened their American Basketball Association championship playoffs with the Indiana Pacers with a 117-115 triumph.

The Nets carried the series to New York where game No. 3 will be played Friday night followed by No. 4 next Monday.

New York Coach Lou Carnesecca was pleased as he assessed his team's win in the confines of the jubilant dressing room. "They can't keep our club down long," he said in obvious reference to Saturday's 124-103 setback at Bloomington, Ind.

"Our board penetration tonight was better," Carnesecca added, "and we were much more alive tonight. We're very happy to come out of Indiana at 1-and-1. To beat Indiana at Indiana is always nice."

The victory came in the closing seconds when Rick Barry tossed in a 12-foot bank shot with 27 seconds left on the clock. Indiana had chances to win, but the ball did not go in the hoop.

tion to his shooting and scored on two of his three opportunities in the final stanza. The first came at 2:56, tying the game at 2-2 on a fairly soft 25-footer that Boston goalie Eddie Johnston got a glove on, then lost.

His second score, the game-winner, "hit Johnston's right forearm and then went in," Rousseau said. That put the Rangers on top with 7:15 left in the game.

"I've had bigger goals before," Rousseau said, "and I hope to have bigger ones yet. We have the potential to come back."

Francis felt the turning point in the game came late in the second period when two Rangers—defenseman Gary Doak and center Walt Tkaczuk—were in the penalty box for an overlapping span of 1:29 and the Bruins failed to score.

"We had just three guys out there with (goalie Gilles) Villemure for the whole time and they did a heck of a job in killing off the penalties," Francis said.

"Villemure made four or five real great saves and the other three guys—Brad Park, Dale Rolfe and Bruce MacGregor—stopped the Boston power play," Francis said. "And you know these guys have got the best power play in the league."

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

It's Time To Check Safety Equipment

Now that the boating season is really getting into high gear, let me urge every operator to check the safety equipment he should carry on his boat. Remember, the Coast Guard and the many other law enforcement agencies which check on boatmen are also getting into high gear.

I'm sure everybody knows of the new rule which became law April 17 that every boat, no matter how it's propelled, must now carry a life-saving device for each person aboard.

If the boat is the closed-in kind with fuel tanks, or has an inboard engine, it must have an approved ventilation system, a flame arrestor on the carburetor, and a fire extinguisher. Boats 16 feet to 26 feet long must carry a whistle or a horn for signalling. Boats 26 feet to 40 feet long must have a bell, a more powerful whistle or horn, and two fire extinguishers.

Now this is just a sketchy outline of what safety equipment is required by law. . .and also by good common sense. . . to make boats safe. If you have any doubts about what you should carry on your boat, get a copy of the Coast Guard recreational Boating Guide. It tells all.

The boating Guide (booklet CG-340) costs 60 cents from the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Up to now we've been talking about requirements under federal law. But many states, under the authority given them by the Boating Act of 1958, can make boating laws of their own. . .and most do. Many go further than the federal requirements in safety equipment and practices. So besides the Boating Guide, it's just as important to get a copy of California's boating regulations. Most marine dealers have these state regulation pamphlets.

But besides equipment required by law, many boaters read publications which give lists of suggested safety equipment, such as anchors, rope, flares. And often, what is compulsory and what is considered good sense are confused in the minds of boating beginners, as some of these questions I've been asked indicate:

Q. Cushions are a lot cheaper than life preservers. Are they as good?

A. They're even better. . .to sit on. . .but as life saving devices I think they have only a limited use, and many people share this belief. The cushions won't keep your head out of water if you should pass out from exposure. . .a not uncommon eventuality in the cooler waters of our northern states.

Q. Must a water skier wear a life preserver?

A. In some states it is now compulsory. Check your state law. But in any case, a water skier is considered a passenger in a boat and there must be an approved life saving device aboard for the skier.

Q. Is a rearview mirror required equipment?

A. It is in a few states, in lieu of an observer in the boat if you are pulling a water skier. This is usually covered under state boating regulations. Check yours.

Q. Must we have a life vest for our five-month-old baby?

A. The law says: "for each person" aboard. It doesn't mention age. Webster says a person is an "individual human being" and that certainly includes babies. But even the smallest life jacket may not fit a small child without some major adjustment.

Q. How can I really find out what I need to carry on a boat for my own peace of mind. . .?

A. Consider taking a course with the U.S. Power Squadrons or the Coast Guard Auxiliary. Write: U.S.P.S. at National Headquarters, 50 Craig Road, P.O. Box 345, Montvale, New Jersey 07645, and the National Director, U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Washington, D.C. 10591.

When Opponents Look Stupid Save Bacon On First Trick

When the opponents attack your strongest suit do you tell them that your pet canary can make better opening leads? Or do you observe a polite silence and hope secretly that they'll persist in their stupidity?

STRONG SUIT

West opens the jack of diamonds against your contract of three notrump. This is your strongest suit, and perhaps you say something clever as you win the first trick. If so, we'll have a word or two for you later.

Your natural next move is to finesse with the queen of spades. East wins with the king and returns his other diamond, forcing your king.

You get to dummy with a spade and lead a heart to the king. West wins with the ace and knocks out your third top diamond.

Now West will get in with the king of clubs in time to defeat the contract. The defenders will take two diamonds, the ace of hearts and the two black kings.

THE PROMISED WORD

We promised you a word or two, and here they are: Hold up! Even though you have three sure tricks in diamonds, refuse that first trick.

West continues, and you take the second trick with the queen of diamonds. When you then take the spade finesse, East cannot lead a diamond. This saves your bacon.

REFUSE SPADE

East's best play, in fact, is to refuse the first spade. You take a club finesse, losing to the king. West knocks out the king of diamonds, and you try another spade finesse.

East takes the king of spades, and the defenders get one trick in each suit, but you make your contract.

This hold-up with a triple stopper is a curiosity rather than a lesson. When the opponents lead a suit in which you have three sure tricks, you can usually afford to take the first trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- K 8 6
♥- J 9 6 3
♦- 5 3
♣- Q 9 8 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

With six points in high cards you can afford a response. Bid the major suit, despite its weakness, rather than one notrump.

Saving In Ticket Prices Is Told

Books of tickets, affording a savings on admission, are being offered for sale for the July 2-4 Marin Art and Garden festival, "A Grand Old Fourth."

Mrs. Madison Devlin, festival chairman, said the books are available at the center in Ross, where the festival will be held, or through center members.

The three-day event will feature old-style entertainment, old-style foods and a huge "Grandma's attic" flea market.

INSURANCE MAGNATE

Arthur S. Moss Is A Big Yet Little Known Success

NEW YORK (UPI)—One of the biggest yet little known American success stories involves Arthur S. De Moss, 46, a man honored by church groups and criticized by some state insurance commissions.

In 1959, De Moss spent his last $100 to advertise in an evangelical newspaper, "Sword of the Law." The advertisement offered lower health and accident insurance rates to teetotalers.

Today, he is president of National Liberty Corporation, Valley Forge, Pa., a giant conglomerate in the supplemental health insurance field which was built on his belief that insurance lent itself to marketing on a mass basis. De Moss is worth more than $300 million based on his holdings in National Liberty stock alone. He owns 7,084 million shares, or 80.6 per cent of the outstanding shares, which have been selling around $45 over the counter.

"It's a funny thing about that," said De Moss, a neat, conservative dresser whose dark eyes fix on an interviewer. "When I was in my late teens and early twenties, roaring around to race tracks and night clubs, I sought money avidly and never had any. Since I had a religious experience in my mid-twenties and stopped caring for money I've made a lot of it."

Almost from the day of that first advertisement, De Moss had so many orders for insurance rolling in through the mail that the company he represented couldn't keep pace. So he formed his own and it grew into National Liberty which employs 1,080 people headquartered on 92 rolling acres near Philadelphia. It is the parent company of a group of insurance and marketing divisions: National Liberty Life Insurance, National Home Life Assurance, National Liberty Marketing, Inc., National Consumer Marketing and National Information Systems Corp.

De Moss's theory that insurance could be sold to a mass market via mail was based on the belief there are many people who want supplementary insurance in an era of rising medical and hospital costs. It paid off bigger than even he had thought possible.

In 1971, National Liberty wrote more than 1 million new policies and processed more than 250,000 claims. Revenues rose from $9,000 in 1959 to almost $83 million in 1971.

"I believe," said De Moss, toying with a gold cuff link, "that we're the largest newspaper advertiser in the country with about one billion exposures per year. Our advertising budget—newspapers, television, magazines and direct mail—is better than $1 million per week."

"Business always looks better in the springtime."

The California, Washington and Pennsylvania Insurance Commissios have criticized National Liberty's advertising as ambiguous and misleading. Washington and California specifically charged National Liberty in April with failing to identify entertainer Art Linkletter, who endorses the company's insurance in television commercials and newspaper advertisements, as a director of the company.

De Moss pointed out that his annual report identifies Linkletter as a director and said he is "not only willing but eager to abide by any regulation any state commission wants to lay down."

He now spends almost as much time on evangelical work as on insurance sales. De Moss says that he, as an individual, donates more than 80 per cent of his personal income to evangelical causes.

He established the National Liberty Foundation of Valley Forge which he said will receive all but a small portion of his estate for use in promoting international evangelism. The company's annual report often quotes the scriptures. He is active in the Christian Businessmen's Association and Campus Crusade for Christ. And he is one of 11 Americans selected this year to receive the Business Leader of the Year Award from the Religious Heritage of America, Inc.

As he ended a recent interview, De Moss asked if he might "leave something." "Certainly," said the interviewer, thinking it would be an insurance application form. Instead, he was handed two evangelical tracts.

"Please read them," said De Moss as he shook hands firmly. "They'll help, especially if you follow up by going to church."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Three Broad Areas Of Good Potential

By ROGER SPEAR

Q. What three groups do you think will do the best in the next 6 to 18 months? What three companies would you pick within these three industries? — C.P.

A. You have posted a very interesting question which is not an easy one to answer. Very broadly the three areas which I believe have above-average market potential are health care, leisure and recreation and cyclical industries. However, each area encompasses several industry groupings.

For instance, the first category includes drugs, hospital supplies, diagnostic laboratories, nursing homes, medical instruments and hospital management. The final two hold the greatest potential. Expenditures for health care nationally are expected to mushroom from the present $80 billion annual level to $200 billion by 1980.

Leisure and recreation is another "Pandora's box" which holds such industries as hotel/motel chains, sporting equipment manufacturers, real estate developers, entertainment complexes, airlines, travel services, photography suppliers and so forth. Although investors have bid most of these groups to relatively high levels, continued growth seems probable.

Finally, in the cyclical industries it is a matter of timing; the economics climate has improved and these companies are benefitting. Capital equipment manufacturers, truckmakers and steels are well positioned for strong recovery gains.

Stocks previously discussed and recommended here, which fall in the above groups include: American Express, AMF, Baird Atomic, Bekins Co., Damon Corp., Disney, Eastman Kodak, Hewlett-Packard and TWA. In addition to these I like Tyler Corp., a cyclical issue, Technicon and American Medical International both involved in health care and in the recreation field, General Development. Tyler (NYSE) operates in three major areas: manufactures cast iron pipes, fabricates heaters and condensors for power plants and specializes in heavy trucking.

Earnings are in a strong uptrend. American Medical Inter. (NYSE) operates 20 general hospitals and could earn $1.20 a share this year vs. $1.02 in fiscal 1971. Speculative Technicon (NYSE) should benefit from increased spending for cancer research. Gen. Development (NYSE) a majo Florida land developer, should continue its strong earnings pattern.

Standard Brands Paint Sales Good

I-J Special Report

TORRANCE — Sid Greenberg, Chairman of the Board of Standard Brands Paint Co. announced that the company has registered all time record sales and profits for the first half of fiscal 1972. Net profits were up 22 per cent on a 23 per cent sales increase over the comparable period of the previous year.

Net profit after taxes amounted to $2,222,259, equal to 43 cents per share on 5,155,802 common shares. This compares with $1,826,134 equal to .36 cents per share on 5,127,890 share a year earlier.

Selective Buyers Hunt Bargains

NEW YORK (UPI)—Selective buyers shored the stock market in the first two hours today as they sought bargains amid depressed issues. Trading was moderate.

Advances outnumbered declines, 825 to 382, among the 1,571 issues traded. The two hour-volume came to more than 5,500,000 shares compared to more than 11,000,000 during the comparable period Tuesday.

Prices also moved ahead on the American Stock Exchange.

Royal Inns of America led the list, off ½ to 17⅜ on 55,100 shares.

On the NYSE steel issues were higher in fractions. Republic Steel gained 1-8, Armco 1-4.

In the motors, Ford added 1 and White Motor tacked on 5-8. Chemical stocks showed strength after losing ground Tuesday. Eastman Kodak was up 1 7-8, Dupont 1 1-2.

Oil issues were mixed to slightly higher. Pennzoil was a point-size gainer while Getty, Natomas and Phillips Petroleum each gained 1-2.

Rails and airlines stocks were slightly higher. TWA picked up 1 1-4.

Aircraft stocks were mixed in fractions.

In the volatile electronics and computers, IBM picked up 4 1-2 to recoup some of the heavy Tuesday loss. Honeywell added 2, and Control Data, Burroughs, Fairchild Camera and Memorex each added a point or more. The whole group was stronger.

Higher Education In Financial Trouble

Can you imagine the outcry if a committee came up with a proposal to cut the faculty of University of California by 50 per cent?

And can you imagine a committee made up of U.C. administrators, faculty members and students making such a proposal?

"Impossible!" you say.

YET SUCH a proposal for New York University is included in the preliminary report of a committee of administrators, faculty members and students appointed by Dr. James M. Hester, NYU president, to investigate means of meeting its financial crisis.

The New York Times reports the committee has tentatively suggested not only cutting the faculty by half, but making similar cuts in administrative staff, libraries, dormitories, and counseling, as necessary to balance income and outlay.

ALMOST ALL universities and colleges complain constantly of financial stringency. Of late the complaints have been becoming louder. But just because they have been heard so often for so long, they are given little heed. It is the old story of "the boy who cried 'wolf!'".

We recall the agonizing of U.C. officials, from the top down, when Governor Reagan made some cuts in the university's budget requests and froze faculty salaries. Then protests proved too much even for Reagan. His feet were not set in concrete firmly enough to withstand them.

Yet, at the same time these minor reductions were assailed as threatening the excellence of the university, studies showed that many of the U.C. faculty spend little or no time in classroom instruction. And among these are most of the big names upon whose reputations the university largely stakes its claim to that same excellence.

THE PREPONDERANCE of spending on graduate schools, to the detriment of the much more largely attended undergraduate level, has been often decried. It exists at public universities across the nation, and U.C. is far from being an exception.

Yet the same Governor Reagan who incurred the educators' wrath by temporarily freezing their salaries signed a bill to transform the California state colleges into universities. And it is far from a secret that the reason the state colleges want university status is so they can expand their graduate programs — again to the detriment of the undergraduate level.

WE DOUBT that it is pure coincidence that the same educators and legislators who promoted university status for the state colleges are urging that community colleges be expanded into four-year institutions.

This would put the load for higher education pretty largely on the property tax, in contradiction to the philosophy expressed in the California State Constitution.

THE TIME to do some paring where it can be done with least damage is before our university and state colleges get into such a financial bind as New York University.

That time is here. The institutions of higher eudcation are not just crying "wolf". They really are in financial trouble. But most of it results from their own loose spending practices and over-emphasis on graduate programs.

Labor And Business Join To Fight Super-Agencies

By EARL G. WATERS

When the evironmentalists discovered that practically all of the business, banking, industrial, labor and local government forces in the state had joined up to fight the so-called coastal protection bills, they screamed bloody murder.

At issue are the proposals by Beverly Hills liberal Assemblyman Alan Sieroty and erstwhile conservative Republican Sen. Donald Grunsky. The senator's district embraces Carmel, a stronghold for ecologists.

The bills are presented as necessary to protect California's coastline from destruction by uncontrolled development. The opposition contends they would destroy home rule, grabbing authority from local government and handing it to regional super-agencies. These stratospheric governments would be run by appointive super-planners.

From that point forward no development would be permitted within a mile of the California coast unless authorized by some appointive genius.

STATE LABOR officials, all of whom are about to have strokes over the Sieroty-Grunsky bills, have protested that 70 per cent of all construction in California would be stymied by the proposals.

The labor people are joined by most responsible business and industry. And when labor and management jump into bed together there really must be one helluva problem.

But that's not all the opposition. Practically every city and county official in the entire state is up in arms. While the regional concept of the coastal planners presents a threat only to those in authority along the coast, local government is well aware that this is only one of a series of measures designed to create regional super-agencies.

For the regional concept of government is not new this session. It has been embraced in various measures in growing numbers. Most have been unsuccessful, but with the ecologists drumming up steam, the coastal protection idea presents the most serious threat. The opposition views it as an opening wedge.

"After the coast," they say, "it will be the mountains, then the deserts. These people want to halt progress and turn back the clock."

ONLY LAST SESSION a bill by Assemblyman John Knox creating a super-regional government in the San Francisco Bay Area got all the way to the Senate floor before it was defeated, largely by the efforts of Sen. Clark Bradley.

"What they really are after," Bradley said, "is the super planned community where a board with absolute authority can tell the people where they can live and where they cannot live and all the rest of the purely socialistic planning that a whole society of super-planners so vigorously advocate."

The environmentalists are a busy group. And, like all crusaders, they have difficulty seeing any view but their own. So it was a startling revelation to them to learn that the opposition had teamed up. Immediately they charged a conspiracy. They claimed influential lobbyists were holding secret meetings to defeat their bills.

Those representing the opposition declared there was nothing secret about the meetings or about those who had lined up against the bill. In fact the lobbyists handed Senator Grunsky a list of those opposed.

"We want everyone to know about our opposition," said a lobbyist representing landowners.

"If we're going to have law and order in this town, Big Joe and his family have to go."

Movies Too High; Quality Too Poor

Re: "Youths Demand Cheaper Motion Picture Tickets."

I heartily endorse the action of "MGM" and trust their concern can be transferred to others and form a boycott sufficient to prove to Blumenfeld Enterprises and other owners that the public is extremely unhappy about movie and concession prices as well as the deteriorating quality of motion pictures. It is rare that Marin movies show a program fit for human consumption.

Serious Look Urged At County Ombudsman

The board of supervisors has tabled for the time a proposal to establish in this county an ombudsman. I express the sentiment of many citizens in wishing to see a non-civil service type institution come to fruition: that the same be endorsed financially by local government, yet enfranchised and structured in such fashion that it could be autonomous and efficacious.

I hope the board of supervisors takes a serious look at this matter and that other members of the community voice their assents.

'Survival' Points Way To Save Future

Thanks for the well written article about the ecology group called Survival in the issue of Apr. 20. Wish to add that about 500 high school students take turns manning the depots without pay. Besides them there are some dozen young adults who supervise, load and truck the recyclables, handle office details and numerous other jobs who receive a small salary. They are all dedicated and deserve our support.

The organizers of Survival realize that what is being done here isn't going to save the world by itself, but if it succeeds in Marin, it could spread over the whole country. They feel that Marin residents, in general, are more informed — thus more concerned than in most places, so what better place to start!

At our home we keep a box on a low shelf where all glass and flattened cans are collected. Another container holds all vegetable refuse, which goes into a compost pile, later to be used for our organic garden. All waste paper goes in the fireplace. The garbage man comes here once in two weeks and then there is almost nothing to pick up. The 50 cent service charge made by Survival for a load once a month is more than offset by cutting your scavenger bill in half and at the same time you know that your garbage isn't helping to fill the bay.

Reason For Larkspur Speed Enforcement

We would like to express our point of view on the letter which appeared in this newspaper on May 3, written by Dr. Arthur C. Fenn.

As stated by Dr. Fenn, we do have strict traffic enforcement on Magnolia Avenue in the City of Larkspur during the times he mentioned. The reason for this is simple. Magnolia Avenue handles a tremendous amount of commute traffic in the morning and afternoon hours, and is also a marin artery for persons travelling from the Fairfax area to Corte Madera and Mill Valley.

Our main problem stems from persons not obeying the posted speed limit signs in this area. Contrary to Dr. Fenn's statement that our officers appear from inconspicuous places, traffic enforcement in this area is primarily by radar control. This means that the officer must place his vehicle in such a manner along the roadway as to observe the flow of traffic. In short, the officer is visible to the motorist or should be if he is paying attention. . .

Dr. Fenn states that he fell "victim" to a traffic officer at this location while en route to the hospital to answer an emergency call. This is not exactly true. Dr. Fenn indeed stopped, while in his private vehicle as he states. However, the violation was for travelling exactly 17 miles per hour over the posted speed limit. He was travelling 42 miles per hour in a posted 25 miles per hour zone.

The officer upon hearing the doctor's reason for his speed, thought it advisable to merely warn him of his speed so that he might continue to the hospital without further delay. So, in fact, Dr. Fenn was not a "victim" nor was he harrassed. . .

We are very proud of the fact that we have not had a traffic fatality on our city streets for some 12 years and hope that we may continue this trend.

We feel the last paragraph of Dr. Fenn's letter is very true. The public is very concerned, as evidenced by the number of calls to this department, from concerned citizens in which they expressed their dismay at the criticism by Dr. Fenn. We would like to thank those citizens publicly for their support.

If The Worst Comes To Vietnam, What Will Be Result In U.S.?

WASHINGTON — Despite the grim uncertainty, it is too soon to judge that South Vietnam will not be able to check Hanoi's massive invasion.

Saigon is being forced to resist the onslaughts of almost tha entire North Vietnamese army and the balance-of-power is narrow. The goal is to hold off the invaders sufficiently so that serious negotiation will be necessary.

But the worst could happen and therefore it is not too soon for Americans to examine in their own minds what their response is going to be if total disaster befalls the brave people of South Vietnam; if Communist conquest-by-force engulfs the whole of Indochina and a blood bath for millions of resisters ensues as threatened.

WHAT WILL BE the impact of this ominous spectacle upon the United States? Will there be a nightmare of recrimination, a frantic search for scrapegoats to assign the blame to anyone else but ourselves?

Will such a foreboding defeat persuade America's adversaries — and allies — that the United States is on a downward path to eclipse as a great power and that they must make new alliances or face new aggression?

Or will we view a Communist takeover of Indochina as a painful but relatively minor setback and a lesson from which the whole nation has much to learn?

CALAMITY IN VIETNAM — if it comes — couldn't come at a worse time for the United States because:

It would almost certainly lacerate already deep division within the nation.

It would add boiling controversy to the heat and scuffle of the presidential campaign.

It would cast a pall of perilous uncertainty over every independent country in Southeast Asia — from the Philippines to Indonesia.

It could greatly increase the danger of war in the Middle East by persuading the Soviet Union and Egypt that the United States is so distracted that now is the time to take on Israel.

It could convince China that the United States is really a "paper tiger" as it has long claimed.

It would be a disaster greater than the Bay of Pigs because the United States has been deeply committed and directly involved.

BECAUSE THE PRESIDENCY itself would be at stake, the tendency would be for the candidates, the parties and doves and hawks to point accusing fingers at each other, to exaggerate every argument and to stir the nation to a state of acrimony and self-doubt.

The French suffered some of this after the disaster at Dienbienphu. But it could be worse for us. The French lacked both the power and the will to win. But in our case we had the power but lacked the will.

All this is what President Nixon hoped to avoid by everything he has done to strengthen South Vietnam's capacity to defend itself.

HE MAY SUCCEED, but if not, it will be hard to escape a period of bitter recrimination. Its first impact would cause nearly everyone to see others as a scapegoat: the President because many feel he is to blame for not getting out sooner and faster; his principal critics because they didn't care if South Vietnam was overrun and the consequences of their policies would be only too visible; the military and many Vietnam veterans who have felt all along that the home front let them down.

This kind of recrimination could be terribly dangerous unless as a people we can summon the poise, the restraint, the self-discipline and the mutual respect to take the worst and rise above it, and to learn its lesson without it leaving us crushed and hopelessly divided. The worst may not come upon us — but we need to be ready to deal with it.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Unheralded Editor Wages Highly Important Fight To Know

WASHINGTON — The most dramatic confrontations over the people's right to know what is going on in their government involve flaming personalities — heroes and villains, the stuff of conflict, suitable for framing on the 23-inch screen in everybody's living room.

But the most fundamental ones are often the ones you hear the least about. The villains are not world-shaking figures with Teutonic accents, the secrets not necessarily matters of war and peace. Instead the villain is inertia or tradition or the two of them wrapped up together and called the bureaucracy, and the secrets involve mundane matters like nursing home inspection reports.

THE HERO, in the case at hand, is no matinee idol but a soft-spoken man with an unassuming mustache who is Washington editor for a magazine most of us never pick up, called Hospital Practice. Neither he nor his magazine is eligible for a Pulitzer Prize or a Peabody Award. But the issue they are battling the bureaucracy on involves an agency with which most Americans have direct contact every payday — the Social Security Administration.

Mal Schechter first got hot about secrecy practiced by the Social Security bureaucracy when he was investigating the disastrous fire at a Marietta, Ohio, nursing home in January, 1970, when 32 of 46 patients were killed. The home had been inspected for Social Security because it participated in the Medicare program. Schechter reasonably asked to see the inspection report. Social Security refused.

It was not going out of its way to protect the operators of that particular nursing home. It was carrying out a policy that has existed since the late 1930s, under which "all" Social Security Administration records, other than broad statistics, were protected from the public as jealously as if they were "Eyes Only" Pentagon documents about thermonuclear delivery systems.

SCHECHTER, LIKE a good reporter, went around Social Security and got the pertinent information from another source in HEW. It showed that interior furnishings of the supposedly fireproof nursing home had been cleared, although later the carpet backing burned with dense smoke that caused most of the deaths. It was a good story, and he published it. But he did not quit there. There is too much other information of criticial public interest still locked up in Social Security under outdated restrictions.

Originally, Social Security taxpayer-beneficiary records were made confidential by public law, to protect the privacy of the millions of individuals involved. This protection remains a valid motive and is not being challenged. But since Medicare was passed during the Johnson administration, Social Security has dealt extensively with hospitals, nursing homes, clinical laboratories, physicians, health departments and insurance companies, most of them profit-making enterprises. The taxpayer is spending more than $6.3 billion a year for Medicare.

Yet under a law more than 30 years old, Social Security is shielding information about this vast program only six years old — for no good reason except that back in 1939, Congress properly passed a law to protect individual Social Security beneficiaries from prying and exploitation by businesses, politicians and neighbors.

REMINDED OF THIS, Social Security officials had the power to adjust their information policy, to continue to protect individual records but disclose their dealings with institutions. There are, for example, some 4,400 nursing homes profiting from Medicare. And inspectors covering them use report forms requiring roughly 400 items about their personnel, fire safety, physicians available and so on.

This would be a valuable national directory of nursing homes for families in deciding where to place elderly invalids. But Social Security withholds it, on the lame bureaucratic excuse that it might be "misinterpreted" or create "adverse public reaction."

Schechter is still boring in. He has filed suit in federal court under the Freedom of Information Act for data on 14 Washington area nursing homes, as well as latest information from the one in Ohio. His drive has been taken up in Congress, where Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., has a disclosure amendment pending in the Senate Finance Committee; Rep. John Saylor, R-Pa., is sponsoring one in the House, and Rep. Donald Dellums, D-Calif., is pushing for data from Social Security about health insurance companies.

Many Marinites Willing To Pay Extra Taxes For Open Space

If you can believe one recent poll in Marin, there's a sizable segment of the populace that (hold your hat!) wouldn't mind paying more taxes.

Probably most people who compose this group are responsible, taxpaying property owners. You ask why in the world, then, would they want to pay more taxes?

The answer is open space.

PEOPLE FOR PARKS and Open Space — an organization pushing for a Marin-wide regional park district — polled fully 10 per cent of the county's 95,292 registered voters. Strongly indicated was a willingness to pay an added chunk of taxes for purchase of open space.

It's no surprise that those polled overwhelmingly approved the concept of open space. It's a popular issue these days.

But what may be surprising is the fact that 74.2 per cent said they favor a taxing district to buy the land. And when further asked if they'd mind paying the district, say, $8.75 in property taxes each year on a $35,000 house, 64.9 per cent said yes. (A little quick scratchpad work computes that $8.75 into 2.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation.)

Interesting figures, those.

THAT $8.75 may not seem like much. But the total property tax levy for the current fiscal year is more than $80 million, an increase of $12 million, or 17 per cent, over last year's figures.

And these figures don't include state and federal taxes. Just what's paid to Marin taxing agencies.

What People for Parks and Open Space aims for is a measure on the November ballot to determine whether a taxing district should be formed.

But since the organization undertook its drive early this year, the county board of supervisors has endorsed another plan which calls for formation of a taxing district to replace the county parks and recreation department. That plan would raise the park-rec tax rate from 12 cents to 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation, or an 8-cent rise in the tax rate.

So, the plan supervisors favor would raise the tax rate by 5.5 cents more than would the plan by People for Parks and Open Space.

People for Parks and Open Space currently is assessing the other plan, and may yet decide to endorse it. Meanwhile, it looks as though voters will be able to decide in November which of the two increases they prefer — if indeed they prefer any increase at all.

Novato Gets 55 Miles Of Horse Trails

Novato, true to its tradition as a horsey community, will establish a 55-mile horse trail system in its general plan.

After a two-hour and 30-minute hearing, during which backers of the plan even put in a good word for horse manure, the Novato City Council voted 3-2 to establish the trails.

Councilmen Fred F. Ruegg, who argued that horse riders should bear the cost of such trails, and Councilman George C. Quesada, who wanted to eliminate temporarily the controversial Eucalyptus Avenue link in the system, dissented.

COST ESTIMATES

Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps estimated the total trail system would cost upwards of $500,000 and would cost $13,000 annually to maintain.

About 50 persons were on hand to push for the trails and a series of speakers hailed horses as an aid to the economy in Novato, a recreational asset to children and a vital part of the semi-rural character of the city.

George Barnwell, cochairman of the Novato Committee of the Marin Trails Council, challenged Temps's cost estimates and said all the council asked was that guidelines be set and streets where horses now travel "be left that way."

It would cost less to have the trails along the streets than it would if improvements, curbs, gutters and sidewalks, were put in, Barnwell said. "If we don't do it now, in 10 years a special characteristic of Novato will disappear," he said.

Other speakers said the present access to riding trails is inadequate, that the horse trails can be incorporated into the Army Corps of Engineers project for Novato Creek and would fit the community's tradition.

Marianne Gersing of 1901 Novato Boulevard presented the signatures of about 45 young riders, urging the preservation of horse trails.

SOME OPPOSITION

Strong opposition came from some residents along Eucalyptus Avenue where the trail would pass their homes and take right-of-way from their property.

Quesada made a motion to eliminate Eucalpytus Avenue from the system until conflict over that portion was resolved. It lost, 3-2 with only Quesada and Ruegg supporting it.

The council unanimously approved establishing a bicycle system, about 90 per cent of which would use existing streets.

Temps estimated over a 20-year period, the bicycle trails would cost from $100,000 to $200,000 and the annual maintenance would be about $5,000 a year at the start and "ultimately" $10,000 a year.

Novato Youth Given Voice On Commission

The Novato City Council voted unanimously last night to establish a Novato Youth Advisory Commission of unlimited membership to give youth a voice in community matters.

Members will be selected by the interest they show, and those who attend a third consecutive meeting will be automatically appointed, including adults.

"It's membership by interest," City Mgr. Charles A. Brown explained.

The commission's task will be to identify the problems of youth in the community, study existing youth programs, develop plans to improve programs or create new programs and make recommendations to private organizations and public agencies serving Novato.

The Novato City Council Also:

BOULEVARD WORK — Awarded W. R. Forde Construction Co. of Greenbrae, low bidder, a contract to widen South Novato Boulevard at Diablo Avenue, Yukon Way and Stone Drive and install traffic signals at South Novato Boulevard and Diablo Avenue at a cost of $126,776.

PARADE PERMITS — Awarded permits for the IDESI, a Portuguese society, parade at 9:30 a.m. Sunday and the Western Country Fair parade May 27.

ABAG REPRESENTATIVES — Appointed Mayor Wayne Sartain as city representative to the Association of Bay Area Governments and Fred F. Ruegg as alternate.

INSURANCE ANALYSIS — Approved an analysis of the city's property and liability insurance by Warren McVeigh of San Francisco by a 4-1 vote with Councilman George C. Quesada, who wanted a study first by local insurance agents, dissenting.

OAKS SUBDIVISION — Postponed action on final acceptance of Oaks Unit No. 2, a 76-lot subdivision by Condiotti Enterprises Inc., east of Santa Maria Drive until several conditions were met, especially a fire access road to the development. John A. Trumbull, a member of the Marin Highlands-Oaks Improvement Association, said residents were concerned about adequate access for fire equipment.

HILL AVENUE — Reversed planning commission denial of precise development plans by Robert Kagan for 92 apartment units on 5.9 acres at the end of Hill Avenue off Indian Valley Road by a 4-0 vote with Councilman David Price Jones abstaining, because he has represented the owner as an attorney.

OAK APARTMENTS — Approved a master plan by Fabian Bobo for 58 apartment units on 3.37 acres at the northeast corner of South Novato Boulevard and Yukon Way and rezoning the front 1.37 acres from multiple family to planned residential.

MARIN HIGHLANDS — Introduced an ordinance to revise the master plan for the Olive Ridge Tennis Club on 33 acres at the southeast corner of Olive Avenue and Deer Island Lane to relocate the planned tennis tournament stadium to the area near the overflow parking lot.

ABAG COMMITTEES — Announced that any resident interested in serving on a planning committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments as a city representative should notify the city manager. Committees include open space, housing, health, finance, gcean coastline, regional airports systems, parks and regional organization.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 2:05 a.m. to a special meeting at 8 p.m. next Tuesday to discuss a proposed Capital Improvements budget and open space acquisition by a proposed park and open space district.

Plant Sale, Art Show Announced

Two events are on tap at the Novato Fair Shopping Center, the May Mart of the Novato Garden Club Friday and Saturdan and the fourth annual spring art show Saturday.

The garden club's plant sale will be conducted from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday and from 10:30 a.m. until sellout Saturday, with members selling plants from their own gardens.

Funds from plant sales will be used for beautification projects in the city, reported co-chairman Peg Smith and Mildred Thompson.

The art show, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, will feature work by Bay Area artists and craftsmen and art-in-action demonstrations by various artists.

Bruce Stone, instructor at the Ceramic Center in Terra Linda, will demonstrate the electric pottery wheel, Charles and Opal Staniek of Albany will demonstrate macrame and stitchery, Hester Tufts of Sonoma, painting with oils, and Joseph Borsky of San Rafael, portraits.

Displays will include candles, hand-painted key rings, lapidary work, sculpture and photos on wood.

Janet Hawke of St. Helena, former owner of the Hatchery Gallery of St. Helena, will judge the show.

Enough Work To Pay Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After a little more than four months of toil the average American worker has finally earned enough to pay the federal and local taxes he will owe next year, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce estimated today.

It said the Jan. 1 to May 10 period it took to meet tax liability was the same as 1971.

Put another way, the average employee spends two hours and 51 minutes of each eight-hour day working off his tax liability.

"Rather than talk about more spending and newer taxes, government should determine just what taxpayers are getting for their present tax burden," said Arch Booth, the chamber's national vice president.

Gamblers Drop $165.9 Million

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—Gamblers dropped a record $165.9 million at the tables and slot machines of Navada's casinos during the first three months of the year.

Edward Bowers, executive secretary of the State Gaming Control Board, credited an upturn in the economy for a 17 per cent increase in casino winnings during January, February and March.

The Las Vegas area was the busiest, with casinos raking in $115.2 million.

Will Show Film

Herschel Johnson, assistant Marin County assessor, will show a film related to his field to Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce members at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at West Marin School, Point Reyes Station.

Sex Report On American Female

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A study of 4,611 women between the ages of 15 and 19 has concluded that 46 per cent of all unmarried American women have had sexual intercourse by the time they reach 19.

The report, prepared for the President's Commission on Population Growth and the American Future, also said teen-age girls are misinformed about the time during their menstrual cycle when they are most likely to become pregnant, and that a solid majority of teen-age girls use contraceptives infrequently or not at all.

The survey concluded that nationwide 13.8 per cent of all unmarried girls have experienced intercourse by the age of 15. For age 16 the figure is 21.2 per cent; age 17 it rises to 26.6 per cent; 37.1 per cent at age 18 and 46.1 per cent at age 19.

ABSOLUTE PRIVACY
is a hard thing to find these days, but here's a house that's got it, and great sun, and a nice view. The house itself is real funny. Lots of rooms, here and there, and porches and windows, all more or less in the modern manner. It needs some work, and taste, and imagination, but it has wonderful potential, if you know what you're doing. Lots of level land for outdoor living and tall trees all around. Interesting at $37,500. Our exclusive.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Too Much Acid Plays Role In Development Of Peptic Ulcer

Too much acid plays a role in the development of peptic ulcer. The stomach usually is overactive, and the lining is thickened due to strong churning movements. Most of these lesions respond to a bland diet, tranquility, and antacids. Anticholinergic drugs also help by divorcing the stomach from the nervous system. When an ulcer fails to heal, recurs, or complications ensue, surgery usually is necessary. This occurs in 15 per cent of the victims.

SOME OF these people failed to cooperate and refused to remain on a diet or take their medications. Others are plagued with emotional upsets that keep their stomach in a turmoil. Still others have no choice, even though they follow instructions to the letter.

There are several operations for peptic ulcer. The most popular involves removal of a small part, half, or the entire stomach in order to eliminate the acid-producing glands as well as the lesion. In many instances, a vagotomy also is done. This procedure involves severing the nerve that controls gastric acid motility and secretion.

THE SURGEON takes many factors into consideration before he selects the best procedure. Such factors as age, sex, past history of bleeding, perforation, and obstruction play a role. Weight is important, because underweight individuals do better if left with a larger stomach. When most of the gastric pouch is removed, the victim is relieved of distriess, but fails to gain weight and is weak and tired most of the time.

In contrast, removal of most of the stomach may be necessary in the younger person who uses considerable alcohol or is an avid smoker. The same applies to those with an "acid stomach" or with particular dietary likes and dislikes. On the other hand, a simple procedure is advocated when the victim is elderly or suffering from a cardiovascular disorder.

STRESS FROM WIDOWHOOD

A reader writes: How long does it take for a widow to get over the shock of losing her spouse?

REPLY

Stable and well adjusted women may never go into shock. Those who are insecure, emotionally immature, or feel sorry for themselves will continue to pine until they decide to be realistic.

REGENERATED LIVER

L. J. writes: Is elimination of liquor sufficient to stop the progress of cirrhosis of the liver in an alcoholic?

REPLY

Yes, provided some healthy liver cells remain.

Driver Is Given Second Drunken Driving Sentence

A Mill Valley man, sentenced Friday to five days in jail in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving, was sentenced Monday to five days in jail on another charge of drunken driving.

Kenneth Samuel Moreci, 24, of 16 South Knoll Road, Apt. 127, Mill Valley, was given the second sentence to run concurrently with the first by Judge David R. Baty. The first charge was made on Jan. 20 in Larkspur and the second charge was made Sept. 14 on Highway 101.

Three others sentenced Monday by Judge Baty are:

Francis Vernon Mulanax, 46, of San Francisco, arrested March 13 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Daniel Eugene McInerney, 26, of 129 Redwood Avenue, Corte Madera, arrested Jan. 12 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $182.

William Henry Kneass Jr., 40, of 6 Thomas Court, Ross, arrested March 29 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Bad Check Case To Superior Court

Michael John Ontiveros, 23, of San Francisco, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court after pleading innocent in Marin Municipal court to felony bad check charges.

He is to appear in superior court May 24 to face charges he tried to cash two stolen checks totaling $650 at the Redwood Bank in San Rafael last year.

Surplus Of $125 Million Is Forecast

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti says state government will end the current fiscal year with a whopping $125 million budget surplus, $80 million more than Gov. Ronald Reagan has forecast.

State Finance Director Verne Orr agreed the surplus "will be larger" than the $45 million the governor predicted in January when he sent his proposed state budget to the legislature.

But Orr declined Tuesday to confirm Moretti's figure. He said the surplus will be larger than expected due to a bigger than anticipated upturn in the economy and to additional administrative savings.

He plans to send revised revenue projections to the legislature May 18.

Moretti told reporters he believes the surplus will be "at least $125 million" and blamed the difference on what he called the "very, very conservative estimates of revenue by the Department of Finance."

Meantime, Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post reported revenues at the close of the next fiscal year will be "significantly higher" than either he or Orr had previously forecast.

The governor's budget as submitted called for a $158 million surplus on June 30, 1973. Post said at the time this was about $90 million too conservative.

Post credited both administrative savings and an unanticipated increase in sales tax revenue for the larger than expected 1973-74 budget surplus.

But he said the surpluses of both this year and next should be set aside for use in helping to finance local education in line with the state Supreme Court decision which last year held the current system of financing schools to be unconstitutional.

Moscow Continues To Get Ready For Nixon

MOSCOW (UPI)—Hello smiling, lovable GI Joe. Take a bow on Moscow television.

Goodbye, for the moment, imperialist Yankee killer. The public posters condemning you have gone into storage.

It is getting tougher and tougher for Soviet propagandists to keep smiling about President Nixon's visit and to justify it to the homefolks. But they have World War II going for them.

Tuesday, an hour or so after the Tass news agency condemned the "overt aggression" of Nixon's blockade order, Soviet television broadcast a long, loving reminiscence of the wartime alliance.

Newsreels showed American and Russian troops paddling rafts across Germany's Elbe River in 1945 at the moment of meeting between the victorious armies. Soldier kissed soldier, tears flowed, grins sprouted. GIs, their ranks and insignia clearly visible, snapped pictures of their new buddies and smiled for the camera.

Moscow's preparations for Nixons May 22 visit—psychological and otherwise—have been so low key as to nearly escape notice.

The obvious benefit of this soft-pedal, diplomats say, is that it will minimize the number of red Russian faces in the event the Kremlin decides it has to cancel the visit.

Many Moscow diplomats said they thought that had become a real possibility with Nixon's decision to blockade North Vietnam.

Nonetheless, preparations there are, and many of them aim at reviving warm recollections of the U.S.-Soviet alliance against Nazi Germany. The message is that the world has come to such a pass as to need that kind of close cooperation again.

Tuesday's television documentary, cast in honor of the day Moscow marks as Victory in Europe Day, showed U.S. and Soviet troops separately arresting German prisoners of war and liberating occupied towns. It beamed a picture of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower over words of affection. The soundtrack played, in English: "Glory, Glory Hallelujah. His truth is marching on."

Outside, wrecking crews and clean-up teams bustle about beautifying Moscow's streets at an unusually intensive pace. It could be just spring cleaning—with one exception.

There are several large billboards lining the boulevard to Sheremetyevo airport that have for years held antiAmerican posters, showing grinning, repulsive U.S. soldiers and pilots slaughtering Vietnamese.

Suddenly, quietly, they have been taken down.

Loud Party Ends In Marin Court

Four men arrested after a struggle with police at the scene of a loud party in San Rafael Saturday night have been charged only with misdemeanors in Marin Municipal Court.

Ralph Edward Westcott, 20, of Fairfax is charged with resisting arrest, battery and disturbing the peace. Paul Joseph Olbrantz, 19, of San Rafael and John Michael Gilbert, 19, of San Anselmo were charged with battery and resisting arrest and Michael Edward Jenkins, 21, of Fairfax was charged with resisting arrest.

Two San Rafael officers who went to quiet the party at 423 First Street called in all available help after one man began arguing with and pushing an officer. Seventeen patrol units from San Rafael, San Anselmo and the sheriff's department answered the distress call.

$250,000 Sought In Girl's Death

Former San Francisco 49er Robert A. Toneff and his wife yesterday filed a $250,000 damage suit against the persons they believe are responsible for the death of their teen-age daughter, killed by a hit-and-run auto near her home in Sleepy Hollow in March.

The suit filed in Marin Superior Court by attorney Leonard Shaw also asks $1,434 for the cost of 13-year-old Alene Toneff's burial.

Named as sharing the blame in the death are Robert Brian England, 19, of San Anselmo and his parents, Gary Michael Springett, 17, and his parents and Bernice and Lamont De Barbieri of Fairfax.

England, son of Robert Park England, former chairman of the San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Commission, pleaded guilty to a felony charge of killing the girl with his car and is to be sentenced May 30 under a plea bargain calling for no more than a year in jail.

Shaw contends that England was involved in a race up Butterfield Road with a car driven by Springett when his car hit the girl March 11 near Deer Hollow Road.

The De Barbieris, according to the suit, gave England "an excessive amount of alcoholic beverage" before the accident at 12:45 a.m.

The California Highway Patrol officers who responded to the accident said they found England at the wheel of his stalled vehicle, which had major front end damage. An unidentified youth, who was trying to start the car, fled when officers arrived.

A second girl walking home from a movie with Alene Toneff was also hit, but survived.

Grand Jury Indicts On Marin City Bomb Attempt

The Marin County Grand Jury last night indicted a 21-year-old member of the violent Black Liberation Army on a charge of possessing a firebomb when he was found crawling into a heating vent last month at the incomplete Marin City fire house and sheriff's substation.

Bail remained at $100,000 for Eddie Lee Griffin Jr. and he was ordered to appear in superior court Monday for arraignment on the charge which carries a maximum of five years in prison.

Griffin was caught by a deputy who had been assigned to guard the building at night since February when rumors circulated that the building would be burned.

The deputy, Raymond T. Rhia, said he caught Griffin crawling into the unfinished vent about 9 p.m. March 28 and made him carry the bomb away from the station.

The device exploded harmlessly about 10:45 p.m. making a series of about 40 pistol-like reports. Sheriff's officials said the device was designed to set the $110,000 building afire, then keep firefighters at bay by firing the .38 — calibre bullets.

When arrested, Griffin allegedly carried a pistol taken from a special policeman by two men who attacked him near Franklin Hospital in San Francisco Sept. 9.

Church Sponsoring Environment Film

Public showing of the film "Environment" at 8 p.m. today and tomorrow will be sponsored by the Community Congregational Church of Belvedere-Tiburon, in the church at 145 Rock Hill Drive, Tiburon.

The film was created by Donald Anawalt of the Department of Fine Arts of Washington State University as "a statement of the meaning of life through the media of pottery and film."

Arrigoni Lists His Supporters

Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. today reported that he has received 152 campaign contributions up to $250, but reported neither the amount of each contribution nor the total contributed to his campaign for reelection.

Campaign expenses totaled $5,331 as of Monday, he reported in a press statement.

Arrigoni noted that disclosure is not required until after the June 6 primary election, "but in the interest of a well informed electorate, I am making a full disclosure now."

A challenger, Barbara Boxer of Greenbrae, has issued two monthly reports itemizing contributions which totaled $2,630 as of April 30. The second challenger, Dr. William J. Filante of Greenbrae, has not joined the voluntary disclosures initiated by Mrs. Boxer.

The State Election Code requires identification of contributors and the amounts each gave only when the amount is $500 or more.

Situation Reversed

In reporting an accident between cars driven by Philip Isaac Frace of 510 Marin Oaks Drive, Novato and Donna Mae Hughson, 40, of 380 Alameda Del Prado, Novato, the Independent-Journal erred yesterday in reporting that the Frace car was hit from the rear by the Hughson car. It was just the reverse, the Hughson car was hit by the Frace car on Ignacio Boulevard, Sunday.

Housewife Victor In School Board Race

Gloria Ann Garrett, a Rohnert Park housewife, was elected yesterday to the Cotati School District board.

Unofficial vote totals showed Mrs. Garrett with 370 votes and Dr. Robert W. Smith with 128. A total of 498 of the 4,197 registered voters about 12 per cent cast ballots.

Mrs. Garrett, 36, is president of the Waldo Rohnert School Parent-Teachers Association. She and her husband, Stanley D. Garrett, have six children and live at 351 Bruce Avenue.

Mrs. Garrett will fill the board vacancy created by the resignation of Bart C. Mitchell, who ran unsuccessfully for the Rohnert Park City council in April.

At the school board meeting last night, Schools Supt. James H. Davidson reported that the week-long outdoor education program for sixth grade students scheduled to begin Sunday may be canceled.

He said the campgrounds near Gualala in Northern Sonoma County had an outbreak of dysentery last week and that health officials will advise later in the week if it is safe for youngsters to return.

In other business, the board set a special meeting for May 22 at 7:20 p.m. to interview six teacher applicants.

New Bay Ship Lanes Planned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Because of a 1971 collision of oil tankers, the Coast Guard has established new shipping lanes in San Francisco Bay.

"Marine highways" will extend six miles west of the Golden Gate, the guard said Tuesday, and incoming ships will be directed to the south side of the bridge's center. Outgoing ships will move on the north side.

Large ship observance of the patterns is voluntary but the guard said the marine industry has promised cooperation.

Guard Rail Hit; Three Injured

A San Francisco youth was reported in satisfactory condition today in Marin General Hospital with injuries suffered when a car in which he was a passenger struck a guard rail in Tiburon.

James M. Malaspina, 19, suffered a dislocated hip and broken jaw in the accident, which occurred shortly before 4 a.m. Sunday on Tiburon Boulevard.

Another passenger, William O'Connell, 19, also of San Francisco, was discharged from Marin General yesterday after treatment for facial cuts. A third San Franciscan, Andres Paniagua, 18, who was driving, suffered a cut nose.

Tiburon police said Paniagua's car was westbound west of Rock Hill Drive when the crash occurred.

Watson Attends Foes Conference

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Phillip E. Watson, the Los Angeles assessor, showed up Tuesday at a news conference called by opponents to his property tax freezing initiative.

Asked to leave the press club where the conference was being held, Watson told reporters he would hold his own conference on the sidewalk outside.

His opponents, who included chancellor Norman Topping of the University of Southern California, called the Watson Initiative "one of the most irresponsible pieces of legislation ever seen."

It would freeze property taxes at $7 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Vocational Program Expansion Is Sought

Marin's vocational program should be expanded, the Novato Unified School District board decided at a study meeting last night, according to Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley.

The program, which takes in the Tamalpais High School, San Rafael High School and Novato Unified School districts, gives vocational training to all ages, he said. It is run by the county schools office, he said.

Under the program, students, young people or adults can take vocational training in such things as auto mechanics, welding, plastics, office occupations and home economics.

Reports on the less able learner, individual instruction and inservice instruction of teachers, will be ready for the June 6 meeting, Mobley said.

The board held a closed meeting to discuss firing a teacher, but took no action, he said.

Coffee Scheduled

A coffee for Alan D. French, Democratic candidate in the Sixth Congressional District, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Mill Valley home of J. Paul Limont, 10 Eugene Street.

$9 TO $14 OFF!

DURING INTRODUCTORY PERIOD

LOW AS 36.95

E78-14 TUBELESS WHITEWALLS PLUS 2.82 F.E.T. EACH AND TRADE-IN OFF CAR

Our toughest tire yet! Two steel belts plus four polyester cord plies combine to give you tremendous resistance to puncture and impact damage without sacrificing a smooth ride.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
	Prorated on
40,000 miles	Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.
